NATO Allies Prod Canada But Troop Boost Unlikely

UNITED APPEAL NEEDS BIG FINAL PUSH

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria's United Appeal campaign is nearing the brink of a $40,000 failure and is lagging behind other leading Canadian cities.

Campaign chairman Robert Hutchison, outlining the situation today called on capital region residents for one last enthusiastic push.

"We have two weeks to go. We can still make the goal if community generosity matches the self-sacrifice of our 3,000 volunteer canvassers," he stated.

The $655,000 target figure, upon which 24 district welfare and service agencies depend, today stands at 73 per cent of its objective ($478,654).

Last year at this time the goal was 89 per cent realized. If this year's drive falls short of its aim, it will be the first failure since 1965, when it was $12,000 below the mark.

●

Mr. Hutchison pointed out that Victoria's position is out of step with United Appeals generally in Canada. An official report this week said most cities are chalking up a record level of giving.

Of a national objective of $49.37 million about $43.67 already has been collected—an increase of $2.5 million over the same date in 1967.

Twelve communities have over-subscribed their drives—St. John, N.B.; Montreal, Toronto; Peel County, Ont.; Brantford; Norfolk County, Ont.; Belleville, Regina, Estevan, Weyburn, Edmonton and Calgary.

Vancouver had surpassed the 86.5 per cent mark at last count.

Why is Victoria dragging its feet in contrast to the national scene?

Mr. Hutchison said local campaigners have found that while many donors acknowledged a nine per cent increase in the goal this year, many others have given only what they gave in 1967.

He also drew attention to the fact that, although more than 60,000 persons in the capital region are gainfully employed, there are indications that only 33,000 individuals will be listed as donors.

"That's barely more than one person in two. The challenge now facing canvassers is to reach the person who hasn't yet made a contribution."

●

He said the non-donors exist in every category of the community campaign, in payroll divisions and in business, industry, residential. Mr. Hutchison was hopeful most of them would be reached in the course of the remaining period of home canvass, or that they would bring donations to central collection sites.

"There are others who have given but might be prevailed upon to give more.

"If each person gives thought to the need, we can gain on our present position," he said.

The estimated position on the closing date, Dec. 2, by careful assessment, indicates that instead of $655,000 the fund will stand at $615,000, unless there is a new spurt of enthusiasm.

Mr. Hutchison said Victoria has a reputation of being a wealthy retirement area "and in the past the campaign has relied heavily on the generosity of retired people.

"But their incomes are in many cases fixed and inflation has been hurting them at the rate of about 5 per cent each year. They have a real reason for feeling a pinch. It's perhaps the non-retired areas of the community which should be digging deeper."

●

He pointed out that any "shortfall" in collections must be reflected in curtailment of programs by member agencies of the United Appeal.

He called on all canvassers to complete outstanding calls and for all outstanding donations, to be made, within a week.

Mr. Hutchison emphasized, "There are no funds being held back to make a dramatic finish.

"There are no generous donors sitting in the wings with large gifts, to make up the difference" as has been the case in some recent years.

Meantime, Hugh Curtis, Saanich mayor and chairman of the Capital Region District also issued an appeal for renewed citizen support.

He said he found the current situation "quite alarming."

He said he believes that some donors might hold back because they don't approve of some particular agency within the United Appeal.

"To penalize 23 agencies because you have a grudge against one, is really looking for an excuse," Mayor Curtis said.

"I know that the spending of the money collected is very carefully reviewed and the work is absolutely essential.

"In view of the deficit in the campaign, I make an earnest appeal to the people of Greater Victoria to give if they have not been canvassed, and to reconsider if they have declined to donate."

Council Spelling End To Czech Democracy

PRAGUE (AP) — The central committee of Czechoslovakia's Communist party met today for a crucial session amid widespread fear that it would wipe out the final traces of the year's liberal reforms.

The committee session in Prague Castle posed another threat to party chief Alexander Dubcek, who has been fighting for political survival every day since the Soviet invasion Aug. 20.

There was speculation that old guard Communists, who want to discredit Dubcek's regime and reverse its reforms, might open the battle by challenging the right of new committee members to take their seats. The committee Aug. 31 increased its membership by 87 to give it a liberal majority, and some old-line Communists argue that this was illegal without party-wide elections.

Public foreboding about the session was fed by recent restrictions on the press and on travel abroad.

Following student meetings to plan demonstrations against any further concessions to the Soviet occupiers, Deputy Premier Gustav Husak warned Wednesday night that if "any demonstrations take place in our streets in the coming days, we shall regard them as subversive against state and party and proceed accordingly."

Husak spoke in Bratislava. In Prague student and worker groups joined forces to plan demonstrations that might be allowed because they would stay out of the streets.

The CKD traction plant, Prague's largest factory, called for special Saturday and Sunday "Dubcek shifts" in which workers and students could gather in plants. Prague radio said students and workers would meet at several other plants.

WIRE BRIEFS

Snow Moves East

TORONTO (CP) — Eastern Canada's frosting of pre-winter snow, which levelled off at 18 inches in Montreal Wednesday afternoon after falling for two days, moved into Newfoundland Wednesday night, causing at least three deaths.

New Formula Looms

SALISBURY (CP) — Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith and Chief British negotiator George Thomson conferred for three hours today amid signs that some new formula for breaking the independence deadlock was under study. (See Page 15.)

Still Woo West

WARSAW (AP)—The Romanian delegate at the fifth Polish Communist party congress today declared his country's dedication to the East bloc's Warsaw Pact alliance but at the same time indicated Romania will continue to develop its relations with the West.

Consulate Bombed

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—Bombs damaged the British Consulate and the Guatemalan military casino in the centre of this capital city Wednesday night.

N. Vietnam Demands Cong Role in Talks

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam said today it would not negotiate with the United States unless the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is present at the table. (See story Page 52.)

It called on the United States to state clearly under what conditions it is prepared to resume the Paris peace talks.

A spokesman for Hanoi's delegation to the Paris conference said the position taken Tuesday by Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford "was ambiguous and requires urgent clarification."

Clifford told a news conference in Washington that if the Saigon government continues to boycott the talks, the United States should go ahead without it.

HIGHWAYMAN HAS TASTE FOR LIQUOR

CALGARY (CP)—A modern highwayman is operating on city streets.

Police report a man in a white car equipped with two aerials and a light on the roof has been stopping motorists and searching cars.

The man poses as a policeman and confiscates any liquor he finds.

Night Club Fracas Ends In Arrests

City police are questioning five men and a woman following a knife and gun incident at a downtown night club early this morning.

The drama began around 1 a.m. when a group of people causing a disturbance were asked to leave.

A member of the group produced a switchblade knife and inflicted a minor wound on the leg of Tony Else, manager of AJ's.

The group then left and later returned with what is described as a "large revolver."

The pistol was pointed at the head of another employee and the trigger pulled three times. The revolver did not discharge and the group left again.

Area police were notified to be on the lookout for the group.

Police arrested them at a residence on Catherine Street at about 7 a.m. today.

A spokesman said members of the group were still being questioned at press time and charges were pending.

Persons charged as a result of the incident will likely appear in court Friday morning.

Nixon to Hear From LBJ On Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon said today he has President Johnson's assurance—and insistence—that Nixon, the incoming president of the United States, be consulted in advance on any major foreign policy decision prior to his inauguration Jan. 20.

Nixon said that is essential so that any action taken by the current administration "will be a decision that I would have approved of and not one that I would have rejected."

He said that is the case because such decisions would be likely to carry over from the current administration to the next.

"If the United States is unable to speak with one voice it cannot speak at all" in foreign affairs, Nixon said.

Nixon announced his understanding with Johnson in naming career diplomat Robert Murphy to be his personal liaison man with the Johnson administration.

Ottawa Policy Holds Spotlight

Times News Services

BRUSSELS—Defence Minister Leo Cadieux outlined Canada's view of the Czechoslovakia crisis to his NATO allies today but details of the brief were not immediately available.

It was believed Cadieux told the NATO defence planning committee that the invasion of Czechoslovakia last August did not require a beefing up of Canada's military contribution to the alliance.

He delivered his brief amid reports that the other delegations were furious about Canada's "indecision" on NATO policy.

External Affairs Minister Minister Sharp, in an interview in Brussels, said practically all the countries in NATO have been prodding Canada to find out if Ottawa is planning to cut back Canadian forces.

Canada has a 5,000-man mechanized infantry brigade, four squadrons of nuclear-strike bombers and two photo-reconnaissance squadrons, all stationed in West Germany.

Prime Minister Trudeau is believed to have informed the Canadian delegation to hold the line on new commitments to NATO pending the outcome of a Canadian review of defence policy, scheduled for completion early in 1969.

NEXT YEAR

Canada is reported to be planning to cut back its NATO forces but not withdraw entirely, according to Ottawa sources. This reduction, however, likely will await next year's defence planning report.

Ottawa has failed in its efforts to reduce its defence spending.

There is $1,746,000,000 set aside for military expenditures in 1968-69, or $58 million more than in the previous fiscal year.

THREE DAYS

The United States today opened the three-day session in Brussels by assuring the NATO allies the Republican administration which takes over Jan. 20 will not alter the U.S. commitment to defend western Europe against unprovoked attack.

But at the same time, Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford and State Secretary Dean Rusk let the other NATO defence ministers know that Americans feel they are shouldering a disproportionately heavy share of the defence burden.

Norway, Denmark, West Germany, The Netherlands, Britain and the U.S. announced new contributions to NATO as a result of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August.

Rusk and Clifford apparently based their assurances of continued defence backing for Europe under the Republican administration on President-elect Richard M. Nixon's announcemen that President Johnson speaks for the next administration in matters of foreign affairs.

UNFAIRLY HIGH

Defence Secretary Denis Healey of Britain noted the existence of "strong feelings" inside the United States that the U.S. share of the defence burden is unfairly high.

CAMPBELL

NATO Envoy Resignation Yarn Denied

BRUSSELS (CP) — Ross Campbell, Canadian ambassador to NATO here, today denied saying he is considering quitting his post because of Canada's uncertain position on NATO armed forces.

"Of course I'm not considering resigning," he said in an interview after he had been quoted by a Toronto radio station as saying he had thought of doing this.

A clear exposition of Canada's commitments in European armed forces is being held up pending a review of government policy. Allies at the NATO ministerial meeting here are reported concerned at the Canadian position.

Campbell had a cocktail party for a large number of diplomats and press people Wednesday night, but said today he had made no statements whatever to reporters.

"The story is false but very embarrassing," he added.

"If I tender advice, I tender it privately to the two ministers concerned (External Affairs Minister Sharp and Defence Minister Cadieux) for the government," the ambassador said.

Sharp was drawn into the incident at a mid-morning press conference and repeated Campbell's denial that he had made any statement to the press of the kind quoted.

"If reporters go around at parties and listen in on conversations, I don't know what they'd hear me say," the minister said.

Wingless Craft Amazes Experts in Test Flight

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A critical test over, U.S. space officials planned today for higher and longer flights for what may be the space ferry of the future.

The HL-10 lifting body may fly again within two weeks. National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said after Wednesday's successful test of the wingless craft's manoeuvrability under sustained power.

Some NASA officials who watched the flight at Edwards Air Force Base said they believed that—reinforced, enlarged and with a heat shield—the wedge-shaped 22-foot long vehicle soon could be ready to take the place of capsules atop rocket boosters.

"I sure have a lot of confidence in that plane now," said pilot John A. Manke, a civilian research engineer after landing the HL-10 on Rogers Dry Lake here, 90 miles north of Los Angeles.

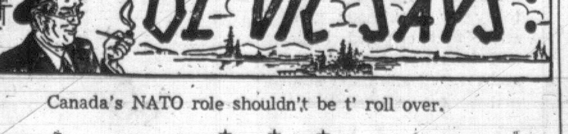
HL stands for horizontal land and 10 for the 10th design of the craft.

Dropped from the wing of a B-52 jet bomber at 40,000 feet, the HL-10 descended to 35,000 feet, then climbed to 43,250 feet as Manke, on his 37th birthday, fired two of four chambers of an 8,000-pound thrust rocket engine.

The engine burned for 184 seconds, nine times as long as in the only other powered flight Oct. 23, when only one chamber fired and the craft was unable to climb.

Six minutes after being released from the mother ship and attaining a 610-mile-an-hour maximum speed, the HL-10 was back down skimming across the baked lake bed at 200 m.p.h.

Eventual tests call for speeds of more than 1,000 m.p.h. and altitudes up to 70,000 feet. Engineers hope to demonstrate the HL-10's ability to ride into orbit, ferry as many as a dozen astronauts between space stations, and return to earth with the gliding range and manoeuvrability to give the pilot a choice of landing sites over several thousand miles.



Canada's NATO role shouldn't be t' roll over.

Last Steps Under Way To Clear Crystal Site

Victoria city council moved today to expropriate the final properties on 1½ acres of land to clear the way for a new Crystal Garden.

Eight properties remain to be acquired in the new pool area one block south of Central Park.

Ald. Percy Frampton, chairman of the city's recreation and community services committee, said he anticipated no further problems in clearing the site pending pool construction, which he hopes will start next year.

"After all council has already agreed that the Crystal should be demolished, it has already been approved that we spend $200,000 on land acquisition, and it has already been agreed in open council that the new pool should be in this area," he said.

CAN'T ABOUT-FACE

"I don't see how anyone can do an about-face now."

The geographical boundaries of the new pool will be Green Street on the north, Caledonia on the south and Vaocouver on the east.

The property acquired, or to be acquired by expropriation, runs 300 feet in a westerly direction from Vancouver but does not reach Quadra.

Ald. Frampton said he was not too worried about the obviously promoted attempts to launch a "save the old Crystal" drive.

"Most of the people saying 'hold on to the Crystal' don't know what they're talking about," he said. "Sure, it is a nice old building. But it is also unsafe.

"Why not build a new Crystal Garden?"

NEW NAME

The alderman added that while no new name for the 1969 pool project had been decided he strongly favored The New Crystal Garden.

"I like the idea and when I tried it on the mayor a few days ago, he liked the idea, too."

In addition to sticking with the old name for the new pool, Ald. Frampton said he even hoped to incorporate some of the famous features of the now-condemned swimming pool into the new design.

"The final design has to be decided on, of course, but I can't see any reason why we shouldn't have a partially glass roof in the new pool.

"Not a dome-shaped one, but a sliding glass effort which could be opened during summer weather. That's what I'm hoping for, anyway."

DETERIORATED TRUSSES

In the meantime, city officials are hoping they can get through the coming winter without having to close the old pool to the public.

Structural engineers have already warned that the pool must be closed in the event of a heavy snowfall because steel support trusses have deteriorated to a point where no extra weight could be carried.

Public works committee chairman Ald. Cecil Parrott said he would not hesitate to recommend immediate closure of the pool in the event of a snowfall.

Ald. Parrott noted that maintenance expenditures in the first nine months of this year were running close to $1,000 a month.

"And that is over and above general maintenance costs," he said. "The money is being spent just to bring the pool and dressing rooms into line with minimum health requirements," Ald. Parrott stressed.

Russian Threat Up Not Down—Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Pentagon official says a report prepared by his office for the U.S. delegation to a NATO meeting was wrong in its assessment of the Soviet threat in Central Europe after the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

A. C. Enthoven apologized in a letter to Senator John S. Cooper (Rep., Ky.) for what he said was the erroneous conclusion that the Soviets were weaker after the Czech invasion last August.

Enthoven said he believes instead that the next Soviet threat to Central Europe "has significantly increased, not reduced."

Enthoven is the defence department's assistant secretary for systems analysis, a key post created by former defence chief Robert McNamara in 1961.

He referred to an appraisal drawn up by his staff for top U.S. officials including Cooper as they prepared to attend the NATO meetings now under way in Brussels, Belgium.

In a Nov. 7 letter to the senator, a member of the foreign relations committee, Enthoven said the wording of the memorandum created "an impression which is opposite to the views which I hold and which careful government assessments of the Czech situation confirm."

The thrust of Enthoven's original memorandum remained unchanged: That NATO forces remain inadequate and should be upgraded.

Canada's NATO partners, particularly in the light of the Czechoslovak invasion by Russia—which resulted in the calling of this meeting a month ahead of schedule.

In the Commons this week Prime Minister Trudeau said Canada should, as far as possible, avoid commitments that would pre-judge the result of the review. He also said he did not feel that NATO forces should necessarily be escalated because of Czechoslovakia, at least pending consultation with allies.

Sharp said today the delegation had come over here with only tentative instructions on the Czechoslovak point but, after consultations in Brussels, had reached a final decision.

"We will have at the conference a very clear position and there will be no ambiguity," he said.

He declined to reveal the position in advance.

He added he expected the outline of the position would prove satisfactory to members of Canada's NATO parliamentary delegation here, some of whom have been grumbling at lack of clarity on the Canadian stand.

However, he refused to reply directly to Senator Dan Lang of Toronto, who said Wednesday that Canadian government "equivocation" has discredited Canada in the eyes of her allies.

Metchosin To Remain By Itself

Ratepayers in the rural district of Metchosin Wednesday night voted against becoming a district municipality along with Colwood and Langford.

A resolution endorsed by a 90 per cent vote requested Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell to leave out Metchosin in a proposed incorporation referendum.

Residents also turned down a proposal that Metchosin become a separate municipiality.

The Metchosin fire protection district takes an area bounded by Duke Road south right through to Peddar Bay. It does not include Albert Head or Happy Valley.

John Tipton, a spokesman for a group in favor of incorporation, said he was disappointed that the vote was taken by a "show of hands" and not by a secret ballot.

Metchosin's request to be left out of the referendum may mean that Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell may have to reconsider his decision to hold a vote sometime in February of next year.

Cross-Country Race Scheduled

The annual Admiral Nelles cross-country invitational race will be held at Royal Roads Military College Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

About 40 four-man teams are expected to enter the 4.2 mile event.

Invitations have been extended to runners at universities and armed forces bases throughout B.C. as well as many Vancouver Island and mainland high schools.

There will be two classes in the race, open and high school.

Hotel Owners Slam Barmen —Can't Even Mix Martini

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia hotelmen complained Wednesday that the Beverage Dispensers' Union sent them barmen who didn't even know how to mix martinis.

Delegates to the B.C. Hotels Association annual convention also complained that the union had a closed shop on the Lower Mainland and hiring of beer parlor, cocktail lounge and other liquor dispensing establishments was done through the union.

Delegates passed a resolution calling on the provincial liquor control board to enforce the Licencing Act in order to give them better employees.

Other resolutions called for the right to hire female help in all licenced premises and permission to serve liquor by the glass in hotel rooms.

Commenting on the complaints Jim Morris, a Beverage Dispensers' executive, said union workers are carefully screened and barmen are trained in mixing cocktails, and general operation of a bar.

He said that if the hotelmen have men who can't mix a martini on their staff, "they are gypping the public." He said most of the barmen in the Lower Mainland had been on the job for five or six years.

In other business Wednesday, E. J. Vernon of Vancouver was re-elected association president for his third term.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Cloud cover in coastal areas kept overnight temperatures well above freezing. Showers persisted along the coast.

A Pacific weather system will bring rain to the extreme south coast this afternoon while showers continue along the north coast. It will be sunny in the interior with a few afternoon snow flurries in northern areas.

The cloud cover will break along the south coast Friday as the weather system moves into Oregon. Colder air accompanied by snow flurries will invade the northern part of the Prince George region while the remainder of the interior continues cloudy. Showers should persist along the coast.

Chileans Engulf Monarch

VALPARAISO (AP) — Police shoved back cheering crowds that almost engulfed Queen Elizabeth today after her arrival in this Chilean city.

To the cheers of thousands and under a blazing sun, the Queen and Prince Philip arrived here by motorcade from Quintero Air Base.

She had just finished a speech thanking the city for making her an honorary citizen when the crowds broke through police lines and rushed toward her.

Police formed a circle around the Queen and guarded her way to the monument of a British naval hero, Lord Cochrane.

It was the first such incident since the Queen began her tour of South America. She came here from Santiago.

Women Press For Abortion

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of women advocating repeal of criminal sanctions against abortion appealed for legislative support today with a vivid demonstration on Parliament Hill.

Led by Lore Perron, president of the Association for the Modernization of Canadian Abortion Laws, the small group mounted a display outside Parliament's main entrance showing instruments and fluids they say are used privately—and dangerously—to procure illegal abortions.

Reform of the abortion law is expected to be included in a general amendment of the Criminal Code the government hopes to introduce before Christmas.

Educators Plan Read-In With Thalberg

More than 200 educators will consider the various reading programs followed in North American schools during a "read-in" Saturday.

The group, teachers from Vancouver Island schools, will meet at the University of Victoria for the first meeting this year of the V.I. branch of the International Reading Association.

Dr. Stan Thalberg, director of the regional reading centre of Bothell, Washington, will discuss current programs under the topic "Fads and Fancy, Fiddle and Faddle."

A noted specialist and researcher into various reading techniques, Dr. Thalberg holds his Ph.D. in educational psychology.

Headed by Mrs. Norma Mickelson, of the Uvic education department, the reading association had 150 members last year.

The session will be held in Room 144 of the education-arts (McLaurin) building from 9:30 a.m. until 12.

Fight to the End—Biafra

UMUAHIA (CP) — Lt.-Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's head of state, called Wednesday for a negotiated solution of the Nigerian civil war and said his people are determined to fight to the end against federal attempts to impose a military solution.

Ojukwu reiterated his call for a ceasefire and said this might set the stage for a peace mission such as that now being carried out by Sweden's Gunnar Jarring in the Middle East. Jarring has been at it for a year and has little to show for his efforts.

The 35-year-old head of the breakaway Biafrans told reporters and a group of visiting parliamentarians, including two from Canada, that a just solution of the conflict would be one based on Biafra's right to self-determination.

"The prerequisite is a ceasefire," Ojukwu said. "No matter how long the war goes on, an eventual settlement must be worked out around the mahogany table."

Federal Nigeria would like to force Biafra into surrendering but war will not solve the present problem, which is one of rejection of the Biafran people by the rest of the country, Ojukwu said.

"Come what may, no matter how greatly outgunned, our people are determined to continue to fight . . . till the aggressor has left our land."

Ojukwu said he was impressed by Prime Minister Trudeau's "attitude of inquiry" into the civil war.

He asked the two Canadian MPs present at the news conference to convey thanks to Trudeau for "wanting to know about the plight of our people."

The two MPs are Liberal Ralph Stewart of Cochrane and New Democrat Lorne Nystrom of Yorkton-Melville, who came to Biafra last week under the auspices of the B'nai Brith Society. They planned to visit federal Nigeria next.

Ojukwu said the military situation is "not desperate" for Biafra. In the last four weeks, any movement had been to Biafra's advantage. There was no question of capitulation.

"Come what may, our people will survive."

Ojukwu denied reports that Biafra is receiving military help from France. He denounced Britain as "a direct accomplice in genocide" because of her continued arms shipments to federal Nigeria.

He ridiculed the international observer team, now in Nigeria investigating Biafran charges of genocide by federal forces against the Ibo people—mainly the Biafrans.

He found "typical" the statement made by an unidentified observer that Nigeria's Col. Benjamin (Black Scorpion) Adekunle had not shown him (the observer) any evidence of genocide.

The Canadian member of the observer team is Lt.-Col. E. B. M. (Bert) Pinnington of Cobalt, Ont.

U.S. Election Uvic Topic For Lecture

Frederick Townsend, former assistant attorney for the State of Washington and campaign worker in the recent elections for governor, will address the Uvic political forum Friday.

He will speak on the aftermath of the United States presidential election in Room 167 of the Elliott Building.

Mr. Townsend worked on the campaign of Democrat Jack O'Connell, Washington attorney-general, who was seeking the governor's chair.

Unemployment Takes Above-Average Jump

OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment took an above-average upswing between September and October, increasing by 26,000 to 288,000, which was 34,000 higher than a year earlier, a government survey showed today.

Unemployment at mid-September was estimated at 262,000 and in October, 1967, at 254,000.

The joint report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and manpower department put the unemployment rate at 3.6 per cent of the labor force, compared with 3.3 per cent in October, 1967, and 2.6 per cent in October, 1966.

The seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate was 5.1 per cent.

The report, based on a sample survey of about 35,000 households across Canada, said that 38 per cent of the 288,000 unemployed had been out of work for less than a month. Some 33 per cent had been unemployed for one to three months and 29 per cent for four months or more.

The labor force increased by 24,000 to 7,995,000 in the month, also an above-average increase, and by 304,000 over the year.

The job picture in brief, with estimates in thousands:

	Oct. 1968	Sept. 1968	Oct. 1967
Labor Force	7,995	7,971	7,691
Employed	7,707	7,709	7,437
Unemployed	288	262	254

SHOWS NO CHANGE

Total employment stood at an estimated 7,707,000, virtually no change from September.

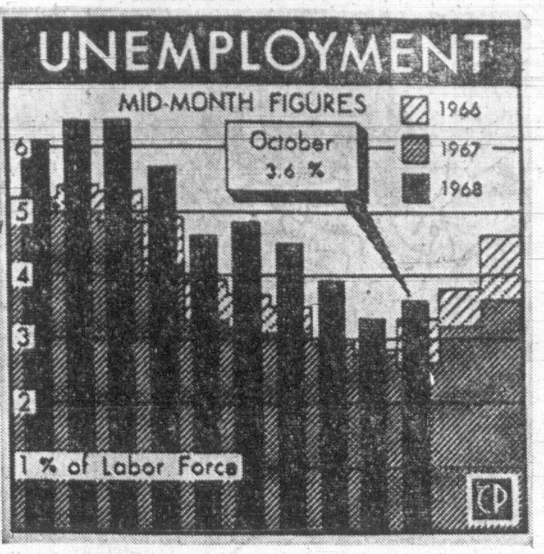
Non-farm employment increased by 26,000 in the month, offsetting a decline of 28,000 in farm employment. Gains of 34,000 were recorded in trade and of 27,000 in community, business and personal services.

Employment dropped by 36,000 in manufacturing and by 17,000 in transportation, communication and other utilities.

Employment rose during the month by 27,000 in Ontario and by 9,000 in the Prairie region. It declined by 23,000 in Quebec and by 14,000 in the Atlantic region and was virtually unchanged in British Columbia.

Employment was higher than a year ago in all regions except the Atlantic, with the largest relative advance in the Prairies at 6.3 per cent.

The survey's estimates do not include students and housewives who have sought outside work, persons too old or otherwise unable to work and the voluntarily idle or retired.



UNEMPLOYMENT situation as compared with 1967 and 1966 is shown in graph. Those without jobs increased by 34,000 over same period last year. (CP Newsmap.)

Fierce Dispute Among Bishops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fierce battle among U.S. Roman Catholic bishops has raised doubts they can reach quick consensus on birth control and issue a pastoral letter to guide their troubled church.

The proposed wording of a letter brought before a closed meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops drew such fire Wednesday that it forced a night-long rewriting session.

The dispute raised some doubt whether the bishops would be able to shape a stand on either the birth control controversy or the morality of the war on Vietnam before their windup Friday.

The bishops took a preliminary sounding on the pastoral statement in a test vote kept so secret not even the church leaders were told how it came out.

But the result was obvious when a special seven-man panel moulding the birth control statement went into a long afterhours meeting to try to revise the pastoral letter.

Control Of Firms Extended

VANCOUVER (CP) — Control by the British Columbia Securities Commission over the Commonwealth Trust group of companies was extended for a further eight days Wednesday by the British Columbia Supreme Court.

Acting for the commission, Vancouver lawyer C. C. Lock told Mr. Justice Victor Dryer that it appeared "funds have been shifted from one company to another in complicated transactions."

He said it was necessary for Vancouver chartered accountant A. T. Stanley to remain in control of the group of companies "until the investigation is completed and the results known and assessed."

Mr. Stanley was made receiver of Commonwealth Investors Syndicate Ltd., Commonwealth Acceptance Corp. Ltd., Commonwealth Savings Plan Ltd. and Diversified Income Shares Series A and B on Nov. 6. The next day he was named receiver of Centennial Mortgage Corp. Ltd.

The securities commission application to have the assets of the organizations frozen coincided with seizure by the RCMP of books and records from the firms.

Meanwhile, an order lifting the freeze on bank accounts and cheques of the four firms was approved.

Railway Issue Stirs House

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP) — Newfoundland Conservatives treated the Commons Wednesday to another showing of the Great Train Robbery, a government of Canada production starring Jack Pickersgill and the members of the Canadian transport commission.

Unlike the old-time silent movie, this version has plenty of sound effects and the railway pulls off the heist. Newfoundland's residents provide the cast of thousands.

By staging their show through much of Wednesday's sitting, the Newfoundland MPs helped block final passage of a measure to finance activities of the CNR and Air Canada, the two government-owned transportation systems.

The Newfoundland members strongly opposed CNR plans, approved by the Canadian transport commission, to abandon rail passenger service in Newfoundland and substitute a bus service.

Second reading—approval in principle—was given the measure earlier and third reading, the final Commons step, is usually a formality.

PICK ON PICKERSGILL

James A. McGrath (PC—St. John's East) said until it became national policy that the CNR be allowed to scrap passenger service in every other province, "we will oppose it."

J. W. Pickersgill, former Newfoundland MP, former transport minister in the Liberal cabinet and now president of the transport commission, was singled out for particular mention by John Lundrigan (PC—Gander-Twillingate).

"I'm not against Jack Pickersgill making $40,000 a year," Mr. Lundrigan said, oozing sarcasm. He also was not against the "autocrats and bureaucrats" rounding out the commission membership making $24,000 each a year.

But he did object to the transport commission approving the CNR passenger service abandonment when virtually every Newfoundland citizen was against it.

There had been dozens of petitions against the CNR move. He had just received one with more than 2,400 names.

Mr. McGrath and Mr. Lundrigan said the Conservatives in Newfoundland campaigned before the last election on a plank that CNR passenger service should be improved and upgraded instead of scrapped.

On June 25, the voters elected six Conservatives and only one Liberal. This amounted to a plebiscite against scrapping the passenger service and the government should heed the people's wishes.

Mr. Lundrigan said when public hearings were held in St. John's on the rail abandonment proposal every brief except that presented by the CNR was against the move.

The CNR had argued that passenger service in Newfoundland ran $1,000,000 in the red. But the transport commission cost Canadian taxpayers $1,000,000 a year.

Walter Carter (PC—St. John's West) said scrapping the passenger service would be a betrayal of the terms of union that brought Newfoundland into Canada as the 10th province in 1949.

Air Canada also was the target for some licks.

Steve Paproski (PC—Edmonton Centre) scored Air Canada for reducing its winter service to Edmonton.

He said the number of seats a week on flights to Vancouver had been cut to 2,900 from 4,200 a week. On flights to Winnipeg, the number had been reduced to 2,300 from 3,300.

The winter schedule made the airline's service to the Alberta capital a disgrace and an insult.

Underground Movement

IN 29 NEW REGULATIONS GOVerning the disposal of garbage in the Greater Victoria area, the Metropolitan Board of Health imposes on municipalities and garbage collecting firms a strict procedure which should go far to remove the air and land pollution which for so many years has been a dominant feature of our local systems.

As of next January 1, all burning of refuse will halt, and the new method of spreading, compacting and covering the garbage will be obligatory. Stringent rules will govern all dumping areas, and each day's dump of garbage must be covered with earth within the working hours of the operation.

The regulations call for adequate equipment — graders, bulldozers, tampers and other necessary machinery—and prescribe the depth of fill between covering layers, the proper drainage of the site, protection against seepage of pollutants and other safeguards. Sites must be laid out by engineers, and frequent inspections will be made by Health Board officials.

Granted a sufficient number of suitable sites can be found, this system and its close supervision promise to provide adequate service for many years to come. But it is obvious that as the population doubles, and more and more districts become built up in the region, there must come a day when even crush-and-fill methods will no longer be possible. It is then that still more expensive means will have to be found to meet the situation.

Sewage and garbage disposal are emerging as the two major community problems of this era of the population explosion and affluent living. The methods of a generation and more ago—which we have clung to throughout the present generation—are no longer good enough. We may as well face the fact that concentration of people in larger and larger communities creates a much more expensive manner of living than did the earlier environment.

If we wish to enjoy the benefits of expanded-group living then we must be prepared to pay the cost. This means higher charges for garbage disposal, higher charges for transport and treatment of sewage, if we are to avoid the steady pollution of our land, air and water environment. Clearly, it is no longer a matter of choice but of necessity.

The High Cost of Style

IN THE DEBATE OVER AUTOmobile insurance coverage there is one point on which almost everyone can agree: premiums are too high. The increasing number of accidents brought about by the car population explosion should almost be balanced out by the larger number of people paying into insurance funds, but each year premiums keep going up. This reflects the fact that of all statistics concerned with auto accidents, property damage is rising at the fastest rate. One culprit is automobile design, according to Edward Daniels, a recognized U.S. authority in the insurance claims field.

Efforts by the auto-makers to re-style their product cost all owners more money in the form of higher insurance costs. One of the new bumper-grille combinations is held together by a total of 57 bolts and takes three men to install and align. It is impossible to tow some cars without causing $100 damage.

Aluminum radiators are being installed in larger numbers each year, although there is no way to repair them. And in some cars there is so little space between the fan and the radiator that the radiator is damaged in rear-end collisions. The hidden windshield wipers advertised so proudly can lead to added costs in accidents.

All these "features" boost repair shop bills. They are imposed without any reference to the wishes of the public—especially those who prefer to drive more simply-designed automobiles. There are other changes the car-makers could introduce that would result in large reductions in injury and damage. It has been estimated that a total annual saving of $1 billion would be effected in the United States if bumpers instead of being merely decorative were made functional enough to withstand a crash at a mere five to ten miles an hour.

It becomes a question of how much the public is prepared to pay for "style." At present this is a decision made solely by the auto companies. Governments have placed countless limitations on individual motorists in the interests of traffic safety. The time has come when we should be paying more attention to the design of the product itself.

What Price Dissent?

THERE ARE SIMILARITIES BEtween recent court cases in the United States and the Soviet Union which raise basic questions about the rights of the individual whose beliefs conflict with those of the state. In each case the defendants defied the state as a matter of conscience; none recanted or expressed remorse for what he had done. They are not criminals in the usual sense of the word, but still they are in jail.

In the Soviet Union the accused were jailed for staging an act of protest against their government's military intervention in Czechoslovakia. In the United States the accused were jailed for leading an act of protest against their government's military intervention in Vietnam. It is not a question of whether one government's action was more justified than the other's, only that a citizen took it upon himself to protest and was silenced by the state.

The irony is that each group is considered heroes and martyrs—in the other's country. It is this fact that should cause both governments to pause and consider the implications of their actions. The placard-carrier in Moscow's Red Square and the draft-card burner in New York are both guilty of breaking the law, but both are acting from a similar motive—outrage at the policy of their government. It is obvious that the American dissenter has more room for protest than his Russian counterpart but this has not diminished his feeling of frustration and has driven him to more extreme actions.

To what extent should such demonstrations be allowed and how severe should the penalties be for violations? Freedom cannot exist without restraints and restrictions, but where do you define their limits?

The rest of the world condemned the German population for not standing up against Hitler for what they knew was right. How can governments today be so sure of the rightness of their cause that they can stamp out dissent?

There are no easy answers to these questions but just asking them should make obvious the need for great tolerence by the state toward protest and opposition to its policies. Long prison terms will not solve the state's dilemma, nor will they in the long run make its path any easier.

FROM UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

U.S. Cold Front Moving to South Africa

IS time running out for South Africa in the United States government? UN circles are discussing the possibility with revived interest following a remarkable speech Friday by Senator John Sherman Cooper (Republican of Kentucky). Cooper told a committee of the 125-nation UN General Assembly there was a "current of opinion in the Congress which share" that the United States should "disengage itself from South Africa in trade and investment as long as South Africa continues its policy of apartheid (extreme white supremacy)."

Frye

This comment did not commit even the Johnson administration, much less the incoming Nixon one.

It was simply a statement of opinion—but one from a highly influential legislator representing a border state, a member of the senate foreign relations committee, and an outside possibility as secretary of state in the Nixon administration.

Moreover, while senatorial members of the American UN delegation are permitted a good deal of latitude in their speeches, they rarely depart drastically from official government policy. All such speeches are cleared in Washington.

When anyone representing the United States in the UN does get out ahead of policy, it is taken here to be a hint that the policy may be in the process of change.

Nothing 'Fruitful'

Joseph Palmer II, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, has just returned from a trip to Africa, including South Africa. State Department sources emphatically deny that he reached an accord with Pretoria, as widely reported, or that his talks with South African officials were "fruitful," as some news stories stated.

On the contrary, they say, the two sides agreed on practically nothing. They each explained, with some force, their respective views, but neigher significantly influenced the other.

The only important respect in which current policies of Washington and Pretoria converge, even in part, it is said, is on the desirability of a settlement which would end Rhodesia's dispute with Britain.

Pretoria is credited with helping press Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith toward such a settlement, while at the same time giving him economic support that has enabled him to fend off UN sanctions and thus perpetuate his country's fragile independence.

American policy toward South Africa has been to denounce the widely acknowledged cruelties of apartheid, but to resist economic sanctions and other major pressures which Africans believe are necessary to bring about peaceful change.

The policy has been called "running with the hounds but making sure not to catch the fox."

Communist delegates often charge that this policy is a hypocritical effort to reap the benefits of $667,000,000 in direct American investment in South Africa (1967 figure) and roughly $650,000,000 in trade (the estimated 1968 total of American exports and imports).

Many African diplomats, even some normally friendly to the United States, have "bought" this thesis. It influences them to such an extent that economic ties between Washington and Pretoria are regarded as a severe handicap—some say an "albatross"—for American diplomacy.

State Department officials have urged that Washington dramatize the sincerity of its opposition to apartheid by cutting down on trade, prohibiting new investment, requiring American concerns in South Africa to adopt fair-labor practices, and perhaps even forcing withdrawal of existing investment.

The Commerce Department, however—backed by interested business concerns—has successfully disputed the necessity and efficacy of such steps in influencing Pretoria's policies.

As a measure to rectify the balance of payments, new investment in South Africa was prohibited on Jan. 1, 1968; but no further steps have been taken, and UN proposals that all countries join in such measures have met with American resistance.

'Getting Off Target'

Cooper sided Friday with the African bureau of the State Department and other advocates of "getting America off the target" where South Africa is concerned.

However, African countries drafting proposals for UN action at the present assembly session are expected to demand steps so much more drastic that the United States once again will feel obliged to hold aloof in the voting. No real test of official Washington opinion having been provided.

Letters

Halloween Sadism

Having read in the Victoria Daily Times of the sadism attached to Hallowe'en, how low can people be? To have this happen in Victoria makes one feel we have sick people amongst us. I think the law should take strong measures to deal with these children-haters before they do harm to our younger set.—H. J. Hansen, 830 McClure.

To Save Children

Six hundred million children are looking for help. They are hungry, cold and without hope. There is a way to help them by buying Save the Children Fund Christmas cards at 1012 Broad Street, from 10 to 4 daily throughout November. There is a good selection.—Gertrude E. McGill, Local Representative SCF.

Defence of Vienna

I was very much interested in a letter published in Friday's Times (Nov. 8) about a play called "Measure For Measure," reportedly depicting Vienna in the most objectionable way.

I did not see the play, but as I am also from Vienna, and know the town and its people, I was very much shocked that anybody had the meanness to depict that delightful city and its charming inhabitants in this disgusting low way. I would very much like to get in touch with Mr. C. W. Berger who so bravely stood up for Vienna which we both love and know so well—(Miss) F. Margaret Drake, 966 Transit.

Disappointing View

After spending a thoroughly enjoyable evening at the recital presented by "The Men Of Song" under the sponsorship of the Victoria Musical Arts Society, we felt very disappointed at the review made by your music critic.

As two people having spent many an hour on the piano bench accompanying soloists, it was a delight to sit back and hear such an accomplished artist as Mr. Eugene Brister, the accompanist for the "Men Of Song."

The only comment made of his excellent work was that one number "The Quest" was played "rather unsympathetically" . . .

As good accompanists are few and far between, let us sometime give credit, where credit is due.—Two Unashamed Accompanists.

Noise

As I leave for home, I am prompted to write by your editorial of November 8 about noise. You should follow this up by a campaign against unnecessary noise by autos and motorcycles, which altogether spoiled an otherwise enjoyable visit to your city. I was told that a law to apply to that nuisance was passed in February, but your police seem to have done nothing.

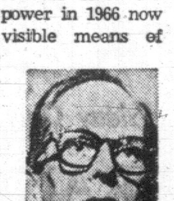
One other request—get the chimes in the museum tower tuned. Unless a person is tone-deaf, to listen to them is torture.—Henry Grafton, Merced, Calif.

FROM QUEBEC CITY

By STAN McDOWELL

A Test for Mr. Cardinal in Rural Bagot

THE election speculation that has been chronic in Quebec ever since the Union Nationale won power in 1966 now has a little more visible means of support than it ever had in Daniel Johnson's lifetime. Mr. Johnson's successor, Jean-Jacques Bertrand, has his problems. One member of his caucus, Dr. Gaston Tremblay, has resigned to sit as legislature representative of an extreme right-wing, clerical body that calls itself the Christian Nationalist party.



McDowell

One other UN back bencher made gestures toward resigning but pulled back at the last moment and said he had been misquoted.

Jean-Guy Cardinal, Minister of Education, is having hard going in the byelection in Bagot, Mr. Johnson's old riding and it now appears at least possible that the Liberal opposition will take both Bagot and Notre Dame de Grace ridings when the votes are counted December 4.

The latest blow to Mr. Bertrand is a minor one — the resignation from the legislature of Francois Aquin, a former Liberal who resigned from that party after the de Gaulle visit, later joined Rene Levesque's sovereignty movement and still later resigned again.

What Mr. Aquin's resignation means to Premier Bertrand is the replacement of a seat that was usually empty by a seat that is officially vacant. In the long run, unless a general election were called, this could mean trading an absentee opponent for an active one — for Mr. Aquin's riding, Dorion, is traditionally Liberal territory. But in the short run the mathematics of the house will not be affected.

But if the predictions of an early election in Quebec are slightly better founded than they have been before in the past two years, they are still far from conclusive.

Even if the Liberals were to take the two approaching byelections, Mr. Bertrand's position in the house need not be untenable.

Could Lose Majority

He would have 54 of the 108 seats, one less than a clear majority — with the Speaker removed from the government benches UN voting strength would be 53.

Against him, before a byelection is held to fill Mr. Aquin's seat, he would have a combined opposition of 53 — 50 Liberals and three Independents.

Of the three Independents, one, Frank Hanley of Montreal Ste Anne, unswervingly votes with the government that happens to be in power; Dr. Tremblay, the Christian Nationalist, regards the Liberals as even further steeped than the UN in godless socialism; and although Rene Levesque might vote with the Liberals on social issues — in which case Dr. Tremblay could be counted on to side with the government — Mr. Levesque could be expected to support Mr. Bertand on questions involving nationalism.

On the level more prosaic than ideology neither Mr. Levesque—whose party is not yet ready — nor Mr. Hanley — who might never again be so close to the balance of power — has anything to gain from an election for the moment. Just what the murky movement represented by Dr. Tremblay might have to gain or lose from an election is not clear. Dr. Tremblay himself, however, has an $18,000 MLA's salary to lose.

None of this makes Mr. Bertrand's position cushy.

Might Be Worse

But he has no guarantee that a general election in the near future would not make it worse.

If Mr. Cardinal loses Bagot the party's image will be badly dented both in the eyes of public opinion and in those of its financial supporters.

Regular contributors to Union Nationale and Conservative war chests in Quebec have been called on three years in a row, for the provincial election in 1966, the Conservative leadership convention in 1967 and the federal election of 1968.

In the last two events they have been on the losing side — there were few Quebec bets on Robert Stanfield for the party leadership — and may now feel entitled to some better collateral than the defeat of a senior cabinet minister in the riding held for 22 years by the late premier.

Thin Margin

If Mr. Cardinal wins, Mr. Bertrand would have a working majority of two legislative assembly votes before the next byelection is held to fill Mr. Aquin's seat, and a one-vote edge even if the Liberals were to win that one.

He could hold on, without serious risk of defeat in the house in the hope that his government might regain some of the popularity it has lost among labor unions, teachers, students and — as a result of the prolonged liquor strike — drinkers.

He must also consider the state of the Liberal opposition, more united and apparently vigorous now than it has been since its defeat in 1966.

Win or lose, the Cardinal candidacy in Bagot could be the mistake fatal to Mr. Bertrand's career as premier of Quebec and leader of his party.

Mr. Cardinal, urban and urbane, well-educated and well-tailored, is the image of what the younger members of the Union Nationale would like their party to become.

Bagot Image

Bagot, rural, Conservative, parochial and poor, is the image of what the party has always been and the votes that put it in power in 1966.

Parachuting Mr. Cardinal into Bagot, Mr. Bertrand was giving his strongest rival for the permanent party leadership the chance he needed to overcome his major political liability. The one major doubt that has been raised about Mr. Cardinal as a potential leader has been his ability to attract votes in rural Quebec. Winning an urban riding would not have been enough. He needed a test like Bagot.

If he wins, his hopes of challenging Mr. Bertrand successfully are substantially improved.

If he loses, Mr. Bertrand confirms his own image of the man too decent to win in politics, who played fair with his rival instead of putting up the best man for the riding, as the Liberals did by recruiting popular Mayor Henri Boisvert of Actonvale, the principal town in Bagot.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"HEY, MR. WILSON! YA WANNA BE A HORSE?"

Looking Back

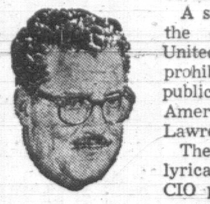
From the Times, Nov. 14, 1908.

When the steamer Tees leaves for the west coast tonight she will carry a carload of finishing machinery for the Nootka Marble quarries. The president A. W. McCurdy is also going up, as well as several men who are taking the places of those who came down on last week's boat.

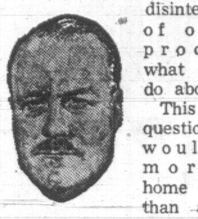
Already the mill is producing marble. A number of blocks have been cut on the hillside weighing between 13 and 16 tons each. Slabs are waiting to be cut.

Strike Arbitration Raises Some Problems

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE



Fisher



Crowe

If you have compulsory arbitration and the workers are ordered to cease their strike and go back to work, and they refuse, then what?

Do you have a rebellion on your hands? To answer that you first have to ask yourself whether the key characteristic which established a state of turmoil to be a rebellion is the means employed or the objective sought.

But whatever the label which you give to this kind of disintegration of orderly processes, what do you do about it?

This is a question we would be more at home asking than answering as we have declared ourselves against the idea of compulsory arbitration on many occasions.

But we did do a "straight" piece on the proposal of Bernard Wilson, federal assistant deputy minister of labor, that compulsory arbitration be made available as a tool of government (as distinct from Parliament as it is now), along with existing tools, to be used with care in very defined circumstances to encourage an agreement.

★ ★ ★

So it is a fair question.

It seems there are three possible answers. The first is that you do nothing in particular and countenance a disregard for the law until the two sides give their consent to an agreement.

This is the Australian pattern, where compulsion is the law of the land and wildcat strikes are the rule of industrial relations.

It is difficult to force people to work. And it would be "people," not the union whom the authorities would be dealing with.

James McClelland, Australian labor lawyer and writer on industrial relations, speaks of this as the impairment of the utility of law.

One does not have to be an authority on law to entertain the grave doubts about getting ourselves into that wringer.

A second possible answer is the one developed in the United States where they have prohibited strikes in vital public enterprises, such as the American segment of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

The Rand Report is almost lyrical about the way AFL-CIO president George Meany supported compulsory arbitration for workers in these industries. But it contains not a solitary word about the accompanying device of the "wage standard."

★ ★ ★

As part of the package of compulsion for these workers there was the initial establishment of fair base rates to which are regularly applied either the negotiated increase in a defined sector of the economy, or an increase to keep them on a par with changing levels of a defined group of workers.

So, in effect, someone else, some much larger group of workers, is doing their bargaining for them while they maintain uninterrupted service in their own jobs. The Americans meet the crisis by forestalling it.

This was a formula which was slowly in the process of emerging on Canada's railways for the non-operating employees, from 1950 to 1966 in the "durable goods standard" until former labor minister John Nicholson dealt it a serious blow by appointing the Roach Arbitration Board to settle the dispute involving the shopcraft workers and the two major railways.

The Roach Board declared against the durable goods standard and 16 years of jurisprudence without seriously examining it and certainly without understanding the first thing about it. Moreover it "forgot" to make any wage recommendation at all—the thing it was set up to do.

★ ★ ★

The Roach Board has had a very damaging psychological effect upon the attitude of Canadian workers to the idea of a wage standard.

The durable goods standard existed as the guidepost (increasingly realized in conciliation board reports and in agreed settlements) at the same time as the right to strike for the workers remained on the statute books.

But compulsion by Parliament was always in the air. The threat to use it by Louis St. Laurent in 1954 was sufficient to force the two sides to agreement by arbitration.

★ ★ ★

Morever it was used on three occasions. This brings us to Mr. Wilson and the third possible answer to the question. But to understand it more clearly' let us look briefly at those three incidents of compulsory arbitration.

In 1950 Parliament passed the Maintenance of Railway Operation Act on the 10th day of a national railway strike, writing some of the terms of a new agreement and putting some matters to arbitration.

In 1960 it passed the Railway Operation Continuation Act before the strike deadline, prohibiting a strike for five months (allegedly until the Macpherson Royal Commission reported), made no specific provision for arbitration, and the sides did come to agreement before the time ran out. That was the closest we have come to a wildcat strike against an act of Parliament.

In 1966 Parliament passed another Maintenance of Railway Operation Act on the 7th day of a strike, writing much of the new agreement and providing for mediation (partly successful) and then arbitration of the rest of the dispute.

★ ★ ★

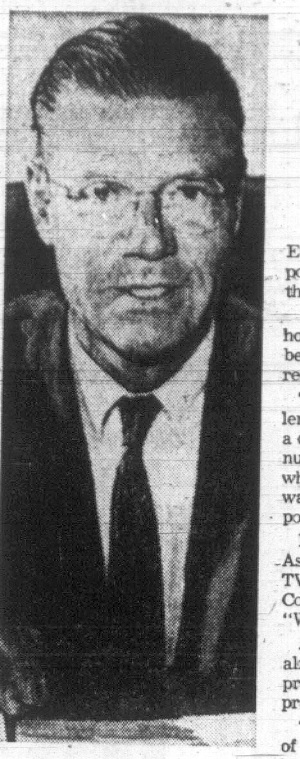
The Wilson proposal is that a special act of Parliament should not be required but that an Order-in-Council under a statute (an amended Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act) should be available to implement compulsory arbitration—but only after the strike has lasted for something like 14 days.

And what if the workers refuse to go back to the job? Well there is still one step left beyond the Wilson-style compulsion.

And that is the special act of Parliament writing some of the agreement, as has been our practice, but presumably more likely to be obeyed as it would follow a longer strike.

Where Is the Real Compassion In Waging a 'War on Poverty'?

By ECONOCLAST
The Canadian Forum



McNAMARA

And in the fifth year the Economic Council discovered poverty. Late, but better late than never.

Enough by way of praise, however, The media have been lavish. It's time someone really read the chapter.

Take the title: "The Problem of Poverty." Better, admittedly, than "the nuisance of poverty," which is what people who write this way really think. If only the poor would shape up!

Like the Construction Safety Association in those late night TV commercials, the Council's motto apparently is: "We Worry."

After all, Maimonides had already, in the twelfth century produced at least as good a program for poverty:

"... the most meritorious of all, is to anticipate charity, by preventing poverty; namely to assist the reduced fellowman, either by a considerable gift, or a loan of money, or by teaching him a trade, or by putting him in the way of business so that he may earn an honest livelihood ...

And we regurgitate old statistics. And inventory existing programmes. And weigh priorities. And plead for "compassionate realism."

What is missing is real compassion. To achieve the latter, one must begin with an attempt at understanding. Moral judgments are mere sentimental exercises unless grounded on analysis.

In the best tradition of liberal economics, however, the Council has nothing worth saying about the causes of poverty. It recognizes, to its credit, that poverty is primarily a class, and not simply a regional phenomenon, but then slithers off into correlations of income and education.

Without serious diagnosis, prescription becomes haphazard. At best, the Council's recommendations are a hodgepodge of things that might help alleviate poverty.

At worst, under the guise of hard-headed economics, the Council accepts the sanctity of the present distribution of wealth and income and its recommendations therefore have that modest character appropriate to the maintenance of the status quo.

Poor Will Remain

The Council promises to continue to study and report on poverty. We may be sure that if all the Council's recommendations were implemented immediately, the poor would remain with us for the Council to study indefinitely.

As a New Yorker cartoon once put it, "there's money to be made in the war on poverty."

It is well known that the Americanization of Canada takes place with a time-lag. Hence, the Council is impressed by the American War on Poverty.

In the United States, of course, that War has now escalated into real war on the ghettoes. Lacking the explosive mixture of racial prejudice and economic exploitation, Canada should be able to avoid that phase, but one is nevertheless entitled to be uncomfortable about the Council's propensity to use militaristic language.

It is bad enough when officials see the poor as a problem. It is grotesque when the poor are seen as a group on which war should be waged.

For the good of the poor, of course, but the closeness of the analogy with the American rationalization for war on Asian peasants is frightening.

Same Techniques?

After noting that "there has been a burst of improvements in the available weaponry against poverty," the Council adds parenthetically: "The term 'war on poverty' is appropriate in more than one sense, for, ironically enough, some of the techniques of policy planning and evaluation now being applied in the field of poverty originated within the military and defence planning establishments."

It is to be doubted that the Council appreciates the full irony of this aside. McNamara and his whiz kids certainly won the war in Vietnam with dispatch.

What in God's name has the world come to when technocrats who failed utterly in Vietnam are casually welcomed to practise their cruelties on the poor? (McNamara having moved to the World Bank, the technology is now presumably to be applied to the underdeveloped countries. Mr. Pearson and two-thirds of the world, please note.)

Such considerations put the case for participation by the poor themselves — to which even the Economic Council pays lip service, though not to the point of recommending that the poor be represented on the Council — in a new light.

Perhaps they should be armed so they can defend themselves.

Certainly, they must be allowed to participate in planning poverty programs so that their wisdom and humanity, if not simply their instinct for survival, will prevent the technocrats from launching another losing war for which all society then has to pay.

The mass media being easily conned whenever poverty is condemned — it helps middle-class audiences assuage their guilt—little note has been taken of the fact that this was also the year in which Council jumped with both feet on the science policy bandwagon.

Again, the Council manages to betray a mentality that sends shudders down one's spine.

The bomb is neatly disposed of in one sentence; then "air and water pollution, unplanned urban agglomerations, and the depletion of the countryside" in the next, and the Report then gets down to the nitty-gritty of how to help science and technology continue their mad course.

Lacking any apparent capacity for original thinking, and always ready to fall for any banality, the Council mouths the Solandt-line of the Science Council.

Science is creating "problems." Our "attitudes, values and social institutions" are "not adjusting effectively." Conclusion: "We therefore recommend that there should be a substantial strengthening of social science research capabilities in Canada."

Time to Shape [illegible]

The social sciences are [illegible] poor of the science establishment. It's time they sh[illegible] up. No need, however, [illegible] further research and [illegible]assed recommendations. [illegible] for the real poor, Bribe 'em.

I could go on in this vein indefinitely, but I lack the constitution. Innis once remarked that the risk of being a social scientist [illegible] Canada is that one may die laughing. One may also die of fright.

The Economic Council is a menace. Whatever it touches, it trivializes. In language to which the Council is addicted, let's sort out our priorities, apply cost-benefit analysis, and with a dash of compassion abolish the damn thing.

Rubberized Implants Correct Deformities

By NATE HASELTINE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — The successful use of rubberized plastic joints to replace grossly deformed and gnarled knuckles and other finger joints of hand-disabled victims of rheumatoid arthritis has been reported to surgeons here.

Responsible for the report was Dr. Alfred B. Swanson, of the department of orthopedic research, Blodgett Memorial Hospital at Grand Rapids, Mich.

"The over-all results have been very satisfactory in the correction of deformity, the mobilization of stiff joints, and the improvement of pain. We have met no significant post operative complications. X-ray examinations have shown the implants are well tolerated by the tissues," said Dr. Swanson.

Such implants for the hand and arm are being tried in 40 active hand surgical clinics around the world in a field clinic trial before they can become generally used in reconstructive surgery.

Dr. Swanson exhibited before and after pictures of terribly deformed hands and hands that looked useful and perfectly normal after the operation.

Use of siliconized rubber, a material manufactured from a combination of organic and inorganic materials, was suggested by the experience of Dr. Swanson in developing an implant to cushion the end of the long bone after a leg ambutation.

Dr. Swanson said the rubberized implants are not expected to work well in replacing knee joints or other heavy weight-bearing joints.

"The potential need for joint replacement implants for arthritic and otherwise destroyed joints is great", said Dr. Swanson. "Six per cent of the general population suffers from disabling rheumatoid osteoarthritis. Also, an increasingly large percentage of people in our industrial society suffer from traumatic disabilities of the hand".

Alaska Fur Seal Colony Found Off California Coast

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Carl

For an unknown number of centuries Alaska fur seals have been hauling out on the Pribilof Islands off the coast of Alaska, on the Commander Islands and on a few small islands in the Okhotsk Sea.

These are the only places where they have been known to come ashore regularly for the purpose of breeding.

In winter they may disperse widely across the Pacific as far as central Japan and south to the Hawaiian Islands and Baja, California, but by early summer most adults return to these ancestral breeding grounds in the Bering Sea area.

So long have they been frequenting these rookeries that the ground is pounded flat and protruding boulders are worn glassy smooth by generations of bodies sliding over their rounded surfaces.

At the height of the season as many as 10,000 animals may be congregated along certain stretches of shore on St. Paul and St. George islands in the Pribilof group and more than a million may be present altogether on the two islands, forming by far the largest gathering of mammals of one species found anywhere in the world.

●

The habit of aggregating in such numbers, of course, has made the fur seals very prone to exploitation by man.

Soon after the discovery of the Pribilofs by the Russians in 1786 pelts were taken in great numbers, more than two and a half million in the first 80 years, and the seals were nearly exterminated.

Following the purchase of Alaska by the United States in 1870 controls were initiated on the breeding grounds but despite these measures the industry collapsed in a few years because sealing at sea was still unrestricted.

This led to the 1911 agreement between the United States, Great Britain (for Canada), Russia and Japan whereby pelagic sealing was banned and the taking of pelts on the breeding grounds was strictly regulated.

Sealing was carried on under this treaty until 1941, except during the war years, at which date an international commission was established to operate the industry.

The various controls inaugurated under these agreements not only saved the seal herd from certain extinction but allowed the population to build up slowly to almost its original level.

●

For many years now the annual quota of skins taken is between 60,000 and 70,000 of which Canada receives 15 per cent and there appears no reason why this harvest can not be maintained more or less indefinitely.

Management of the fur seal herd has been an outstanding success; it is hailed as the greatest example of conservation in the world — a demonstration of what can be achieved by applying scientific knowledge on an international scale.

Lately a discovery has been made which further supports the contention that exploitation of the Alaska seal herd is being conducted along wise lines.

●

A new colony of fur seals has appeard on San Miguel Island off the coast of California far from the traditional breeding area. Scientists believe that this apparent extension of breeding range is sure sign that the population of seals is indeed in a healthy state. No such expansion of range could take place if too many animals are being taken by the fur industry.

The newly-noted colony is small, numbering only about 100 animals including 36 young of the year but it apparently has been established for at least three successive seasons.

Why San Miguel has been chosen in preference to many other islands closer to the ancestral gathering area is a puzzle unless it is because the island is bathed by the cold California current producing conditions similar to those found in the Bering Sea.

Whatever the reason full protection has been given the animals so that biologists will have an opportunity to study an undisturbed colony in a new environment.

●

An interesting sidelight is that five of the adult femals in the new colony were marked individuals, four from the Pribilofs and one from the Commander Islands where it had been tagged by Russian biologists in 1960.

As far as the preservation of the species is concerned it is most encouraging to learn that an animal with such a long tradition of breeding only in a restircted area is still capable of expanding its range. Such ability gives some assurance that the fur seal is not as vulnerable as it was once thought to be.

Navy Veteran Killed By Chesterfield Fire

A 56-year-old retired navy veteran died in a chesterfield fire at his Esquimalt apartment Tuesday.

Robert James Cameron, 512 Constance, became the first person to die in a fire in the Greater Victoria area this year.

In another incident, two small children were taken to hospital and later released following a dresser fire late Tuesday night.

Police said today the fire in Mr. Cameron's apartment, a two-room suite in an old house, was caused by a cigarette igniting a chesterfield used as a bed.

Damage to the upstairs suite was estimated unofficially at between $1,000 and $1,500. Police said portions of the roof were burnt and there was a lot of smoke damage.

No one else was in the suite but other persons were in the house. The alarm was turned in at 10:26 a.m. by an occupant of a downstairs suite.

NO AUTOPSY EXPECTED

The blaze was under control within an hour.

An autopsy is being held today but it is not expected an inquest will be held.

Police said he was survived by his wife Molly, two sons, Douglas and Dennis, three daughters, Nancy, Kathryn and Ruby, and nine grandchildren. Mr. Cameron, who served in the navy for 21 years, retired nearly 15 years ago and was not working. Funeral services will be at McCall Bros. Saturday at 10:15 a.m.

In the other fire, a candle operated vaporizer overheated and burnt a dresser in an apartment building at 850 Admirals Road.

Two children, Christana Easton, 11 months, and Keri-Lee, four years, were taken to hospital after inhaling smoke from the small blaze.

Mother of the youngsters, Mrs. Margaret Easton told police she was awakened by the baby's crying and discovered the apartment was filled with smoke.

Police said the dresser contained plastic toys which gave off heavy smoke.

Forest Service Pioneer Buried At White Rock

Funeral services were held today in White Rock for pioneer member of the B.C. forest service and co-founder of Forest Industrial Relations.

R. V. Stuart died Sunday. He was 79.

Mr. Stuart joined B.C. forest services in 1914 and was appointed regional forester for the Vancouver forest district.

He was later made manager of the B.C. Loggers Association and represented Forest Industries of B.C. as a director in Washington and Ottawa.

In 1941, Mr. Stuart started the first industry-wide bargaining agency on behalf of management in Canada. His company was called Stuart Research Ltd. and was forerunner to Forest Industrial Relations.

Mr. Stuart was the first president of FIR and when it was the largest negottating bureau for any industry in Canada.

He retired a few years ago in White Rock.

Mr. Stuart is survived by his wife, daughter and one son.

POLICE CORPS UNARMS BOMB

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police bomb experts were called to an east-end Domtar Ltd. plant today to remove a powerful explosive device found tied under a trailer truck.

The bomb, made of seven sticks of dynamite, was discovered by a driver as he was about to hitch his cab to the 45-foot long trailer.

Police said the bomb may have been placed by sympathizers of the workers on strike at Domtar plants in East Angus and Windsor, Que.

Canada Airlift Grounded Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Caribou airlift of food for starving Biafrans may never get off the ground, it was learned today.

Prime Minister Trudeau last Friday told the Commons two Canadian forces Caribou aircraft would replace the Hercules aircraft Canada loaned the International Red Cross in its efforts to distribute relief supplies to victims of the Nigerian civil war.

On Monday, the external affairs department said the Red Cross in Nigeria had asked Canada to hold back "a couple of days" before sending the two Caribou on their nine-hour flight to Lagos. No explanation was given for the reqest.

However, it was learned today that the Red Cross is concerned with the cost of such an operation which one informed source said would be "10 times" more expensive than using trucks.

It now is possible, the source said, that the Caribou never will be called upon to make the flight to Nigeria.

The Caribou can carry up to 6,800 pounds over short ranges but normally carries about 4,000 pounds. It is a twin-engine, high-wing transport designed for use on short runways. It can take off fully loaded from less than 500 feet of rough terrain.

It was for this reason that it was decided to use them to replace the four heavier Hercules aircraft in the airlift. Airstrips in the interior of Nigeria are not considered adequate for the bigger planes and some of the airfields have been shot up by strafing fighters.

'Separatism Leads Not to Freedom but to Foreign Domination'

LONDON (CP) — W. Earle McLaughlin, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, says any attempt by Quebec to become independent would push the province into a United States-dominated system of controls "much more rigid and much more onerous than the one that now applies to Canada as a whole."

McLaughlin, speaking before the Canada Club Wednesday, also suggested that Canada lost virtually all of its power to manoeuvre independently in the foreign exchange field through various agreements with the U.S., including the 1963 agreement to put a ceiling on official Canadian reserves of dollars and gold.

There are alternatives to "permanent incarceration in a North American economic enclave," he said. Canada could go back to the 1950-60 system of a floating exchange rate which he described as "highly successful." Under it Canada would no longer be required to have fixed agreements with the U.S. and Canadian monetary policy could once more be geared to purely domestic needs.

As it is, Canada has "lost the rudder" whereby it could chart an independent course against the blasts from the outside world, McLaughlin added in his prepared speech.

But for any Canadian province attempting to break away and operate separately, the situation would be far more onerous.

Separatism was not the path to economic freedom, but the path to foreign domination, Quebec would have to pay a high price for freedom "from the easy yoke of Ottawa."

A recent poll had shown that 71 per cent of the Quebec electorate had rejected separatism and there were encouraging signs that with the new Trudeau government in Ottawa "the chapter on Canadian separatism will finally be closed."

Looking back, the bank president touched on two particular 'man-made'' crises in Canada The 1962 exchange crisis was caused, he said, by the Diefenbaker government inducing a run on currency "by an almost unbelievably wrong-headed attempt to 'talk down' the floating Canadian dollar." The January, 1968, raid on the Canadian dollar, he said, was sparked by the U.S. announced of mandatory curbs on direct investment abroad.

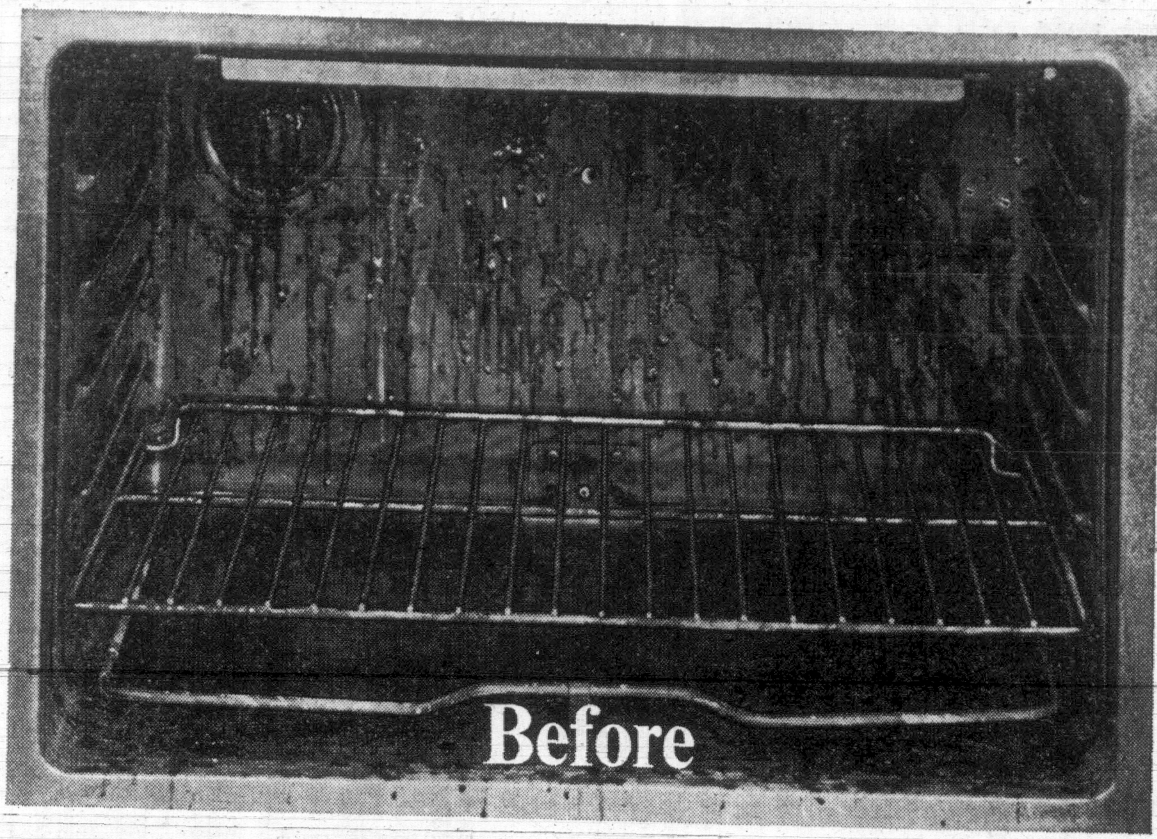
The U.S. program itself was never a real threat to Canada, McLaughlin said. Caneda could have weathered the January raids but for much talk in Canada that the Canadian dollar would have to be devalued eventually because of runaway prices and costs.

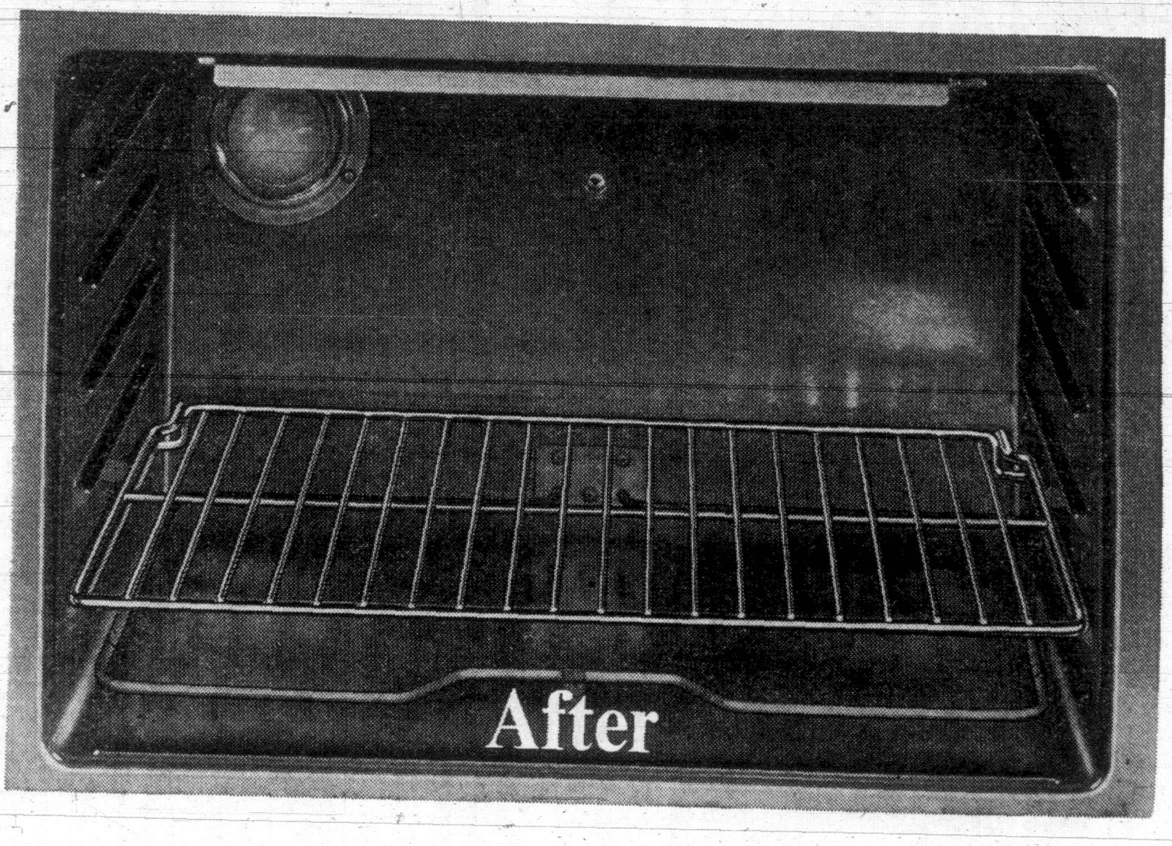
Many U.S. parent companies with Canadian subsidiaries sold their future receipts to American banks. The forward market couldn't absorb all these funds and American banks began selling Canadian dollars spot to cover their purchases of forward exchange.

This and other factors caused a massive assault on Canada's official reserves and stories began to circulate about the "ugly Canadians" buying U.S. dollars to invest in the New York stock market.

Defences thrown up by the Bank of Canada cracked the exchange crisis and the Canadian dollar returned to its normal buoyancy. The dollar now was as strong as before the crisis "if not stronger."

Moffat Self-Cleaning Oven cleans itself automatically. Electrically.





End oven cleaning forever.
With this amazing new Moffat
Self-Cleaning Oven.

Oven cleaning is the most hated job in the home. It's low-down, dirty work.

You scrub and scrub and scrub and scrub.

And poke and scrape and dig.

(It's kind of like having your own private coal mine.)

But that's all over now.

Because now you can end oven cleaning forever. With an amazing new Moffat Self-Cleaning Oven range.

Just turn two switches on the control panel and the Moffat Self-Cleaning Oven cleans itself automatically. Electrically.

The Moffat Self-Cleaning Oven is economical. The electric bill averages only about 6 cents per cleaning. (That's actually cheaper than messy, caustic, bothersome, old-fashioned oven cleaners.)

Of course the oven isn't the only thing that gets dirty on a range. And the Moffat Self-Clean is the first range that's completely easy to clean. From top to bottom.

The oven cleans itself and the rest of the range is a cinch for you to clean.

For example:

(1) Moffat burners unplug and lift right out so you can wash the drip bowls and chrome rings right in the sink.

(2) Every Moffat range has Spill-Guards along both sides of the cooking top to keep messy things from spilling down between your range and cupboards.

(3) Moffat ranges have Hide-Away Controls. With a flip of your hand the switches go out of sight. Away from greasy spatters. And the back of your range becomes a beautiful decorator panel.

And there are a couple of other easy extras with your Moffat Self-Cleaning Oven.

Moffat Self-Cleaning Ovens have a window in the oven door. (With some ranges the only way to get a self-cleaning oven is to do without an oven window.)

Every Moffat Self-Cleaning Oven is completely automatic. The oven window shield moves into place automatically when you turn the switches to start the cleaning operation.

And the Moffat Self-Cleaning Oven is the biggest self-cleaning oven you can buy. It's a full 24 inches wide, 15 inches high, and 19½ inches deep.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Profit-Taking at N.Y.

Profit-taking hit the New York market today in active trading. The market had experienced a steady rise since the presidential election.

Industrial index at Toronto was largely unchanged from Wednesday's closing level. Volume was active.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, International Utilities fell 1⅞ to 45, Shully's Industries 1⅞ to 18⅝, Revenue Properties ¾ to 18⅞ and Bank of Montreal ⅜ to 16¼. Nabors Drilling was up 2½ to 17½ and Du Pont 2¼ to 37¼.

Pine Point gained 1 to 43½, Bethlehem Copper ⅞ to 17½ and Aetna Investments 70 cents to $3.60. Lake Dufault lost 50 cents to $7.15 and Placer ½ to 33¾.

Canadian Gridoil fell ¾ to 14, Chieftain Developments 50 cents to $9.30 and United Canso 30 cents to $6.10. Charter Oil was up 1¾ to 16.

AT NEW YORK disconcerting weakness in Chrysler gave the jm-jams to analysts and customers. The stock was down another couple of points after its loss of 1⅝ Wednesday as the most-active stock.

The Street was puzzled as to the exact reason for the selling pressure on Chrysler. Other auto stocks were weak. General Motors and Ford slipped about 1½ each. American Motors, recently rallying strongly in dramatic breakout action, took a fractional loss.

AT MONTREAL industrials and utilities topped yearly highs in brisk trading today. Banks and papers were off.

Among the most active traders, eSalada Foods climbed 1⅛ to 14½, Bell Canada ⅜ to 46⅞, Price ⅛ to 12¼ and Trizec 5 cents to $3.05. Bank of Montreal lost ¼ to 16⅝.

Canadian International Power gained 1¼ to 29¾, and Corby A 1 to 36½. Canada Cement fell 1¼ to 33¾, and Southam 1 to 57. Canadian Hydrocarbons added ⅞ to 22⅝.

AT VANCOUVER mining issues were generally strong in active pre-noon trading.

Buttle Lake continued to soar and gained 45 cents to $4.05 on a turnover of 126,000 shares. Northwest Ventures gained 29 cents on 127,000 shares and Magnum was 20 cents better at $3.75.

Copper Ridge was 12 cents better at $2.12, but Arctic dipped 18 cents $1.86 and New Privateer fell two cents to .23.

In the industrials, Captain gained 25 cents to $11.25 and EDP was $1.25 better at $22.75. Great National Lands lost 15 cents to $2.90.

Pound Suffers Beating

LONDON (Reuters) — The pound lost heavily on the foreign exchange market here today as dealers assessed the effect on the British economy of a doubling of the overseas trade deficit announced Wednesday.

Thursday is always a bad day for British currency because of extra risks involved in buying sufficient supplies to last until after the weekend. Normally, a drop of eight points is not treated as exceptional.

However, the rate opened today 15 points below Wednesday's close of $2.3891 U.S. and immediately started to drop. After two hours it was down to $2.3871.

Apart from the problem of the bigger British trade deficit, dealers attributed the depression today to uncertainty over the French economic outlook.

In the London bullion market the gold price dropped by 12.5 cents an ounce to $39.75 U.S.

Dealers attributed the decline to a fair amount of bullion being offered for sale from the continent.

THE ACCOUNTANT'S ADVICE

Time Waste Also Depletes

By EDGAR A DOWNEY, C.A.

(This is a service provided by The Times and the Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia).

Do you have waste in your work?

Whether you are the chief executive, the foreman, or the most junior employee, that is a question you need to answer.

If it is 'yes', then you know that you are not producing as much earnings as you are working for. Some of those earnings you allow to go to waste, and that means they are not available for higher profits nor for higher salaries and wages.

If the real earnings of a business can be improved then everyone who lives upon those earnings has a chance to improve his own share. A business which is falling behind its competitors is not in a position to increase wages for its employees and if it falls too far behind there will be no business to require any employees.

The scrap material pile is too easy to overlook because it is always there, and the size of the scrap pieces may gradually grow larger without anyone noticing the excess waste that occurs. Consider whether all of it really is scrap or could some of it have been used for a small job.

Waste is not always so obvious as the pile of scrap. Time waste does not show up as readily in a tangible form. Hours may be dissipated in producing nothing useful without any evidence to show where the waste occurred. But the man whose hours were wasted knows it.

Inefficient lay-out of the working area causes extra work and wasted energy for the people doing the work. This is a most depressing kind of waste for the worker. He may not be aware of the reason he finds his job depressing but he could find out and help himself if he would seriously consider how he is really spending most of his energy.

All of these areas are, of course, problems for management to search out and resolve. This may mean the importation of efficiency experts with their time and motion studies which many workers resent. But if everyone is interested in the elimination of waste the outside consultant is welcomed and it is the man on the job who is in the best position to see where his productivity was lost, with the consequent depletion of his own earnings. It is his duty to offer, and management's responsibility to consider, suggestions for improvement.

Maybe a simple clean-up around your own work bench, or service counter, or desk would save a lot of time and effort. It would, at least, save you some frustration in searching for lost tools or papers, and would probably improve your work output and, eventually, your own income.

Finance in Brief

CPR Orders Ships

Canadian Pacific Bermuda Ltd. Wednesday said it had ordered two 250,000-ton tankers at a cost of $33 million from the Japanese shipbuilding firm of Nippon Kokan Kaisha Ltd.

Federal Law

Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford said Wednesday there should be "some form of national administration" for securities.

Burroughs Order

Burroughs Business Machines Ltd. has received an order for five B-2500 computer systems from the federal government. The computers will be installed across Canada in the regional offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, serving Pacific, Prairie, Ontario, Quebec and Atlantic regions, used initially for the payment of benefits.

Western Decalta

Western Decalta Petroleums Ltd. of Calgary reports gross income of $3.5 million for the first nine months of 1968, a 12.5 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year.

Net income was $407,000 compared with $428,000 a year ago.

Exports Continue Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian exports continued their strong advance last month, jumping to $1,254,300,000 compared with $1,006,800,000 in October last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

WP Yukon Offering

Terms of the preferred share issue approved last month by White Pass and Yukon Corp. Ltd. shareholders include pricing at $25 and one-for-two warrant feature.

The 220,000-share issue to realize $5.5 million is to net $5.2 million for expansion of Yukon and Alaska freight facilities to handle mining supplies and ore shipments.

The offering in Canada is to be called by Friday and will be referred to as cumulative, redeemable, preferred Series A, bearing annual interest at 6¾ per cent. Distribution is headed by A. E. Ames, Pemberton Securities and Richardson's.

Each two shares will carry a warrant to buy one common share of the company up to Feb. 1, 1972 for $27, or for $30 thereafter to Feb. 1, 1973.

Shares traded at Toronto and Vancouver Wednesday in the $27 range.

Avco Expands

A second branch of Avco Finance Ltd. will open in Victoria, Monday, in premises at 1088 Fort. The earlier location is at 742 Yates.

A Canadian firm for more than 40 years (formerly Crescent Finance Corp.) Avco has in excess of 276 branches.

Manitoba Oil

Preliminary estimates indicate Manitoba's oil production this year will be a record 6.25 million barrels.

The estimate is about 200,000 barrels more than the previous record production set in 1957. The recent low was 3.77 million barrels in 1963.

The release said value of the productions should exceed the $15 million realized in 1957. Total value for the decade of production was $161 million with the province getting about $4.1 million.

There are 790 producing wells in Manitoba with 20 added this year.

Industrial Index Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics industrial production index rose to 161.1 in September from 159.3 in August, mainly because of a boost in manufacturing output, the bureau reported today.

Equipment Makers To Take More Blame

TORONTO (CP) — North American farm equipment manufacturers face an increasing risk of lawsuits if their products fail to serve and protect the user.

John A. McComb, vice-president of Sentry Life Insurance Co. of Stevens Point, Wisc., said the courts, particularly in the United States, are placing more liability on manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of products.

Speaking to a convention of the Farm Equipmant Manufacturers Association, Mr. McComb said the manufacturer's best protection is to make farm equipment as safe as possible through a "good quality control program in the hands of an expert."

Franc Devaluation Absurd—de Gaulle

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle said Wednesday a devaluation of the franc would be "the worst possible absurdity." But he warned further measures will have to be taken to defend the French economy.

The president was commenting at a meeting of the cabinet on a 1 per cent discount rate increase and credit-squeeze package announced Tuesday by Finance Minister Francois-Xavier Ortoli.

"To accept the devaluation of our currency would be the worst possible absurdity," he was quoted as saying by Information Secretary Joel le Theule.

"Measures have just been taken, others will certainly have to be."

Meanwhile, the franc reacted poorly to Tuesday's measures, including a discount rate jump to 6 per cent.

Banking sources here attributed the reaction mainly to the fact that Ortoli's measures had drawn attention to France's continuing economic difficulties.

U.K. Trade Worries Resume

By CY FOX

LONDON (CP) — News that Britain's trade deficit in October was double that in September is causing concern and disappointment in London but not outright panic.

The worry focuses on the fact that experts—and voters—are anxiously awaiting the benefits officially predicted with last year's devaluation of the pound.

The main benefit was to be an enduring boost in British exports.

But the October figures tell a different export story, at least as far as that one month is concerned, and here is apprehension too about the way they show the country's import bill persistently rising.

The October trade deficit stood at £66 million ($171.6 million) compared with £33 million ($85.8 million) for September.

Exports dropped by £16 million to a level of £454 million ($1.18 billion) for October.

September's export figure was a record high one for Britain and led some to believe that the country at last was breaking out of its chronic economic doldrums.

The letdown following Wednesday's trade statistics is keen—and reflected in a drop in the dollar price paid for sterling on the London money market.

But government officials are insisting that the export drop was not unexpected. Imbalance was due partly to high food imports.

The good showing in both August and September probably owed something, they said, to abnormally increased shipments of British goods to the United States in anticipation of a dock strike there.

And there was reassurance also in the way exports for the three-month August-October period increased by 8 per cent in value over the preceding three months.

Peter Shore, minister of economic affairs, conceded in a statement Wednesday that Britain's trade balance had suffered what he called a predictably sharp deterioration earlier this year.

But later came "an obvious, indeed major improvement," he said, and in the coming year "there is every reason to expect that the trend of improvement in the trade balance will continue."

Another minister, Anthony Crosland, warned last month against any British indulgence in "euphoria" as a result of the September trade statistics.

He said the final months of 1968 might see over-all exports failing to rise or even slipping back somewhat.

BCAA Urges Freeways To Ease Congestion

The British Columbia Automobile Association today strongly urged the provincial government to push freeways as the answer to urban traffic problems.

In its annual brief to the cabinet, the association's executive also indicated it is totally opposed to any ban on downtown car traffic as part of a mass transit solution to congestion.

The BCAA brief, which said it represented 162,000 citizens, offered no comments on the controversial Royal Commission on Automobile Insurance report but added it might ask for another meeting ~~with~~ cabinet "at a later date when we have reached some conclusions."

But it said it endorsed the "point system" for licence suspensions now undergoing trial in Greater Victoria, which had been urged by the Wootton royal commission.

Toll Roads Are Opposed

It called for immediate construction of another crossing of Burrard Inlet in the Greater Vancouver area and said it was opposed to "any toll facility on roads, streets and bridges.

"We are also unalterably opposed to any urban traffic programs which would compel the public to use any one means of tansportation through unreasonable restrictions or the imposition of tolls upon other forms," the brief continued.

"The motorist must not be denied the right to drive his car in any public area and he should not be forced to subsidize other forms of transportation to his own detriment.

"We believe that the construction of a freeway system is a major key to the growth and health of the city and its surrounding area."

The brief said urban freeways can handle two to three times the volume of traffic in a given period on a lane-by-lane comparison with standard streets having signalized intersections.

Although more expensive to build, freeways are the cheapest solution to moving traffic because of their efficiency, higher speeds, fewer delays and increased safety, the brief contended.

"The (BCAA) therefore strongly reiterates its stand that provision of adequate freeways is basic to solving metropolitan traffic problems," the brief said.

Some Roads Atrocious

While commending the government's highway construction program in some parts of the province, the association complained of atrocious road conditions elsewhere.

It called for:

Completion of reconstruction and paving of unfinished sections of Highway 16 between Prince George and Prince Rupert particularly the Smithers-Terrace section which now "wrecks tires, smashes windshields and tears out transmissions."

It said a five-mile section of Highway 97 south of Prince George "is badly in need of reconstruction."

And it asked "improvement of the Alberni-Tofino road to acceptable standards."

The brief also asked for faster service for the Nanaimo-Horseshoe Bay ferry route, possibly by making it shorter.

May Bridge Dodge Narrows

(It is understood the highways department is considering building a bridge over Dodds Narrows so that the Departure Bay terminal in Nanaimo could be relocated to Gabriola Island, cutting several sea miles from the run.)

Complaining of slow traffic hazards on the highways, the brief asked the government to introduce regulations on the size of camper and trailer units that could be pulled by cars.

It suggested a ratio could be developed relating the horsepower of a vehicle to the total weight of a trailer it legally could haul.

Also recommended by the brief, presented by a delegation headed by BCAA president G. Conway Parrott, were:

Reflectorized vehicle licence plates, stricter enforcement of anti-noise regulations on the roads, improved Queen of Prince Rupert scheduling, provincial construction of bypass routes around Penticton, Terrace and other communities where through-highway traffic was becoming congested with increasing downtown volumes, and government regulation of private driving schools and their standards.

OPPOSITION TO COURSES STRENGTHENS

Two University of Victoria students joined a general protest of non-accreditation courses at a Vancouver junior college today.

Lynne Brassington and Bob Higinbotham, both members of the students' council, were sent to the demonstration by the representative assembly of the Alma Mater Society on a motion made Wednesday night.

The AMS voted to show solidarity with students of Simon Fraser University, and University of B.C. and Vancouver City College in opposition to certain non-credit courses offered at the college.

Protesters from UBC and Selkirk College in Castlegar are also expected to take part in the demonstration.

Motorist Impaired Says Jury

A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that Allan E. Castley of Saanich was driving while impaired when he died Oct. 27 after a collision in the Quadra-McKenzie intersection.

The jury also ruled Mr Castley, 59, of 2015 Pauls Terrace, entered the intersection from Quadra Street without due care and attention.

His vehicle struck a car driven by David Edward Johnston, 31, of 923 Claremont. The inquest was adjourned from Oct. 30 because Mr. Johnston, who appeared Wednesday in a neck brace, was in hospital being treated for injuries he received in the accident.

MADE BLOOD TEST

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre read a laboratory report that stated a sample of Mr. Castley's blood showed .11 milligrams of alcohol per cubic centimetre of blood.

"I believe that would be regarded as impairment," he told the jury. The standard minimum content before impaired charges are laid is .08.

Witnesses testified the Castley car, after hitting the other vehicle, slammed into a traffic island, then appeared to speed up as it skidded some 160 feet into a utility pole.

John M. Greenwood, a mechanic who examined the Castley car later said the throttle was struck and a piece of the carburetor linkage broken. "It was impossible for the car to get less than half throttle," he said, but testified that he could not say when the damage occurred.

Testimony was heard from seven witnesses, including Mr Johnston and Saanich Constable David Richardson, the investigating officer.

News, TV and Comics Decried by Professor

Newspapers, television and crime comics have conditioned today's youth to believe in violence and the instant solution to their problems, a University of Victoria professor said Wednesday.

Persons no longer carry on discussion, and rational debate seems to have become a thing of the past, professor Roger Bishop said.

Much of today's social problems stem from the belief they can be solved quickly, and by force if necessary.

A member of the Uvic English department, Professor Bishop was speaking at a reception at the Greater Victoria Public Library opening Young Canada's Book Week.

SUBTLE VIOLENCE

Newspaper writers pose as strongholds of freedom, but "contribute subtly to the sense that violence is the way," he said.

"Is there ever a page of print nowadays in which we fail to see that someone 'socks' it to someone else, that a premier has 'slammed' someone or something, that the House of Commons 'erupted' or 'blew up'?"

Television and movies carry on the theme of violence from newspapers, suggesting that victory over evil is won by using equally violent methods.

Professor Bishop said it is natural that some peace demonstrators advocate violence against the police and carry it out. And it is not surprising that some members of the Canadian Union of Students suggest university buildings "should be blown up" if demands of the extremists are not met immediately.

Advertising has offered instant solutions to problems and the younger generation shows it has taken "this instant, no-work advertising very seriously, indeed," Professor Bishop said.

He referred to the "violent-instant no-work paradisical myths" in society and suggested current values are going to be under pressure for change, bringing anarchy and then dictatorship.

KOERNER

Benefactor To Present Totem Pole

The man who donated a totem sculpture to the University of Victoria this fall will be at the campus Friday to present the work officially.

Dr. Walter Koerner, who has donated extensively to buildings and funds at the University of British Columbia, will present Uvic with Coast Spirit, a work by Victoria sculptor Elza Mayhew.

The ceremony will take place at 3 p.m. at the site of sculpture, in front of the McPherson Library.

Dr. Koerner, a multi-millionaire, is chairman of the UBC board of governors, chairman of the board of Rayonier Canada Ltd., which he founded; a director of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, Canadian National Railways, Rayonier of New York and Western Canada Steel Ltd.

He holds an honorary degree from Uvic.

GAGLARDI OPEN TO JOB

DELTA (CP)—Former British Columbia highways minister Phil Gaglardi says if someone from private industry makes him a serious job offer, he will consider it.

Mr. Gaglardi, demoted from highways minister to minister without-portfolio, following a controversy involving use of a government jet, made the comment in an address Wednesday to the Delta Gyro Club.

He also said he is not eyeing a top post with the Social Credit government-operated British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority.

"I said it earlier, but I was only joking," said Mr. Gaglardi.

He declined to say whether he will take his seat at the opening of the legislature in January.

Ground Fighting Picks Up Following Bombing Pause

By RONALD CLARKE

SAIGON (Reuters) — The U.S. military command said today more Americans were killed during the first week of the bombing halt ending Nov. 9 than in the previous seven days.

The figures were released amid reports of new fighting in the ares of the demilitarized zone—included by President Johnson in his bombing halt announcement Oct. 31.

In the latest incidents, North Vietnamese in the zone fired twice on U.S. reconnaissance planes, a military spokesman said.

The U.S. cruiser Canberra and destroyer Davis then fired on suspected troop and gun positions in the zone, he added.

The new fatality figures show that 166 Americans were killed during the first full week of the halt compared with 150 in the previous week. In addition, 1,253 Americans were wounded in fighting last week.

The latest figures bring to 29,350 the number of Americans killed since Jan. 1, 1961, and to 413,558 the number of Communist soldiers killed in the same period, the command said.

The number of American dead is the highest for a month.

South Vietnamese casualties climbed last week to 200 men killed compared with 129 killed the week before, Vietnamese spoksmen said.

Observers in Saigon today speculated on the significance of North Vietnamese activity in the DMZ.

It was believed that in return for the bombing halt North Vietnam tacitly agreed not to infiltrate any more troops through the zone.

The peace which reigned over the zone since the bomb ban came into effect Nov. 1 was shattered Sunday. A U.S. military spokesman said North Vietnamese gunners in the strip launched rocket and artillery salvoes on U.S. marine positions just outside the area.

There was a second incident Tuesday, and a spokesman today reported four more incidents Wednesday.

In the only incident reported today, a U.S. observation plane received small arms fire from 10 to 15 North Vietnamese soldiers, the spokesman said.

All the incidents Wednesday and today occurred between half a mile and three miles north of the southern edge of the zone.

U.S. military spokesmen said that despite the bombing halt field commanders still have authority to protect themselves whenever attacked.

SAIGON CLOSES PAPER BECAUSE OF HEADLINE

SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government today closed down the English language Saigon Daily News for three months for giving bigger headlines to Defence Secretary Clark Clifford's denunciation of Saigon's refusal to join the Paris talks than to the government's answer.

Nguyen Ngog Huyen, director of the national press centre, said the Daily News had "failed to defend the national cause."

'Just Dumb' Says Trustee

KELOWNA (CP) — A red-faced school trustee asked herself Wednesday "how could I have been so dumb" after learning that electoral red tape has cost her a school board seat.

Mrs. E. R. Pelly first elected to the board of School District 23 in 1958, this year sold her home and moved into an apartment.

Whe went Tuesday to pick up her nomination papers as her term of office expires in December and she had already announced her intention to run again.

To her surprise, she found she is not on the voters list and so ineligible to run for office.

Removed from the list as an owner-elector, she neglected to attend a court of revision and have her name retained as a tenant-elector.

WATERFRONT FIRE DESTROYS BUILDING

SITKA, Alaska (AP)—A $250,000 waterfront fire destroyed the Wakefield Fisheries building on the Conway dock here Wednesday. The cause is not known.

Members of the Sitka volunteer fire department, auxiliary and coast guard firemen using small boats and salt water pumps confined the blaze to the one building.

Five Appeal Convictions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Five men described by a British Columbia Supreme Court judge as a "pack of wild animals" have launched appeals against convictions for illegally confining and indecently assaulting a 22-year-old Alberta man, James Cannam, last February.

The men, said by police to have been members of the Satan's Angels motorcycle gang, were all given lengthy prison terms by Mr. Justice T. A. Dohm after being convicted on the charges several weeks ago.

Victor Gregory, 25, drew an eight-year term. Herbert A. Spivey, 22, and Charles Dumont, 27, both were sentenced to seven years, while Garry Wilber, 22, and Aubrey Baker, 24, got five years each.

Notices of appeal filed by the five men claim that Mr. Justice Dohm erred in admitting as evidence tape recordings made by police during their investigation of Cannam's allegations.

Africans May Torpedo Pact For Rhodesia

By ANTHONY ASTRACHAN
The Washington Post

SALISBURY—African opposition inside Rhodesia may hinder progress toward a settlement between Britain and its rebellious colony—or torpedo a settlement if one is reached.

This was reported Wednesday by one of the few white Rhodesians with extensive African contacts as Rhodesia awaited the return of British Minister George Thomson for further negotiations with Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Some Africans want a settlement to relieve the strain of economic sanctions and some to get a toehold on the ladder to power. Tribal chiefs paid by the government will favor whatever Smith favors.

But this source says that many Africans, most but not all loyal to imprisoned nationalist leaders, have been meeting in different towns.

MAIN VEHICLE

They are discussing what they should tell the royal commission that is likely to be Britain's main vehicle for checking to see that a settlement is acceptable to all Rhodesians. They are wondering if they will be allowed to suggest alternatives to any agreed settlement or will be compelled to say "No" to whatever terms may be agreed upon if they cannot swallow them whole.

They feel, the source said, that British proposals for settlement do not give the Africans what they need or deserve. Most of them want majority rule before independence is legalized. This, of course, is anathema to the white Rhodesians with whom Britain is negotiating.

Thomson left Salisbury last Saturday to confer with leaders of black African states while Rhodesia celebrated the third anniversary of its unilateral independence. While he was here he met with imprisoned nationalist leaders Joshua Nkomo and Ndabaningi Sithole, and with the African leaders of the new Democratic Party who are trying to operate legally on a one man, one vote platform.

Thomson reportedly told both groups they had better accept half a loaf in terms of a possible settlement than get no bread at all. A settlement will presumably promise steady African political progress after independence. Estimates of the likelihood that the promise will be kept vary with one's appraisal of the political forces at work.

BROKE DATE

Thomson broke a date to meet with a large group of Africans of the kind who object to Britain's settlement proposals, although eight of them did meet his aide, Sir Maurice Foley. Nor did Thomson meet with leaders of the new Centre Party, which professes sincere multiracialism, is searching for African members, and would go much further to meet African demands than Smith would.

One source says the British may try to avoid the embarrassment of Africans rejecting a settlement before a royal commission by proposing another measure of acceptance. This would be to watch the number of Africans who registered to vote under whatever limited franchise might be agreed between White Hall and Salisbury. Of the few thousand Africans who now have the right to vote, all but a handful refused to register for the last, pre-independence elections—in accordance with instructions from the Nationalists.

New Worry Facing Britain

LONDON (CP) — The Guardian says Canada, Cyprus and Malta "have apparently thrown in their lot" with a plan by some Commonwealth countries to withhold diplomatic recognition from Rhodesia if its legal independence is based on a white paper resulting from last month's discussions in Gibraltar.

The newspaper says the apparent addition of the three governments to the African, Asian and Caribbean members of the Commonwealth already behind the withholding plan "is a matter of some personal distress" to Primt Minister Wilson.

"Renewed efforts are likely in an effort to get (Prime Minister) Trudeau, President Makarios and Dr. Borg Oliver to change their minds," the London paper reports. Makario and Olivier are leaders of Cyprus and Malta respectively.

Wilson, the Guardian story says, "is faced here and now with the advance information that 21 governments regard Nibmar the principle of no independence before majority rule, as the only realistic guarantee of African rights in Rhodesia."

The blocking plan is said by the Guardian to involve action at the United Nations as well as in London.

"Reduced to its bluntest terms, the Commonwealth multilateral plan calls for the 21 governments to refufse diplomatic recognition to a Rhodesian regime—headed by Mr. Ian Smith or anyone else—if it is granted legal independence on the terms" offered Smith by Wilson at the Gibraltar talks.

"A total of 61 other governments, mostly African and Asian, have pledged themselves to do the same."

Loan Bill Passes

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Opposition Australian Labor party failed today to block passage of a $75,000,000 loan bill to help pay for 24 swing-wing F-111 jet fighters purchased from the United States. Labor spokesman Frank Crean said the F-111 is an "ill-fated aircraft" that "seems to be a no-go proposition." The Opposition amendment was defeated 64 to 33.

Talk on U.S. Election

Frederick Townsend, assistant attorney-general of Washington State, who managed the campaign of losing governor candidate John O'Connell, will speak on the aftermath of the U.S. elections at the University of Victoria political forum, room 167, Elliot Building, noon Friday.

Released Gas 'Contaminated'

By VICTOR COHN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The natural gas shaken loose by Project Gasbuggy, the December, 1967, underground H-bomb blast in New Mexico—is contaminated with so much radioactive tritium that it is not commercially saleable, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Production tests resumed Nov. 4 confirm that the shot was "highly encouraging," said officials in charge. That is, it produced recoverable gas "in quantity."

But the present level of tritium—long-lasting by-product of thermonuclear explosions—means the gas could not be used without expensive treatment, agreed John S. Kelly of the Atomic Energy Commission and Sam Smith of El Paso Natural Gas Co.

'NOT INSOLUBLE'

Much of the tritium is bound to water molecule and this can be "percolated off" which is "encouraging too," said Kelly, the AEC's director of peaceful nuclear explosions—Project Plowshare. "The problem is not insoluble," he insisted.

But Smith—exploration director for El Paso Natural Gas, test co-sponsor—was not as optimistic.

"I think it will take four or five more experiments, or at least two or three, to establish feasibility" of using such blasts to free natural gas, he predicted.

Both men emphasized that the tritium production was "expected"; that the test was "purely an experiment" to measure such factors; and that "it was never visualized" that the gas produced would be sold.

At the same time, it seems that the conventional H-bomb used—one from an old H-bomb stockpile—was too radioactively "dirty" for commercial gas production.

Specially made cleaner bombs—which may have to be tried, Kelly conceded, to get cleaner gas—will be more expensive.

INCREASE COST

This could increase the cost of other contemplated uses of nuclear explosives.

Among those being considered: to shake oil loose from "tight" underground deposits; to blast out caverns for underground gas storage; to strip away soil for mining; to dig dams, harbors or canals, even a future Panama Canal.

One figure remained undisclosed Tuesday: the percentage of radioactive tritium in the gas reaching the Gasbuggy well head.

Kelly and Smith—panelists during an international conference on constructive uses of atomic energy—said they did not have the figures, though the radioactivity level is "no danger to personnel" at the well site. An inquiry to the AEC produced no immediate answer.

Panel members remained optimistic about the long-range future of peaceful nuclear blasts—even though that future is slower in coming than optimists once hoped.

WELL-MEANING Canadians wishing to adopt Biafran children fail to consider the implications, according to Reuben Baetz (above) executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council. Such an adoption scheme would likely prove abortive, he said today when discussing the proposal.

Lower Rates, Mortgages Eyed by House Probers

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal housing inquiry seems convinced that answers to the current scarcity of homes lie mainly in pepping up the present market system rather than promoting any radical new gestures in the welfare field.

With its two-day foray into New Brunswick completed Wednesday night, the team under Transport Minister Paul Hellyer is beginning to single out key trouble spots in the Canadian housing problem as its fact finding mission approaches the final stage.

The intermittent regional tours of inquiry are scheduled to finish within three weeks and the team hopes to have recommendations ready by early January.

Its proposals are unlikely to include suggestions for any additional straight subsidies to assist home building or purchase.

In the first place, the costs-conscious Trudeau administration would tend to resist any added welfare commitments.

Further, inquiry members feel tax-provided subsidies for housing would amount to robbing Peter to pay Peter. The weight of additional taxation to meet such costs would hit the very people the policy would be designed to help—those in the annual pay range of $3,000 to $7,000.

The inquiry is likely to concentrate recommendations in three main zones where high costs combine to shut the low- and middle-income family out of adequate housing—mortgage loans, land prices and construction costs.

Prime point of atack is expected to be interest rates and mortgages.

With interest on first mortgages ranging between 8½ and nine per cent, monthly payments are pushed beyond the capacity of most Canadians trying to purchase homes.

Robert Campeau, Ottawa house builder and a member of the Hellyer team, said in Saint John Wednesday that a three per cent drop in interest rates would lower the salary requirements of a potential house purchaser by $2,000 a year. In other words, whereas most homes are open for purchase now only to those earning $8,000 or more a year, the three-per-cent decline in interest rates would widen the potential market to those earning down to $6,000 a year.

Just how interest rates could be dropped without a major readjustment of the economy remains to be settled. But the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. already wields powerful influence on the money market by distributing about $600,000,000 a year in mortgage loans.

Few Teacher Contracts Set As Deadline Approaches

VANCOUVER (CP)—Only 14 of British Columbia's 83 district school boards have settled 1969 salary schedules with their teachers and administrators.

The two sides have until midnight tonight to negotiate the annual wage increases before they are required to go into compulsory arbitration.

Contracts covering all of the 19,064 teachers and administrators must be signed in each district by Dec. 31.

Separate statements issued Tuesday by the B.C. School Trustees Association and the B.C. Teachers' Federation report that only one major district board has reached a provisional settlement.

The BCSTA reports that Prince George teachers negotiators have agreed to an increase next year of 5.99 per cent.

REPORTED HIGHER

But the BCTF, using a different statistical reckoning, said the suggested settlement is actually worth 7 per cent to the district teachers because of a number of fringe benefits.

Williams Lake has also negotiated a 5.99 per cent increase, said the BCSTA statement, and Vanderhoof has settled for an undisclosed amount.

Other reported provisional settlements are at Stikine, Portage Mountain, Golden, Fort Nelson and Fernie for across-the-board increases ranging from 5.5 to 7.5 per cent, depending upon the district and method of calculation.

Six small districts have also agreed to accept rates negotiated at nearby larger districts, or have agreed to accept the provincial average.

BONUSES INVOLVED

They are Barriere, Birch Island, Summerland, Keremeos, Lillooet and Armstrong. Most of are signed will include isolation bonuses ranging from about $100 a year to more than $700.

Des Grady, director of economic welfare for the BCTF, said settlements are coming through slower this year compared with previous years because many trustees claim the new provincial education finance formula is cutting down on available funds.

The local teacher associations have been attempting to reach a settlement in the neighborhood of 6½ per cent, while the trustees have been trying to hold the line at about 5½ per cent.

So far both sides have claimed success by citing different statistics.

Garbage Dump Regulations Set

Tough regulations to control garbage dumping in Greater Victoria will cost the average household around $3 a year.

Senior Metro Health Officer Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread introduced his 29-point ultimatum Tuesday afternoon and won the approval of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health for a Jan. 1, 1969, crackdown.

Saanich Ald. Leslie Passmore said Saanich had estimated the increased cost to handle garbage properly at about $3 a household. "But," he added, "we can't get what we want without paying for it."

Basically the new regulations have ordered garbage dump operators to quit burning and move into the sanitary landfill business.

KEY POINTS

Key clauses in the 29-point manifesto read that:

● Wastes must be dumped at the current fill level, spread and compacted mechanically.

● At the end of each operating day all dumped materials must be spread, compacted and covered.

● A compacted layer of six to nine inches of suitable cover material must be placed over all exposed wastes at the end of each day.

● Waste wood products and waste from demolition projects must be spread in thin layers and covered. Dumping of solid loads in one place is forbidden.

● Burning of any material is prohibited.

● The final layer of cover must be a minimum of two feet in depth.

● The drainage must be provided to minimize run-off and precautions must be taken to prevent pollution of nearby creeks, streams or lakes.

In addition to the stringent regulations governing dumping, garbage dump operators must also prepare detailed plans of their waste disposal areas for review and approval by the health board.

MAPS OF AREA

Included in the plans must be a topographical map of the area showing the contours of the land, the fill area, roads, drainage systems, fencing, on-site structures and details of the soil characteristics of the zone.

Dr. Whitbread told the board that although the new regulations go into effect on Jan. 1 they are regarded only as a temporary measure.

"If we follow these regulations we could carry on for another four or five years without serious problems," he said.

By that time the regional district hopes to be able to present a master-plan for garbage disposal.

A special sub-committee of the regional district has been studying the best methods of garbage disposal for some weeks with Saanich engineer Neville Life concentrating on composting and land-fill methods and Victoria city engineer James Garnett studying a Japanese compacting system.

Saanich municipal council has approved expenses for Mr. Life to travel to Johnson City, Tenn., where a subsidized but highly successful composting system is in operation.

The report of the special committee is expected early in 1969.

Fatal Holdup Charges Filed

SEATTLE (AP) — Charges were filed Wednesday against two suspects in a grocery store holdup which resulted in the shooting death of a Seattle policeman.

William Ogle, 49, and Elmer H. O'Neil, 41, both of Seattle, were charged with robbery and first-degree assault.

Patrolman Robert R. Allshaw was killed by a blast from a shotgun fired by another policeman when the two officers attempted to apprehend the robbery suspects Monday night.

Nixon to Reduce White House Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon plans a thorough overhaul of the White House staff and will abolish such time-honored posts as press secretary and appointments secretary, aides announced Wednesday.

Word of the "restructuring" of the White House inner circle was disclosed by H. R. (Bob) Haldeman, 42-year-old Los Angeles advertising executive who was named Wednesday as one of Nixon's White House assistants.

Haldeman said the White House hierarchy in the Nixon administration probably will include no more than three or four assistants at the highest level. He said these appointees would act more or less as chiefs of staff to the president.

On the next rung down the ladder, there will be a number of special assistants who will handle such matters are press relations and presidential appointments.

Victoria Daily Times
VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOV. 14, 1968—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

There are some problems that our communities haven't yet solved, as witness the fact that about 85 separate dogfights are going on in this province over a single issue. The combatants are school boards that don't propose to shell out a salary nickel more than they have to, and teachers who seek generous pay-raises.

Don't look for heroes in this annual struggle, or for villains, either. Each side argues according to its necessities and convictions.

But the victim isn't hard to find. He's the property owner, whose tax on house and land must foot the salary bill. This fact leads to some hasty reactions, often picturesquely expressed. One that came my way this week edits out like this:

"Those blasted teachers are out to bleed us white!"

They aren't, and in any case, it's a foregone conclusion that the 8 per cent hike which Greater Victoria school district teachers currently seek will be whittled down considerably before a settlement is reached.

What does strike me as strange is that the citizen from whom teachers' demands provoked the above grumble arrives at his own raises through a similar bargaining process.

At least, it looks similar. There are, however, significant differences—and here, I think we come to the root of the trouble.

His services are paid for by a private employer, but the teacher must rely for his living on the community.

★

We are carrying a heavy load. School costs, among which teachers' salaries figure prominently, account for approximately half of our property tax.

This makes the teacher a handy target, especially when he asks for more money.

I am not out to glorify our teachers, and far be it from me to claim that their clan is without its blemishes. There are in some classrooms those whose presence can only be excused by the teacher shortage, and who will probably be fighting all modern educational concepts long after that shortage is past.

But let me also point out that for every misfit we are blessed with dozens of sound teachers who more than earn their pay. They are professionals, and they have committed themselves for their working lives to one of the hardest and most challenging careers on the list.

They are paid on a scale that takes into account their professional training and, up to a point, their years of service. Their work-day does not end with the final buzzer; in fact I have wondered more than once just when it does end.

To assert that such men and women as these are overpaid, or even in danger of approaching that condition, is to deny their skills and their vital role.

★

Education of a community's boys and girls is not a duty that can be neglected, even though it does mean a bill to the property owner of dismaying proportions.

What I object to is the method by which the necessary revenue is raised.

I have no good word to say for a school tax that lumps the retired in with the wage-earner, and that may extract more from the couple on pension than from the two-job family.

Not even the argument that it works well can be mustered for this particular tax.

In addition to oppressing those who can least afford to pay, it overlooks too many of those who can. Designed as a rural revenue-producer, it creaks horribly when applied to city or suburban use.

The place for school tax is on income, and I think the sooner it becomes a fairly apportioned provincial charge against earnings, the better for all our hard-pressed municipalities.

It is too much to expect that the needed change, when it eventually arrives, will end the tug-of-war between teachers who feel they deserve more and the custodians of the public purse-strings.

But the home-owner caught in the middle will escape with less of a trampling!

COLLEGE TENDERS READY

Tenders on a $1.5 million residence college for the University of Victoria will be opened Friday afternoon.

Called more than a month ago for the six-unit building, tenders will be inspected in the office of campus planner Arthur Webb.

The college, named after the old Lansdowne campus and a complement to the existing Craigdarroch College, will house 150 men and 150 women.

When opened — with a target date of September, 1969 — it will double the university's residence accommodation.

Lansdowne College will be part of the co-curricular college system at Uvic with 600 off-campus members in addition to those living in.

It will be connected to the $2 million commons block now nearing completion.

School Board In City Forced To Arbitration

Saanich Peninsula school trustees and teachers appeared on the brink of a contract settlement this morning but negotiators in Greater Victoria will go to compulsory binding arbitration.

The 197 teachers in the peninsula's 18 schools are asking for a 5.9 per cent average salary increase, while the school board is offering 5.5 per cent.

Indications are that a saw-off settlement could be reached today.

DIRECT BARGAINING

The Saanich school board, which has a record for amicable contract negotiations, is the only one of four in the area this year where trustees are bargaining directly with teachers.

Lawyer E. E. Pearlman, a labor contract specialist, is negotiating for the Greater Victoria, Sooke and Gulf Islands school boards.

The Greater Victoria school district, where there are 1,260 teachers involved, is scene of the key debate and both sides were meeting with a conciliation officer this morning. Talks broke off at 11:35 a.m.

It is likely the compulsory settlement arrived at in Greater Victoria would apply in the Sooke and Gulf Islands districts too.

BOARD 'WAITING'

Bargaining stalled locally after teachers dropped their salary increase request from 10.17 to 8 per cent but the board refused to counter with an offer of its own, claiming it was waiting for a "reasonable" offer by teachers.

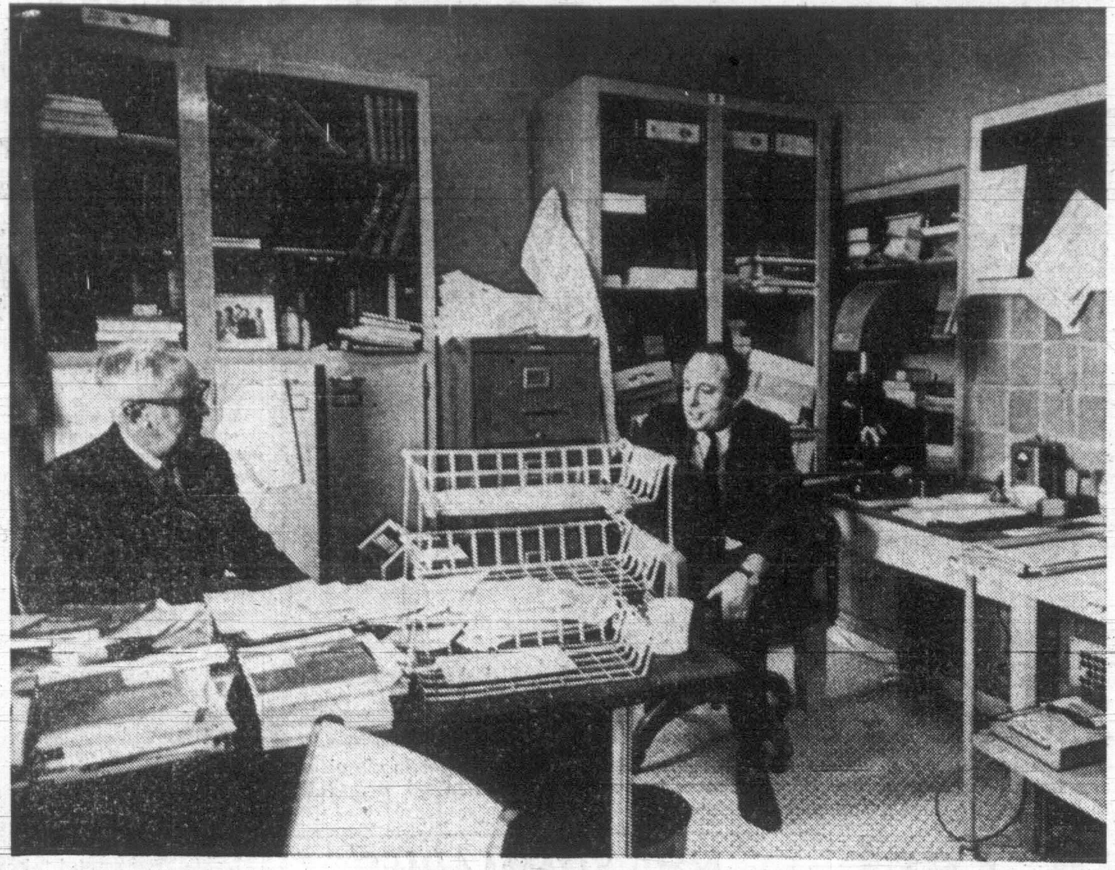
The school board's stand has miffed the teachers.

"The reasons we give for our proposals are neither refuted nor accepted but simply ignored," said Burke Cahill this morning. He is a high school teacher at Mount Douglas and the teachers' negotiator.

He said trustees are ignoring their local responsibility by just eyeing province-wide negotiation developments.

Mr. Pearlman said today there appears to be a province-wide pattern developing with settlements between 5.2 and 6 per cent.

He did point out that bargaining can continue after the deadline. An arbitration board could simply confirm any agreement trustees and teachers reach.



THIS is the section of medical laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital where the pathologist does cancer diagnosis. It is also the office where he directs the operations of the lab's 72-member staff; it is used as a data-processing centre, with a data processer and assistant, and it is used by the lab's chief technician. Pathologist and lab director, Dr. K. R. Thornton, right, discusses expansion of facilities now under way with Cliff Brown, executive assistant to the hospital's director.

'Appalling Conditions' To End With New Lab

A $625,000 expansion and renovation of laboratory facilities under way at Royal Jubilee Hospital will overcome what the laboratory director calls "conditions of appalling difficulty."

Dr. K. R. Thornton today showed how some critically-timed chemical tests, at the halfway mark, have to be taken from one building, across a driveway and up five floors to another chemistry section.

"You get desperate when the elevator doesn't come," the 42-year-old pathologist said.

He pointed around the lab where tuberculosis testing is done for the regional district.

BROKEN TILES

"This is a good lab—spacious, airy and falling to bits." It is an abandoned operating room with cracked-plaster joints and squares of porcelain tile broken from the walls.

When the new facilities are ready, about a year from now, the hospital will double its lab space to 20,000 square feet.

Most of the work involves turning the hospital's fourth-floor roof into the floor of a fifth-storey laboratory. That $332,000 job will be linked to present fifth-floor facilities to be renovated at a cost of $237,000.

Centre of the present lab is a separate building constructed in 1951 for $110,000 and expected to meet the hospital's needs "for many years to come."

SHORT ON SEATS

"Right now," said the blunt-spoken lab director, "we haven't even got enough microscopes or seats for all the technicians."

A $12,000 spectrophotometer, vital to detecting many forms of heart disease, is supposed to be housed in a separate, air-conditioned room. It sits now in a corridor behind half-partitions.

The technicians, most of them girls, drink their coffee in another corridor beside the room where an autopsy was under way this morning.

"This is supposed to be a modern scientific laboratory," said Dr. Thornton. "And we have thousands of dollars of equipment in pokey little rooms."

CONVERTED WASHROOMS

In pokey little rooms and in what used to be storage closets, in converted washrooms, in unlit basement passageways and in rooms where outside doors are left open to keep technicians from being overcome by fumes.

He said that in the last few years the laboratory business had grown faster than any other section of a hospital.

Only 10 years ago, two square feet of lab space for each hospital bed was considered adequate, now at least 20 to 30 square feet is needed.

The Agnew-Peckham report on Victoria's long-range hospital needs had strong criticism of the Jubilee lab:

"Laboratory facilities now are inadequate and require considerable expansion and integration with the hospital complex." The hospital should plan for a doubling of its lab space every 8 to 10 years.

'POWERFUL TOOLS'

Labs traditionally started from a deficit position as basement operations where doctors used to seek confirmation of their diagnoses," said Dr. Thornton.

"Labs now are powerful, direct diagnostic tools."

A bronchial pneumonia patient used to be put to bed, given oxygen and left to ride it out. Where not one test used to be taken, the patients now receive eight or nine.

"People used to die of bronchial pneumonia," he said. Such a death is rare nowadays.

BED SHORTAGE

Because of the bed shortage, a "ruthless selecting of patient" goes on. Constant monitoring of many conditions permits an increase in outpatient treatment.

Besides looking after its own hospital, the Jubilee lab also handles all public health testing for Greater Victoria and does a heavy referral business from other hospitals in the region.

The work is being done, said Mr. Thornton. "We keep up by breaking people's backs."

OIL, GAS PERMITS BRING $4.9 MILLION

The provincial government garnered $4.9 million in the second biggest auction of oil and gas exploration rights since mid-1966, the mines department announced today.

It received $49,062 from statutory fees and $4,892,906 in bonus bids from 32 oil companies on some 455,168 acres of crown reserve in the Peace River area.

At the same time, Mines Minister Richter announced four oil companies have been given exploration permits on 5.2 million acres which was not reserved in the virgin area around Stewart and along the Stewart-Cassiar highway route.

A strike there could shift the oil spotlight to the province's northwest which is on the verge of being opened up with completion soon of the highway, anticipated development of Stewart as the most northerly port and the announced plan to extend the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Stewart.

Today's auction results bring total revenues from four sales of exploration rights in crown reserves to $15,007,020 for the year and the cumulative total revenue since 1953 to $123.8 million.

It was announced the first 1969 auction will be held Jan. 22.

New B.C. Bank Opens Here 'Against Odds'

Skepticism and hostility had to be overcome before a British Columbia bank became reality, Mayor Hugh Stephen told an opening day crowd at the Bank of British Columbia's third branch.

Mayor Stephen joined bank officials A. E. Hall, president, and R. B. Burton, general manager in ceremonies at the bank's new Douglas and Johnson premises, first of two planned for the capital.

Skepticism and hostility are "the enivitable partners of change and innovation," the mayor said.

'STUBBORN FAITH'

"That the bank has been able successfully to overcome these obstacles is due, in large measure, to the stubborn faith which from its inception it inspired in a few men of vision and courage. Among them, I am proud to say, were several from our own community."

The Bank of B.C., promoted in large part by Premier Bennett, drew on two principal convictions, Mayor Stephen said. The first is the free enterprise system's ability to draw allegiance through expanding freedom of choice in economic decisions.

He said that while lip-service to this tenet is expressed, often the financial institutions resist in favor of the status quo.

The second principle is stature of B.C in the industrial and commercial affairs of Canada, which warrants a bank bearing the name of the province, based in this province, he said.

Sooke Fatality Brings Inquest

An inquest into the death of Robert Aubrey, 19, 2426 Sooke Road, who died Tuesday following a truck-motorcycle crash, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Victoria Law Courts.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 11 a.m., at Sands Chapel of the Heather in Colwood.

Renewal Tenders Called

It's official — the call for design and construction proposals for 180 housing units in the Rose-Blanshard area went out today.

Deadline for the sealed tenders has been set at 2 p.m., Thursday, Jan 9.

Each tender must be accompanied by a 10 per cent bid bond or a security deposit of 10 per cent of the tender where the tender does not exceed $250,000 plus five per cent of the amount by which the tender does exceed $250,000.

Estimated cost of the housing project has been set at $2.7 million with the maximum security deposit required by any one tender set at $100,000.

HIGH STANDARDS

Following receipt of the sealed tenders the design proposals—which B.C. architects have pledged not to work on—will be studied by Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation, provincial and Victoria city authorities to ensure high standards of construction.

If there are no serious delays, construction could start in late January with the first homes ready for occupancy by summer.

But even with the major hurdles now cleared for Victoria's first low-rental housing project, many still fear the elimination of architects from the design phase of the project could still result in an instant slum.

At the Centennial United Church Wednesday, Ron Pollard, a team worker with the Children's Aid Society, speaking on the challenge of urban renewal, said there was always the danger that a housing estate could become a ghetto.

"When you assemble poor families in one area, you've got a ghetto," he said. "It's a nice looking ghetto, but it's a ghetto."

LOW DENSITY

City planner Geoff Greenhalgh told the meeting the occupancy density of the new housing area would be approximately half that of conventional apartments.

Mr. Greenhalgh also appealed for a change in attitude by Canadians towards single family dwellings.

"We have to get away from the Canadian holy-cow of single family dwellings," he said. "you can't build a city of them. There is a crying need for row housing, town houses and terrace housing."

He also asked for criticism of the Rose-Blanshard project to be reserved until contractors proposals are studied.

"I don't think we can criticize it until we see it," he said. "it (the project) is tailored to the particular site and to Victoria."

CITY HUNTER FOUND NEAR KELSEY

A Victoria hunter, missing since Monday in dense bushland near Kelsey Bay, 50 miles north of Campbell River, was found today by volunteer searchers.

Rescuers said Robert Knowles, 25, of 250 Oswego, was cold and wet when found. He was without matches and was wearing only light clothing.

He was spotted at 10 a.m., apparently in a near-exhausted condition.

A search was launched Tuesday when Knowles failed to return to his car.

One hundred searchers and a helicopter Wednesday fanned out over a wide area in search of the mising man, but only found a pair of yellow pants in the bush. RCMP believed he had discarded them because they were ripped.

A tracking dog was used by one group of searchers but the search had to be abandoned at night due to snow which made it impossible for the dog to pick up the trail.

This morning the search was resumed by 30 searchers, including five RCMP, personnel from provincial forestry office and MacMillan Bloedel employees.

Ask The Times

Q. Is there a law which makes certain statutory holidays necessary in business and industry?

A. According to the Statutes of British Columbia nine days of the year are general or statutory holidays and every full-time employee is entitled to them. However agreements with trade unions or bodies representing employees may legislate how these holidays be given, i.e. time off or pay.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Best Bargains Go to the Needy

By PETE LOUDON

One day a woman picked up a pair of earrings at St. Vincent De Paul Store on Johnson for 10 cents.

She took them to a jeweller for appraisal, sold them to him for $40 and came back to gloat about it.

That hurt. The Roman Catholic organization which sponsors the store does it to raise funds for charity and as a collection centre for goods and clothing which are given to people in need.

Manager Ben Caron winces a bit when he tells the story.

"It made us smarter," he says.

•

The store now has a volunteer worker who spends hours in the library researching antiques so a more realistic price can be applied to "hot demand" items.

Now when someone comes in looking for an old-fashioned gladiron (the forerunner to the electric iron which you heated on the stove) nobody is fooled by the remark, "I just want it for a door stop."

•

Gladirons are antiques now. St. Vincents asks $3 for them when they are available. Even at that, they are a good buy.

Good buys are the rule at the topsy turvy store in the run-down old building near the Johnson Street fishboat floats. But the best bargains fall to the people who need them.

Ben Caron has a sympathy for native Indians. He doesn't think they get a good deal from life. So he usually gives them fifty per cent off.

If the customer is broke, regardless of race, religion or the way he grows his hair, he gets what he needs free. Then Ben steers him to Benedict Lodge, 2315 Fernwood, where he can also get a free meal.

Ben Caron has a back room with a coffee pot hot all day. Many a Johnson Street character puts in a cold afternoon there. Sometimes there'll be a hippy or two, unwelcome elsewhere, who dropped in to look for some love beads or an old uniform jacket.

"They've always been polite and willing to pay ... no problem for us."

•

That's more than Ben can say about some of the well-dressed matrons who bring in razor blades and nip off with buttons from donated dresses or furs from coats on the welfare rack.

Down-and-out students and room-and-hotplate pensioners get books at St. Vincent De Pauls — average price 10 cents each. People trying to stretch a buck get day-old bread — 700 loaves a week marked down from 26 to 14 cents.

•

There are golf balls 10 cents to 20 cents and there's a cricket set complete, for $9.95. There's a shoe rack too, but they are mostly for emergencies. In Victoria, unlike some centres, "people wear their shoes until the socks show."

St. Vincents isn't geared to show a profit and any it does collect goes into the pot for people in need. Twice in the last year they've been first to answer when fire or tragedy hit local families.

That's why United Appeal contributes $5,570 of the society's $8,570 budget. That's another reason so many people give to United Appeal.

Hall's Face Mask Test Lasts for Two Minutes

By The Canadian Press

St. Louis Blues must have set some sort of National Hockey League record Wednesday night when they used three different goaltenders in the first five minutes of a game.

GLEN HALL
. . . gets gate

The Blues came up with a 3-1 victory against New York as Jacques Plante, the last of the three netminders, held the Rangers scoreless for about 55 minutes.

The unusual chain of events began at 2:01 of the opening period when starting goaltender Glenn Hall had a spirited disagreement with referee Vern Buffey.

Buffey handed Hall a misconduct and a game misconduct. So Hall, using a face mask for the first time in his 16-season career, had little chance to test the new equipment.

Rookie Robbie Irons made his NHL debut as a replacement for Hall. But he was hit on the ankle with a shot during his warmup and before long Plante had to be summoned from the stands.

In other NHL games Wednesday, Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs tied 1-1, Chicago Black Hawks nipped Pittsburgh Penguins 6-5, Oakland Seals edged Detroit Red Wings 2-1 and Minnesota North Stars topped Philadelphia Flyers 4-3.

SCORES FOR N.Y.

Vic Hadfield scored the only New York goal—at 1:16 of the first period against Hall.

Then, with Plante holding the Rangers scoreless, the Blues Bill McCreary scored at 7:15 of the first period, Ron Schock tallied in the second and Frank St. Marseille in the third.

The victory, watched by 15,738 New York fans, moved the first-place Blues three points ahead of the runner-up Los Angeles Kings in the Western Division. The loss left the Rangers in a second-place deadlock with Boston in the Eastern Division.

Plante, 39, made 21 saves for the Blues who outshot the Rangers 31-24.

Stan Mikita scored two goals for Chicago and Ken Wharram, Doug Mohns and Dennis Hull added one each. Charlie Burns collected two goals for Pittsburgh while singles went to Dunc McCallum, Keith McCreary and Val Fonteyne.

Hull's goal, his 10th of the season, ruined a Pittsburgh comeback which had produced three goals in a four-minute span midway through the final period.

Hull also added an assist and now has 26 points, tops in the NHL. Mikita, who also was credited with two assists in addition to his two goals, is second with 22 points.

SPOILS PERFECT NIGHT

A fluke goal by Boston centre Derek Sanderson at 18:56 of the third period ruined an otherwise perfect night for 16,401 Toronto fans and Leaf goaltender Bruce Gamble.

Sanderson's shot from behind the net hit the skate of Toronto winger Ron Ellis and bounced into the net. Gamble stopped 26 shots, 11 of them in the first period.

Paul Henderson scored the only Toronto goal—at 2:47 of the second period on a pass from Norm Ullman.

The tie gave the Bruins their first goal and first point on Toronto ice since Jan. 6 when they tied the Maple Leafs 3-3. In their last 20 games against the Maple Leafs at Toronto, the Bruins have managed only four ties and no wins.

The Maple Leafs lost veteran defenceman Pierre Pilote with an injured leg. He will be replaced, at least until the weekend, by Jim McKenny of Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

Danny Grant, Danny O'Shea and Claude Larose, who form Minnesota's most dangerous line, scored one goal each against Philadelphia.

A crowd of only 3,204 at Oakland saw Gary Jarrett win the game for the Seals by scoring with 48 seconds left.

The goal, Jarrett's seventh of the season, came on a 25-foot shot after he took a pass from Norm Ferguson.

Bill Hicke scored the other Oakland goal while Bruce MacGregor replied for Detroit.

Riders Managed To Stop Symons

TORONTO (CP)—A strong ground attack and the ability to stop halfback Bill Symons were key factors in Ottawa Rough Riders' success against Toronto in the Eastern Football Conference this year.

The Rough Riders have literally run over tht Argos while winning all three meetings and outscoring Toronto 100-33.

But despite the gap, Ottawa has been established as only seven-point favorite here Sunday in the first of the two-game total-point EFC final. The second game is scheduled for Ottawa Saturday, Nov. 23.

Statistically, Ottawa's ground attack and the Riders' ability to contain the Argos in three previous meetings this year is ominous.

The Riders have outrushed the Argos by 384 yards—696 to 312—but more important is the fact that Ottawa's three top rushers, Vic Washingon, Bo Scott and quarterback Russ Jackson have gained more yardage than the entire Toronto team. The three have gained a total of 558 yards at Toronto's expense.

Meanwhile, the Riders have been able to hold Symons, the top rusher in the EFC with 1,107 yards this season, to a mere 157 yards. Ottawa has also outscored Toronto 24-0 along the ground.

Symons has the reason although he lacks the solution.

"Somehow we always seem to get caught at their game," he says. "The last time they played us, we had decided to throw against them. So we end up running against them and it was fatal."

Ottawa won the encounter 32-9, which established them as the EFC regular-season champions.

Toronto quarterback Wally Gabler holds a slight edge over Jackson in yards gained passing, but the Riders have scored six times on passes to the Argos' three.

Gabler holds a 45-32 edge over Jackson in pass completions and 628-612 yards gained through the air, but he has passed 91 times compared to Jackson's 55.

Ottawa has intercepted nine Toronto passes for a total of 143 yards, while the Argos have intercepted four for 57 yards.

Ottawa also has the superior field goal kicker in Don Sutherin, winner of the regular-season scoring title with 112 points which includes one touchdown, 44 converts, 17 field goals and 11 singles.

He has dominated Toronto kicker Dave Mann during all three games. Mann tried four field goals and made one, while Sutherin has tried nine and made four.

Sunday's game, scheduled for 2 p.m. EST, will be televised nationally by the CTV with the Toronto area blacked out.

Roberto's Money Goes on Knudson

ROME (AP) — United States representatives were favored to outplay two-man teams from 41 other nations and capture the 16th annual World Cup golf championship which opened today.

They were U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, 28, of Dallas, Tex., and Julius Boros, 48, Professional Golfers Association champion, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

In a practice round Wednesday Boros carded a 68, two off the record 66 for the 6,850-yard par-72 Olgiata Country Club course. Trevino, U.S. Open champ and fresh from winning the Hawaii Open, finished in 72.

Since making book on sports events is not the fashion in Italy, it was the locker-room and clubhouse golf watchers who labelled the Americans 4-1 favorites over Gary Player and Cobie Le Grange of South Africa, and George Knudson and Al Balding, both of Toronto.

LIKES KNUDSON

A South Korean named Hans Chang Sang, however, shot a 69, pointing up the possibility of an outsider taking the cup if the big names run in to trouble.

Player and Boros each picked the other as the likely winner of the individual prize. But former World Cup winner Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina, also regarded as a threat, said he'd put his money on Knudson.

"Knudson, more than the Americans, seems to have fit his game into this course," said De Vicenzo.

SKATE DATES

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia coast figure skating championships will be held here Nov. 23 and 24.

Now They're Maplettes

Victoria's national senior women's basketball champions are no longer Untouchables.

Winners of the Canadian title under the name of Rawlings last spring, the club started its current season without a sponsor and adopted the name of Untouchables.

With a sponsor obtained, the club invited entries in a contest to name the team. Dozens of entries were received and Wednesday night players selected the new name, submitted by Cliff Vickery, 3772 Tillicum.

The champs are now the Victoria Maplettes.

OVERFLOW CROWD . . . . . . ATTENDS BENEFIT

Aid for Ailing Ezzard

CHICAGO (AP) — An overflow crowd of 1,300, including several ring greats, attended a $15-a-plate benefit Wednesday night for ailing Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion.

Charles, 46, is suffering from lateral sclerosis, a nerve condition in the spine. He said he first noticed it in 1955, a few years before he retired from the ring. It has worsened progressively.

Charles attended in a wheelchair and, while making a short speech, was propped up by Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore, both of whom he fought.

Other former champions on hand were Cassius Clay, Henry Armstrong and Johnny Coulon.

"It is hard to realize this could happen to me," Charles said haltingly. "All I can say is thank you, thank you."

It was estimated that a minimum of $15,000 was realized. It will be deposited in a trust fund for Charles, who lost to Marciano in a title bout for the second time in 1954. It was downhill after that.

Horses Lost

NEWELL, W. Va. (AP) — Trainer James Pogue of Toronto had five horses among the 22 killed Wednesday in a Waterford Park barn blaze that caused an estimated $80,000 damage.

The fire apparently started in the electrical system in a tack room.

Wilson and Pals Slap Down Cats

Cougars Clipped At Westminster As Bucks Win

Mick Wilson and the small ice surface at New Westminster killed the Cats Wednesday night and Victoria Cougars now have to share second place in the British Columbia Junior Hockey League.

Wilson was the big gunner at Westminster, firing three goals and collecting three assists as the Royals shot down the Cougars 6-4 for their first home-ice victory of the season.

While the Cougars were taking their lumps, Kelowna Buckaroos were riding high at Vernon, whipping the Essos 7-3 to move into a tie with Victoria, four points behind the pace-setting Penticton Broncos.

Helping the Royals whip the Cats for the first time in three meetings this season, Wilson's linemates also had a productive evening. Al Dorohoy reaped a goal and three assists and Al Knight earned a goal and an assist.

MILES GETS TWO

Lonnie Miles counted twice to pace the Cougars, who were outshot 35-32 by the last-place Royals before only 150 fans.

Bob Merluk and Len Barrie also scored for Victoria, which was trailing 4-3 going into the final period.

Victoria coach Doug Anderson, who praised the efforts of goalie Ed Forslund, said the small ice surface at Queen's Park Arena continued to bother his club.

"We weren't skating as well as we could, or should, have done," he commented.

Anderson, however, was happy with the work of the Miles-Adrian Blais-Merluk line, which figured in three of the Victoria goals after the coach shifted Blais to centre and Merluk to left wing.

COUSINS WITH BUCKS

Cougars meet Butler Brothers of the Vancouver Island Hockey League in an exhibition game at Esquimalt Sports Centre Friday night and return to Memorial Arena Saturday night for the league game against Kamloops.

Dave Cousins, playing his first game for Kelowna this season after being released by the Cougars, did not score at Vernon but drew an assist.

Setting the Kelowna scoring pace was Larry Lanenduzzi, who drilled three goals. Gene Carr scored twice and singles went to Gordon Ozinchuck and Chuck Corrigan.

Vernon scorers were Gerry Vachon, Wayne Dye and Gordon Merritt.

ROYAL ROADS TO STAGE CROSS-COUNTRY EVENT

Royal Roads Military College hosts the annual Admiral Nelles cross-country invitational race Saturday, starting at 2:30 p.m.

Held over a 4.2-mile course, the competition is expected to attract approximately 40 four-man teams.

The harriers will run under two classifications—open and high school—with invitations sent out to runners at many universities, high schools and forces bases in British Columbia.

Post entries will be accepted.

Convert Kicks Could Be Key

REGINA (CP)—The convert is considered one of the easiest plays in football. For Calgary Stampeders, however, the extra point could deny them a berth in the Grey Cup final.

When they face Saskatchewan Roughriders here Saturday in the opener of their best-of-three series for the Western Conference title, the Stampeders will be up against a team that makes its opponents work for the point after touchdown.

The teams have met six times in the last year. Every game was decided by a margin of four points or less and Calgary missed converts in five of them. The Riders won four games to the Stampeders' two.

AFFECT OUTCOME

Here is the way the converts affected the outcome:

Nov. 18, 1967—The teams kicked two converts apiece as the Stampeders won 15-11 in the first game of the WFC final at Calgary.

Nov. 22 — Saskatchewan squared the series, winning 11-9 at Regina. A missed convert by Bill Goods prevented Calgary from forcing overtime by kicking a single in the closing stages.

Nov. 26—Saskatchewan won 17-13 at Calgary. The game ended with the Stampeders within field-goal range, but forced into desperation passes because a missed convert left them needing a touchdown to stay alive.

July 30, 1968—A missed convert by Larry Robinson made the difference as the Stampeders lost 25-24 at Calgary. Goods, now a Rider, was successful on all three attempts.

Sept. 29—Stampeders won 38-35 in Calgary despite one miss in five tries by Robinson. Goods kicked four for four.

Oct. 14—Saskatchewan virtually nailed down first place by winning 19-15 at Regina, scoring the go-ahead touchdown with less than two minutes to go. Once again, a missed convert prevented Calgary from tying it up with a field goal.

KICKS 216 CONVERTS

Robinson has kicked 216 converts more than any other WFC player, in a 10-year career. His completion average this season was .865. Against the Riders it was .700.

Goods is considered so deadly as a short-range place-kicker that the Stampeders picked him to replace Robinson last year. He averaged .881 during the regular schedule. In the playoffs the Riders knocked the figure down to .600.

When the CBC national network airs Saturday's game viewers would be smart not to head for the kitchen in search of refreshments as soon as somebody scores a touchdown. They may be missing the crucial play.

Aces Face Bucks In Hockey Clash

The league-leading Ingraham Buckaroos meet cellar-dwelling Drake Hotel Aces in the opening game of a Stuffy McGinnis Commercial Hockey League tonight at 8:15.

Victoria Automatic Transmission and Empress Paint attempt to break a second-place tie in the next game at 9:30.

Hopefuls Hit Mat Saturday

The Canadian Forces Base at Esquimalt will sponsor an invitational amateur wrestling tournament Saturday.

Post entries will be accepted to add to the 40 already received for the first of what is hoped to become an annual event.

Terry Lefebvre and Harry Wilnechenko head the list of entries expected. Lefebvre won the 1967 B.C. novice championship in the 115-pound class and came fourth in the 1968 Canadian championships held in Vancouver.

Wilnechenko captured the provincial novice 171-pound championship.

The tournament gets under way at noon, with most finals scheduled Saturday evening.

Grand Prix Drivers Look for Expansion

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former race driver Stirling Moss, director of the Canadian-American Challenge Cup racing series, has predicted the Can-Am series may be expanded to 10 races next year.

"Nothing official has been announced yet," Moss said, "but I'd give 2 to 1 that there will be 10 races in the circuit next year."

He said discussions have indicated there would be two more races in Canada and two more in the United States. This year, the six races on the tour were at Aljart Lake, Wis., Bridgehampton, N.Y., Edmonton, Monterey and Riverside in California and Las Vegas.

Moss said if the series were expanded, there would be about $1,000,000 in total prize money with $30,000 guaranteed for each of the new races.

COURSES IN EAST

No sites were mentioned.

Road courses exist at Mosport, Ont., Mont Tremblant, Que., Watkins Glen, N.Y., and Lexington, Ohio.

Escaping a spectacular, first-lap accident, New Zealand's Denis Hulme led from start to finish to capture the $80,000 Stardust Grand Prix here at the weekend and, with it, the 1968 Can-Am championship.

Hume picked up $11,450 for his weekend victory and an additional $40,000 as the series' overall winner.

Hulme's teammate, Bruce McLaren, lost his chance for victory when he became a victim of a five-car pileup on the first turn. McLaren still finished second in the series' overall standing, followed by American Mark Donohue.

VIKING VIEWS

By STEVE HUME

From the quiet halls of the University of Victoria's rare books collection to the campus rugby pitch may seem like quite a jump, but it doesn't seem to bother Howard Gerwing.

HOWARD GERWING

As head of the university library's special collections branch, Gerwing is in charge of rare manuscripts and out-of-print volumes considered essential to academic bookshelves.

The job takes up most of his time, but what's left is devoted lovingly to the sport of rugby at the university.

Gerwing, more than any other individual, has made rugby at Uvic into a major sport that is growing all the time.

When the librarian arrived at Victoria's university in 1963, the game was disorganized and the Vikings were in danger of being bumped back down into the Victoria Rugby Union's second division for failure to fulfill first-division commitments.

He moved in to take up a coaching position and ended up as head coach for the 1964 season.

"At my first practice at Beacon Hill Park it was pouring with rain and we had out just enough bodies to put together two teams. I knew right then we were going to lose a lot of games that season," Gerwing said.

"And I was right. To make matters worse we didn't win many games during my second season either."

But the rugby ball was rolling, and the new coach continued frantically organizing and recruiting.

"Organizing a rugby club into a fighting outfit is more than just trying to keep fit," the UBC graduate said.

"There are all the social aspects of the sport to be considered, and rugby, after all, is primarily a social sport."

* * *

Whatever his formula was, it finally paid off in the 1967-68 season when the senior varsity Vikings turned the Victoria Union upside-down in a march to the provincial championships.

The Norsemen followed suit in the second division, and for the first time, Uvic had championship rugby teams.

Gerwing, however, says much of the credit myst go to his assistant last season, Ray Calton, who handled the junior varsity sides.

"It was Ray's work with the Norsemen and with new players on the Saxons that gave us the bench strength we needed to go all the way to the B.C. championship," he says.

"He took the rag-tag ends of the rugby club and made them into an organized machinery for turning out top-notch first-division players," Gerwing said.

Calton has the experience the task required.

A 17-year veteran of Victoria's rugby wars, he is a past international player who saw action against New Zealand and scored a try against Australia during their 12-8 uoset at the hands of B.C. in 1958.

* * *

Gerwing moved up to the post of general manager of Uvic's rugby club this season when league commitments in the Northwest Pacific Intercollegiate Rugby Conference called for a full-time administrator.

He was replaced as coach by Uvic faculty-member Dr. Alan Morton, a former international star with Australia.

And the job of running rugby at the university level looks like it will get even more difficult in seasons to come.

With three teams firmly established under Gerwing and Calton, the club is already expanding to include the Angles and the Jutes, a pair of teams operating on a friendly basis only this season.

Under the present set-up, Uvic rugger squads have more than 70 bodies on their rosters, and Gerwing thinks the figure will increase as the university continues to expand.

"Rugby is here to stay as far as Uvic is concerned," Gerwing says. "All I want to do is make sure it's good rugby."

Saunders Trio Rescues Bucks

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Bill Saunders fired three goals in the last 10 minutes to give Portland Buckaroos a 6-6 tie with last-place Denver Spurs Wednesday night in a Western Hockey League game before 1,372 fans.

Denver took a quick 3-0 lead in the first period but Saunders' markers closed the scoring to bring his club back from a 6-3 deficit.

Gord Vejprava also counted three times to lead the Spurs in the free-scoring contest. Other Denver goal-getters were Noel Picárd, Jacques, Lemieux and Bob Carter.

Other Portland scorers were Norm Johnson with two and Cliff Schmautz with a single.

Three Portland goals came with the Spurs shorthanded.

DODGERS LIKE FENCE MOVING

LOS ANGELES (AP) Since moving to Dodger Stadium seven years ago, Los Angeles Dodgers have averaged only 35 home runs a year before hometown fans. Next season, they are bringing the fences in.

The National League baseball club has announced it would move home plate 10 feet closer to the centre field wall. Thus, the power hitting alleys will be 375 feet instead of 385 and a 400-foot shot will clear the centre field fence.

The foul lines remain 330 feet, because of the way the fences curve.

Fraser Fires Ace

Gorge Vale golfer Dave Fraser came up with the second hole-in-one of his golfing career this week, scoring an ace on the 144-yard 14th hole on his home course.

Chinooks Get Rugged Chore

Don't be surprised if Victoria Chinooks lose a game or two next weekend, but that won't effect their unbeaten streak in the Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League.

Currently leading the junior circuit with four wins in four starts, the Chinooks get a rest from league chores next weekend. But coach Moe Turner is making sure they don't get too long a break from hoop toil.

Hoping to keep his club sharp while providing valuable experience, Turner is importing what promises to be the toughest team the Chinooks have yet faced — the Vancouver Senior "A" All-Stars — for an exhibition series.

All-Stars, with a roster that includes some of Canada's top basketball names, will meet the Chinooks in a pair of games at Central Junior High School, Saturday at 8:45 p.m. and Sunday at 2:15 p.m.

Teams in the new mini-league will play a preliminary to each of the exhibition tussles.

Toughest man for the Chinooks to handle could be Brent Watson, a six-five centre who was voted the most valuable player in last season's Canadian championship.

Two former members of Canada's national team — Ian Hunter and John Kootnekoff — are also listed with the All-Stars along with four players who have campaigned with highly-rated U.S. squads.

They are Roger Swan (North Carolina), Riley Jones (Indiana), Chuck Pruiet (California) and Ray Goodwin, former member of the Harlem Clowns.

GROCERS TRIPPED

At Vancouver Wednesday night, IGA Grocers missed a chance to gain ground on the Chinooks when they were upset 70-60 by North Shore Mountaineers.

Bill Russell fired 19 points to spark the Mountaineers to their first win of the season.

Wilson, Wakelin Capture Golf Pin

Helen Wilson and Mary Wakelin captured the challenge brooches from Norma Spandier and Alice Mitchell, 2-up, in a women's button competition at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Ivy Blunt and Juanita Turner topped contestants in a medal round.

In a par competition at Uplands, Edna Hicks won "A" division, Esther Barnes and Winifred Pinfield tied for "B" laurels and Ann Dark tied with Doris Lovric in the "C" division.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Making debut on victory stage in Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition is Kay Clarke, who has collected women's fivepin award in sixth week of annual contest. Kay, who includes sewing and golf among her interests, topped her division by cracking maples for 271-280-284—835 series in Mixed Classic League at Gibson's Recreations.

ASHE'S EFFORT . . . . . . WAS 80 PER CENT

Fuss Follows Upset

LONDON (AP) — The surprise elimination of Arthur Ashe, the United States open champion, created a furore Wednesday in the British covered courts tennis championship.

Ashe, who last week led the U.S. Davis Cup team to an inter-zone victory over India in Puerto Rico, lost to a little-known Briton, Gerald Battrick, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

Later, in an informal interview, the American admitted he gave only 80 per cent effort.

One of the tournament directors, Derek Penman, said he was disappointed over Ashe's performance and the first-round defeat of two other U.S. Davis Cup aces, Clark Graebner and Charlie Pasarell.

He said he planned to discuss the matter with Donald Dell, U.S. Davis Cup captain.

Ashe served at half-pace and often made only half-hearted attempts to return the ball in his match against Batrick, a Welshman who two weeks ago upset Tom Okker of The Netherlands.

"Anyway, I guess you'd say I had a black day."

Questioned afterward, Ashe told reporters:

"Let us say I was trying 80 per cent. There might have been three things wrong with me. I might have a fractured shin, I might have a deposit of calcium on my left heel or I might have tendonitis in my right elbow.

Indian Citizenship To Stop Time Bomb

KELOWNA (CP) — An Indian band spokesman said Wednesday Prime Minister Trudeau must give Indians full citizenship rights if he hopes to defuse the time bomb ticking in Canadian society.

Forrest Walkem of the Cook's Ferry band from Spence's Bridge, B.C., made the statement during a detailed submission to federally-sponsored hearings on revision of the Indian Act.

Noting that Mr. Trudeau last week expressed fears of massive social unrest in Canada, Mr. Walkem urged the prime minister to "look at his own people in his own back yard."

Mr. Walkem called for final settlement of land claims questions as a first step toward securing full citizenship rights. He also invited Mr. Trudeau and Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien to meet his band at Spence's Bridge to negotiate a final settlement on land and aboriginal rights.

CLAIMS IMPORTANT

In a strong protest against the concept of the Indian Act and the hearings that have been taking place across the province, Mr. Walkem said:

"Our land claims are equally important to us as our aboriginal rights as native people, and these claims cannot be dealt with separately.

"Your requirement that all natives of B.C. must negotiate as one unit is a pitfall placed by you in the pathway of each individual band, since you know that unity among unrelated people is nearly impossible."

Mr. Walkem said members of his tribe were "somewhat confused as to why we were invited here."

FIRST IMPRESSION

"Our first impression was that your government had finally decided that we have become knowledgeable enough to decide how our own lives and affairs might be run.

"A review of the facts, however, tells us that there is no indication that the inequities imposed by you upon us in the past will change.

"It is the opinion of our band that no Indian Act, no matter how comprehensive, has ever in the past, nor will ever in the future, give us rights to freedom and responsibility equal to those enjoyed by the non-natives presently occupying our land," said Mr. Walkem.

The hearings continue.

SFU Seeks Censure End

BURNABY (CP) — Faculty members at Simon Fraser University in this Vancouver suburb Wednesday voted to ask the Canadian Association of University Teachers to immediately lift its censure of the university that was imposed last May.

In a referendum ballot, 133 voted in favor of lifting the censure, 45 votes in favor of lifting it conditionally and 22 opposed lifting the censure.

The SFU recommendation will come before the CAUT's executive meeting Friday in Ottawa for decision.

The censure was imposed following an investigation of campus conditions by a three-man CAUT team which came at the request of the SFU Faculty Association.

The censure motion criticized the administration of the SFU board of governors for having too much control over faculty members.

Consumer Council To Be Independent

Non-Paid Advisory Group To Assist Federal Minister

TORONTO (CP) — The chairman of the newly-formed Canadian Consumer Council says the council "will not be a rubber stamp for the department of consumer and corporate affairs."

Dr. David Leighton said in a telephone interview from London, Ont., Wednesday the council "will act in an advisory capacity to the entire government where consumer affairs cross departmental lines into agriculture, health, welfare, industry, trade or commerce."

"The council was appointed as a very independent voice."

Dr. Leighton, professor of business administration at the University of Western Ontario, was appointed to the position last week by Ron Basford, federal minister of consumer and corporate affairs.

"I was appointed because it was felt I would be a useful bridge," he said.

GETS NO PAY

"There is no pay for the job. The only permanent employee of the council will be a research person, combining research and secretarial position."

Dr. Leighton said members of the council are expected to contribute "on the basis of their individual convictions, rather than on the basis of views held by particular organizations."

Meanwhile, District Court Judge Mary Batten of Saskatoon said she wants an independent voice for the council and added that "releases on the council's findings be made to consumers and the press."

"They are not to go through the minister," Judge Batten said in an interview.

"I am worried that consumers don't feel secure in the marketplace. But they should have security and honesty in advertising.

PRICES ARE TRUE?

"The consumer has the right to know that the discount price is a true saving, that the item wasn't raised in price two days ago and lowered to its original level."

Judge Batten, chairman of the Prairie provinces royal commission on consumer problems and inflation, also suggested that much consumer protection would be more effective at a provincial, rather than federal level.

"The law as it is written is really for the retailer. The retailer who handles so many name brands is almost a warehouse, leaving the consumer on the outside, groping for information."

However, Mrs. A. F. W. Pumptre of Toronto, former president of Consumers Association of Canada, is concerned about a number of issues that could rank as priorities with the 24-member council, particularly warranty and guarantee clauses in contracts.

"There should be a review of the warranty and guarantee clauses in contracts," Mrs. Plumptre said in an interview.

Dog Owner Freed in Axe Injury Case

WINNIPEG CP) — A charge against a dog owner of "unlawfully and wilfully injuring a dog by striking it with a hatchet" has been dismissed in provincial magistrate's court.

Edward Jansen, 27, of the suburb of St. James, was acquitted following a four-hour trial Wednesday.

Magistrate John Enns said in dismissing the charge there was reasonable doubt as to the unlawfulness of the injury inflicted on the large dog Aug. 30. Jansen told the court he had been fearful for the safety of his child.

Power Feud Grips China As Red Leaders Scheme

HONG KONG (AP) — A Hong Kong businessman just back from Canton said Wednesday a bitter behind-the-scenes power struggle is being waged in China by Premier Chou En-lai and Defence Minister Lin Piao.

He said he learned of the struggle between Chou and Lin, who is Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung's heir-apparent, from a relative he described as a high-ranking official in Canton and conversant with internal Communist party power politics.

The relative, the businessman said, reported that Chou held a series of secret meetings in Canton in late October to line up support against Lin.

Western analysts here said they could not confirm the Chou support meetings but added that the report of the Chou-Lin power struggle coincided with "glimmerings and tidbits" currently coming out of China.

These fragmentary reports, the experts said, indicate that various conservative elements within the Chinese Communist party are uniting behind Chou in opposing the Mao-Lin faction.

An open power struggle is not yet in evidence, said the analysts—men who have the job of trying to assess Chinese developments for their governments. But some believed that it is developing underground fast enough to break out into the open within the next six months.

Undersea Mansion Awaits Canadians

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — In a telephone interview to Vancouver, Lt.-Cmdr. Mike Lanfontaine, a Canadian navy diving expert, talked clearly and coolly about testing new diving equipment 620 feet under water.

But now, when Sealab III lies on the continental shelf off the California coast, the Montreal-born aquanaut will sound more like a hyper-excited version of Donald Duck.

The effect on the vocal cords is caused by helium gas in the atmosphere of Sealab III and the breathing systems of divers working outside it. Each of five nine-men teams is spending 12 days under the Pacific Ocean.

•

Lafontaine, 34, Canada's most senior naval diving officer, is one of three Canadians in the project. Others are LS Bill Lukeman, 30, of Sydney, N.S., and Dr. Joe MacInnis, a civilian doctor from Toronto.

Sealab III is the United States Navy's third project in a series designed to develop the skills and equipment needed to work at depths which range from 600 to 1,000 feet over the offshore continental shelf.

The Sealab "habitat" looks like a 307-ton railroad tank car—minus wheels. It's effectively self-contained, but a support ship is linked to it on the surface near San Clemente Island.

"I'll be in the last team to go down," said Lafontaine in mid-October. "We're going to be doing a lot of taking pictures and recordings of bottom animals and proving deep-diving equipment."

•

In addition, he and Lukeman, son of a retired Canadian navy lieutenant-commander, will test a diving suit which carries its own heating system, powered by an atomic energy heater.

Along with the Donald Duck voices goes some Disneyesque work: using two trained dolphins and two sea lions to carry pieces of equipment and, if needed, haul safety lines to aquanauts in trouble.

The Canadians were invited through diplomatic channels to take part in the project. The 59 aquanauts involved in Sealab III also include two naval diving exp[illegible] from Britain and one from Australia.

The U.S. Navy coldly lists among purposes of the man-in-the-sea research such things as testing tools, salvage procedures and compiling data on "the psychological effect . . . upon aquanauts."

Lafontaine sounds more enthusiastic: "Canada happens to have the largest continental shelf area of any nation. The possibilities have no limits — except the limits of your imagination."

To scratch the surface of the possibilities, Sealab III is developing the technique of saturation diving, of which Lafontaine says: "It's a new field; there are very, very few people with experience."

A conventional "hard-hat diver" can work at 300 feet for an hour. As he comes up, he spends 12 hours in "decompression" — allowing the body to eliminate gases which were absorbed in under-sea pressure.

•

In saturation diving, the body is saturated with gases. The decompression time might be long — 2½ days, for example — but its time does not change, whether the diver stays down four hours or weeks.

The Canadian aqu[illegible] have extensive diving experience. They were assigned to the Deep Submergence Systems Project Technical Officer in San Diego, Calif., in January, and Sealab III training began in May.

In Sealab I, four aquanauts lived under water for 11 days at a depth of 193 feet southwest of Bermuda in 1964. No significant psychological or psysiological changes were noted.

A year later, Sealab II went down to 205 feet off La Jolla, Calif. Three teams of 10 aquanauts each spent 15-day periods living in, and working out of, the Sealab II habitat."

By 1970, the U.S. Navy plans to have diver-aquanauts living in their sea-bottom homes for up to 30 days. Technology could open up the sea for food, minerals, recreation and military purposes.

Lt.-Comdr. Lafontaine joined the Canadian navy as a reserve cadet in 1951, served in the destroyer-escorts Huron and Restigouche and was stationed in Ottawa before joining the Sealab III crews.

The father of five completed the gruelling Royal Navy diving course and has worked in some dangerous diving areas, such as the St. Lawrence. He was senior officer in the navy's diving branch.

LS Lukeman joined the navy in 1958 and also served in the Restigouche. He completed a diving course in Halidax in 1959 and has worked extensively with U.S. navy underwater demolition teams.

NELSON SEEKS RATING AS DEPRESSED AREA

NELSON (CP) — A brief from the city will be presented to Development Minister Jean Marchand Friday asking him to designate this Kootenay community a depressed area.

A city official said Wednesday the brief, to be presented by Mayor Louis Maglio, will ask that Nelson be included under the Area Development Incentive Act, which provides concessions for companies locating in certain areas.

The brief says Nelson should be included because wages in the area are low and the population has dropped by 330 in the last 10 years.

Bulk of Report Adopted

OTTAWA (CP) — Of the 282 recommendations of the Montpetit royal commission on post office working conditions, 152 have been fully implemented and 53 partially, Postmaster-General Kierans told the Commons Wednesday.

In a written reply to David Anderson (L—Esquimalt-Saanich) the minister gave this additional breakdown on the recommendations: eight have been rejected by the department, unions, or both; 13 fall under union jurisdiction; 22 are negotiable; and 34 require further consideration by both parties.

Late Composer To Be Honored

A memorial concert honoring the late Dr. Healey Willan, famous Canadian composer, will be given in Christ Church Cathedral tonight at 8.

The choirs of the cathedral and St. Barnabas', Anglican Church will sing anti-phonally the composer's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis.

Norma Selwood, mezzo soprano, will sing two settings of French Canadian folksongs arranged by Dr. Willan.

Boycott Won't Affect Patients

OTTAWA (CP) — Boycott of the federal medical care plan by Manitoba doctors would make no difference to the benefits available to patients when that province joins the plan next year, federal health department officials said Wednesday.

Instead of the doctor collecting from the provincial medical care insuring agency for his treatment of a patient, the patient would collect the insurance benefit for transmission to the doctor, a senior official said.

That would be the only effect on the public of a boycott by the Manitoba doctors of the plan. Dr. D. M. McPhail, president of the Manitoba Medical Association, announced at a news conference in Winnipeg Wednesday that the province's doctors will be asked by the association to boycott the federal plan.

Manitoba has indicated its intention of joining the federal plan April 1, 1969.

The Manitoba association's intention was conveyed to Health Minister Munro last weekend at a meeting here among Munro and Canadian Medical Association officers, including Dr. McPhail.

A federal official who attended the meeting said the Canadian Medical Association accepted Munro's invitation to be represented on a federal-provincial committee to study ways to limit increases in the costs of the federal plan.

So far only Saskatchewan and British Columbia are participating. Nova Scotia and Manitoba are to start next April 1. The other provinces are either opposed to joining or haven't committed themselves to join or stay out.

Under the plan, the federal government pays half the average per capita costs of acceptable provincial medical care insurance plans.

Dr. McPhail also said 73 per cent of the province's doctors oppose a plan in which the patient would not pay part of the fee himself.

This subject also was discussed at last weekend's meeting, the federal source said.

Munro was reported to have informed the doctors that Saskatchewan's five-month experience with utilization fees has not yet established whether this helps curb medical care costs.

MORE DANGERS

The source said Munro took the position that there are more dangers that utilization fees will act as a deterrent to patients obtaining needed medical care than there are advantages to them.

In Saskatchewan, the public pays annual premiums ranging from $36 for single persons to $72 for families and utilization fees of $1.50 for each office call and $2 for each home, emergency or out-patient call.

An informant said Munro told the doctors that since Saskatchewan has gone ahead with utilization fees while remaining within the federal program, Ottawa could not prevent other provinces from doing the same.

But the federal government reserved the right to withhold payment of its half of the costs of provincial plans that place substantial obstacles in the way of access to medical care by the public.

Only study of the Saskatchewan experience in the next few months could determine whether the Saskatchewan fee represented such an obstacle.

GAGNIER

Transplant Has Unique Innovation

TORONTO (CP) — Alfred Gagnier is in excellent condition today after receiving a new heart Wednesday in an operation in which a surgical innovation was used for the first time in Canada.

The 54-year-old father of hine from Belle River, Ont., near Windsor, received the heart of Jeremiah Shanahan, 22, of Angus, Ont., 65 miles north of here, in a five-hour operation at Toronto General Hospital.

The technique, known as anoxic arrest, was developed in heart transplant operations by Dr. Denton Cooley of Houston, Tex.

Dr. Wilfred G. Bigelow, chief of the cardiovascular section at the hospital, said the technique involved the "almost incredible" concept that the heart could live without oxygen and seemed able to exist on its own sugar.

Dr. Bigelow said the donor's heart was not cooled and did not receive any artificial circulation while being sutured into position. The heart began beating immediately after an electric shock.

The transplant, performed by a five-surgeon team headed by Dr. Bigelow, was the third in Toronto and Canada's 12th.

Mr. Shanahan, a carpenter's helper, died following a highway accident Tuesday night. He also donated his kidneys and corneas for transplant operations.

Michael Peterson, 40, of Toronto and George Rate, 37, of Scarborough, received the kidneys. Both were reported "fine" in Toronto Western Hospital.

Two Toronto men, Gerald Sinclair and Ronald Ainsworth, received the corneas at Toronto General late Wednesday night.

Mr. Gagnier had a large aneurysm removed, Dr. Bigelow said. The aneurysm, a blood-filled sac caused by the dilation of a blood vessel, was in such a position it could not be removed surgically unless a transplant took place.

Pakistan Arrests Spark Widespread Protests

KARACHI (AP) — A widespread roundup of opposition political leaders continued today with the leaders of two leftist parties and more than 25 other political figures in jail. The governor of West Pakistan blamed them for the assassination attempt against President Mohammed Ayub Khan Sunday.

A large number of student leaders also were detained after the roundup of left-wing leaders began Wednesday with the arrest of former foreign minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto at Lahore.

Government forces later arrested Abdul Wali Khan, president of the National Awami party and a number of officers and workers in his party and Bhutto's new Pakistan People's party.

The arrest of Bhutto touched off violence in Lahore and Multan Wednesday and 100 lawyers in Rawalpindi took to the streets with placards demanding release of those jailed.

GOVERNOR OUTSPOKEN

Gov. Mohammad Musa of West Pakistan charged that the jailed leaders "violated every principle of politics and morality and tried to wreck the administration and created a situation which endangered the lives and property of innocent citizens."

"They even tried to end everything with one blow," he said in reference to the attempt on Ayub Kahn's life.

However, a memorandum presented to Bhutto upon his arrest did not mention the incident at Peshawar, where a 22-year-old student fired two pistol shots at the platform where Ayub Kahn was seated during a public rally. No one was hit.

Police in Lahore used a baton charge to disperse several hundred students who had gathered at the railway station Wednesday morning to see Bhutto depart to speak at Multan. Other disturbances occurred as word of his arrest spread through Lahore. Local authorities banned gatherings of five or more persons within the city limits and prohibited the carrying of arms.

At Multan, a crowd of 2,000 persons was scattered with tear gas and a baton charge after it became unruly when Bhutto failed to arrive.

Women

Editor: Pat Dufour

Banking and Ballet Are Her Combination

By PAT DUFOUR

There's many a banker who's a patron of the ballet. But, how many of them would look their best in a tutu?

A blonde-haired exception to the rule is Lois Blackley, the assistant administration officer of the Bank of British Columbia's Victoria branch, which was officially opened at 2 p.m. today by Mayor Hugh Stephen.

Not only does Lois do a tutu full justice, she can also twirl a mean fouette with the best of them.

This isn't surprising. She's spent a good many years learning the art of dancing. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McGee, 836 Dunsmuir Street, Lois first trained under Florence Clough, later became a pupil of Mrs. Louise Lesser, and after that she studied both jazz and ballet at Bebe Eversfield's Victoria School of Theatrical Arts.

Feminine to her fingertips, it's not surprising to hear that Lois is also an adept model. She took a modelling course while she was living in San Francisco and graduated with enough know-how to earn her living as a fashion and photographic model.

With so many strings to her bow, why does Lois plump for banking? She explains, "It's very exciting, with something new happening every day. I love meeting people, and in my job I'm in contact with the public all day long."

At 27, Lois has spent nine years preparing for her present position, "doing every job in a bank, except that of manager." Beginning her banking career in Victoria, she served as a savings teller, worked on machines, became familiar with personal checking and savings account procedures before the lure of the south took her to San Francisco.

There, although learning to be a model became an absorbing hobby, Lois carried on with banking and reports that one of her career highlights came when the San Francisco Anglo and the Citizen National merged to become the Crocker Citizen National Bank.

Her husband, Frank, shares another hobby which his wife began during her days in California. "I became fascinated with the California missions. Frank and I have visited all of them. I can't remember off-hand but there's about 21."

Frank, who is studying at the Institute of Adult Studies, as the first step toward a teaching career, shares other hobbies with his wife. A member of the reserve naval division, HMCS Malahat, he and Lois spend many hours using the badminton, squash and swimming facilities of the Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt.

There were 14 on staff when the new branch opened its doors. Lois' job will be to [illegible] administration officer Terrence Neilson in the day-to-day routine of the office.

She reports that the bank's policy is to encourage women to assume administrative positions and says that this policy will be an effective means of combating some of her sex's prejudice. "They're not too interested in banking because they feel they'll reach bottlenecks at the higher levels."

Lois sees the province "growing of age" in the banking business through the formation of its own bank. "Every citizen should be bursting with pride."

Who knows, with her experience and enthusiasm, Lois may yet end up realizing another ambition, that of becoming manager one of these years.

Mrs. Frank Blackley is seen at her desk in the uniform designed for the women's employees of the Bank of British Columbia. A smart white turtle - neck sweater is teamed with a royal blue jacket that has an insignia which portrays the sea, a pine tree and a mountain. (Bill Halkett photo.)

Money Raised for Willows Park

Several mother and daughter teams modelled at two fashion shows presented by Oak Bay Kiwanniannes, in cooperation with merchants of the Estevan shopping centre, Monday afternoon and evening at Jiminy Crickets Kindergarten.

Proceeds amounted to $350 which will go toward the Willows Park improvement project.

Modelling clothes from the Junior and Teen Shop, Karolien's Dress Shop and the Boutique de Laine were Mrs. N. Pimlott and her daughter Coleen, Mrs. J. McNeill and Linda, Mrs. R. Ferguson and Dola, Mrs. S. Hughes and four-year-old Michele, and 10-year-old Brenda Pettersen with her mother, Mrs. A. Pettersen and grandmother, Mrs. J. Pettersen.

Miss Jocelyn Alder charmed the crowd as she walked her black Scottie dressed in the latest doggie fashion, a glittering sequin shell.

Mrs. Malcolm G. Taylor was commentator for the two shows, gowned in one of her own creations, a gold ribbon crocheted dress.

Hair styles for the models were by Jeanne's Harper Method and Joan's Beauty Salon. Background music was played by Mrs. Noreen Grand, and refreshments were served after each show.

Off to London?

ATHENS (UPI) — Jacqueline and Aristotle Onassis left Athens airport today in a twin-engine executive jet plane.

It was reported the couple might be headed for London.

The couple left their honeymoon yacht Christina, anchored off the suburban resort of Glyfada, by motor launch and went ashore this afternoon.

They avoided photographers waiting at the Glyfada jetty by landing at a fashionable hotel down the coast.

Warm Welcome

The Icebreakers Club of Victoria will meet in the Duke of Kent Room of the Empress Hotel, Friday, Nov. 22 at 2 p.m.

The meeting is open to all newcomers and visitors, and tea and coffee will be served. There will be games of bridge and canasta at the social get-together.

Further information may be obtained by phoning 385-7996 or 384-8359.

Pills May Contribute to Clotting

By ROBERT C. JENSEN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The first U.S. study of its kind shows a statistical association between the use of birth-control pills and increased death rates from diseases of the veins.

The study was made by two doctors at the National Institutes of Health (NIH)—Dr. Robert E. Markush of the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness and Dr. Daniel Seigel of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. It was presented this week to the annual conference of the American Public Health Association (APHA) in Detroit.

The Markush-Seigel study showed an increase in vein disease death rates for women in the 20 to 44 age group had increased 3 per cent to 12 per cent each year since the birth control pills were introduced in 1962. This was in comparison to death rates among women before the pill was introduced and vein disease death rates for men in the same age group.

Dr. Seigel cautioned that the study is essentially an analysis of mortality figures gathered by the National Centre for Health Statistics. He said it is not the best research tool because there could be many other factors involved in the death of these women.

Nevertheless, he said, the figures were not unexpected and they did supplement studies made in Great Britain.

The British studies also showed a statistical association between the use of birth-control pills and the rise in clotting deaths.

The British studies have led to a tightening of labelling regulations for birth-control pills by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

Dr. Markush was quoted in an interview that he thought the U.S. study and the British results will cause doctors to hesitate before they prescribe the pill for women.

Office Organization Hits Jayne's Desk

By PENNY SAVER

Organizing your correspondence is one thing, but I do think that Jayne has gone too far. She has organized her private desk as if it were in an office! As she points out, this makes her more efficient. Before, she kept losing letters in the jumble and forgetting to answer them. Once or twice she even lost a letter she had written, finding it weeks later still waiting for a stamp. Now she dates letters and puts them in the "in" basket as soon as they arrive. Their very obviousness goads her into answering them. Then, as soon as the letter is finished she puts it into the "out" basket from where its glares accusingly until she gets around to dropping it in a mailbox. Yes, Jayne certainly is handling her correspondence more efficiently now, but did she have to go so far?

It occured to me that some of my readers might agree with Jayne's office-style organization or that they might be furnishing a business office of their own as some of my friends have done in the past and would like to know where she bought her equipment. Jayne's "in" and "out" baskets match her pencil well and her memo-pad holder. All are made of a tough plastic material that wipes clean easily. She tells me that this is the same material used to make protective football helmets and that it is almost indestructible. The baskets are really trays with the sides sloping down so that one end is open, making it easy to toss in a paper. The trays are $3.75 each. Brackets are available for $1 and enable you to build up a series of baskets for "in", "out, "file" or any other categories you may require. The pencil wells are $1.85 each and are square on the bottom with the sides sloping in as they go up. A cylindrical hole in the centre holds pencils and pens. The $1.85 memo pad takes loose sheets four inches by seven inches and is great for quick notes—just the thing for the telephone table. These items are available in a wide range of colors including red, turquoise, black, bamboo and grey.

I have solved the problem of piles of old magazines by sending mine to a friend after I have read them. She shares part of the subscription cost with me and doesn't mind getting them late at all—just as long as the magazines arrive eventually. I bought big envelopes to use in the mailing until I discovered a more economical way. This is strips of brown wrapping paper that is already gummed on one edge. Since a magazine or newspaper only needs a band to go through the mails, I wrap one of these round the rolled magazine and put the address on it. A package of 10 wrapping bands for newspapers or magazines costs 35 cents.

If you would like to know where to shop for these items please call 382-3131.

Langford Woman Creates Entire Fashion Show

Mrs. Irene Brighton of Langford is the creator of a novel show, to be held at the Prospect Lake School (just off West Saanich Road) on Friday evening at 7 p.m. Approximately 30 of the school's pupils will take part in presenting clothes designed by Mrs. Brighton for children from kindergarten to Grade 7 age. Many of the pupils' younger sisters have been enlisted as models.

The show is being sponsored by the school's Home-School Association. Admission price includes refreshments.

Proceeds are earmarked for library assistance and other projects.

Outfits seen at the show may be purchased or similar ones made to order.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Changes Toward Aging In Almost Every Field

Lowman

As we all know, this is a time of great change. Old concepts are being challenged by new ones. It is a time of unrest and also of new horizons. When things are this shaken up, some good as well as some bad is almost sure to fall out.

The change in attitude toward older people is one of the good things. While the middle-age spread is still held in disfavor, it is now a well recognized fact that birthdays are not a true measure of an individual's age. Age depends on physical condition, mental power and emotional outlook.

One of the most recent studies along this line was conducted by the Gerontology Centre at Baltimore. The subjects were 600 men between the ages of 18 and 99. The object was to discover what changes are produced by time in the minds and bodies of these men. The tests showed there is great variation among individuals in the same age group.

For many years the spotlight was on the problems and diseases of infancy and childhood, and then on middle-age. Today, there is a booming interest in the health and happiness of men and women from middle-age on. There is a new interest in the processes of aging and in preventive measures. There is research concerning diet and the effects of exercise, about both psychological and biological changes which occur about retirement time.

This is surely not an age in which one should be age-conscious. The attitude toward employing older persons is changing. There are distinguished faculties consisting of past-retirement professors. There are organizations made up of older volunteers.

Such rapid advances are being made in evey field that it is a fine idea to hold onto your connective tissue and forget your birthdays.

Having many birthdays does not make you old. The way you act can. How do you stay young? This is the subject of Josephine Lowman's free leaflet, "Watchwords of Science for Youth After Forty." Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

SALMON APPETIZERS

One can (7¾-oz.) salmon, 1 pkg. prepared flaky refrigerator biscuits, 2 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup salad dressing, 1 tblsp. chili sauce, ¼ tsp. sweet basil, freshly ground pepper.

Drain salmon, remove skin and bones, and flake.

Break each biscuit into three. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 400 degrees F. for 5-8 minutes, until golden.

Beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Fold in salad dressing, chili sauce, basil, and one good grinding of pepper.

Fold in flaked salmon.

Spread each baked biscuit with about one tablespoon of the salmon mixture. Broil for approximately three minutes, until brown (watch carefully). Serve hot. Makes 36 appetizers.

Local Singing Group Scores in Washington Barbershop Contest

A Victoria quartet placed third in the Sweet Adelines Incorporated, Region 13 Fourth Annual Novice Quartet Competition for women's barbershop singing held recently in Olympia, Wash.

The Fouradoras quartet from the City of Gardens Chapter, Victoria, competed with seven other quartets from Washington and Oregon. Recently the group gained third prize in a Victoria talent show.

Lois Clackson sings lead in the quartet with Irene Moore as tenor, Shirley Raike, baritone and Norma Alexander as bass.

The Olympia Chapter hosted the competition, which was held in conjunction with the regional meeting.

Victoria Chapter president Aileen Birch acted as delegate to the meeting. She was accompanied by eight other chorus members.

BIRKS JEWELLERS

Prince Charles, Britain's future king, marks his 20th birthday today. During the coming year he will embark on a new and tougher role. A highlight of this is his official investiture amid pomp and pageantry as Prince of Wales at ancient Carnaervon Castle on July 1. (AP Wirephoto.)

Prince Skips Lectures To Celebrate Birthday

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Prince Charles, heir to the Throne, ceased being a teen-ager today and took a day off from university lectures to celebrate.

The 20-year-old prince went off in his sports car, accompanied by a detective, to join friends at a hunting party somewhere in County Suffolk. No one was saying just where, but it was generally believed the prince was on the Elveden Hall estate, owned by the chairman of Guinness, Lord Iveagh, 31.

Anyway, he was far from this university city, where flags fluttered atop the colleges and church bells pealed in the only official celebration of his birthday.

The prince comes into full control of the income from the Duchy of Cornwall a year from today. A spokesman for the duchy declined to give the exact figure, saying it was a private matter. It is believed to amount to more than $480,000.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Reputation to Lose On This Cruise?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a single, attractive blonde. I've recently received a very interesting and tempting invitation from a gentleman friend. (I'll call him Hector.) Hector has been divorced for 15 years and is fairly well-to-do. He's always been a perfect gentleman with me.

Hector has invited me to go on a Caribbean cruise with him. All expenses paid. He assures me that all he wants is a charming companion for dining and dancing. He had guaranteed me a separate cabin and my own key. If I go, people will talk, but why should I pass up this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity just because of some wagging-tongues?

N. N. WESTPORT

DEAR N. N.: People have been wagging their tongues since Hector was a pup, but if your Hector has none of the other canine qualities found in most pups, go ahead. All you have to lose is your reputation.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I fight all the time about this one thing. Is it all right for a married woman to go to a nice, clean barroom for a drink and pizza with a married girl friend if they get home at a reasonable hour, like 11 o'clock?

The other night my girl friend and I went shopping at 8 p.m. after which we went for a pizza and a drink. At 10 o'clock my husband stormed in like a madman and practically dragged me out of the place. We fought all night. He claims we looked like a couple of pickups. Abby, we were at a table all alone talking to each other. What do you think?

ANGRY

DEAR ANGRY: I think if respectable women (single or married) wish to go unescorted to a RESPECTABLE place and they mind their own business, they need not be concerned about "looking like pickups."

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. My mother. I am only 15 and since I have been a kid my mother had pounded into me the virtues of honesty and truthfulness. I used to lie to get myself out of trouble, and now my mother is doing it.

Mother is overweight and my dad loves her very much and is concerned about her weight. Mom is supposed to be on a diet, but she cheats. When the ice cream "disappears" she says it melted on the counter. She eats cake and cookies and says, "It fell on the floor and the dog ate it."

When she buys a dress or gets her hair fixed and I ask her how much it costs, she will tell me one thing, and when Dad asks her, the prices will immediately go down a couple of dollars.

Abby, please print this for parents who do not practice what they preach. My mom never misses your column.

Capacity Crowd At Dessert Party In Residence

A capacity audience filled the nurses' residence of St. Joseph's Hospital when the hospital's School of Nursing Alumnae held a dessert party which featured a demonstration of flower arranging by Shirley McAree. The latter donated four Christmas corsages and arrangements as door prizes.

Conveners of the party were Mrs. B. Lister and Mrs. B. McLaren. Mrs. R. McGregor was refreshment convener.

Mrs. R. Kersey made a decorated Christmas cake which was used as a raffle prize.

Proceeds of the party will be used to help student nurses and to assist graduate nurses in obtaining further study.

Alaskan Otter Deal Reject Scored by B.C. Officials

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A federal biologist today charged Alaska with failing to live up to its promise to supply British Columbia with 50 or more sea otters for propagating in provincial waters.

Dr. Ian MacAskie with the aquatic mammal section, federal marine biology station at Nanaimo, said Canada should bypass the United States and ask Russia for otters.

Relations between Canadian and American officials are strained because Alaska hasn't delivered the otters.

It owns a herd estimated between 50,000 and 80,000.

Herd Exterminated

The mammals were exterminated in B.C. waters during the 19th century and are now only found in the Aleutian Islands and the Russian-owned Commander Islands.

"The United States is not the only country with sea otters," said Dr. MacAskie. "We might get more cooperation from Russia."

He said he was annoyed at the "casual way" Alaska dismissed the whole matter.

He suggested that the Canadian fisheries research vessel J. B. Reed be used to pick up the animals from Commander Islands—provided of course the Soviet Union is willing to make the gift.

The trouble started two years ago when the Alaska fish and wildlife department agreed to supply B.C. with 50 otters for transplanting to coastal waters.

Centennial Project

The program was launched by the B.C. game and wildlife branch as a Canada centennial project.

Both federal and provincial experts spent time and money in surveying the coast for a location to establish a colony. A suitable site was found on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

However, shortly after the election of Republican Walter J. Hickel as governor of Alaska, B.C. was told the deal was off. Alaska's action shocked many U.S. wildlife experts.

Dr. Murray Johnson, curator of mammals at the University of Puget Sound, and chairman of the mammal committee, Tacoma Zoological Society, backs B.C.

Shameful Refusal

"Alaska has about 50,000 sea otters, perhaps more," he said "in some areas they are eating themselves out of house and home. It certainly could spare a few hundred animals. It's a shame."

Dr. James Hatter, director of fish and wildlife branch, said B.C. perhaps should have approached Washington instead of Alaska for the animals.

"But I don't see why we have to involve presidents, premiers and prime ministers in the exchange of animals when both countries have been doing so for many years through departmental channels." he said.

He noted that B.C has given the California bighorn sheep to several U.S. states, as well as other mammals and birds.

Trade Onesided

The U.S has also given Canada some forms of wildlife, but the trade in the past 10 years has been more one-sided as many animals are now extinct in certain areas of the United States.

Some federal biologists feel the United States is morally bound to supply otters to Canada because the federal government in 1911 signed a treaty with the U.S., Russia and Japan to protect the few surviving animals in Alaskan waters.

Without Canada's co-operation this would not have been possible as the United States at the time did not have the policing services it has today.

And lastly, they pointed out, it was Boston traders who were mainly responsible for exterminating the sea otters from B.C. waters. During the 19th century they gained the monopoly of the otter trade on the west coast.

MONTREAL, November 14th — Funny thing about Christmas shopping — often we find the perfect gift in the most unexpected places. And how disappointing it is when we haven't the ready cash to pay for it! But now that is all a thing of the past. A Scotiabank Cheque Guarantee Card, you know, is as good as cash anywhere — anytime. Why? Because with a Cheque Guarantee Card THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA will honour your cheque — even if you don't have enough money in your account to cover your purchases. I don't imagine they expect us to go hog wild — but I've found, from personal experience, this is the most sensible credit card I own.

TO-DAY'S TEMPO is one of excitement and activity . . . so why let menstrual periods interfere with your enjoyment of it? When menstruation first occurs, wise and understanding mothers recommend PARADOL to their daughters, because they know that Paradol is specifically formulated to help relieve periodic pain and cramps, soothe headaches, calm nerves — leaving you pleasantly relaxed. Paradol comes in a dainty, individually sealed 16 tablet "Purse Size" — or an economical 40 tablet package. For a special introductory package (reg. 75¢) write to me, Barbara Brent, 1411 Crescent Street, Suite 501, Montreal 107, Quebec, sending only 50¢ and your name and address.

WANT TO LEARN A BEAUTY SECRET? It's simply this: feminine charm starts with personal cleanliness, with the poise that comes from knowing that you're fresh and clean all over. That's why DEMURE, the mint-fresh feminine douche, should be an important part of your beauty routine. Demure is gently medicated to help destroy odour-causing bacteria. It keeps you fresh-as-a-daisy, is easy to use and it comes in a practical plastic bottle you can keep handy on your medicine shelf. You'll find Demure at your family drugstore now . . . so why wait? Be a bit more beautiful today!

THERE ARE TIMES WHEN A WOMAN NEEDS GENTLENESS in a laxative. During menstruation, for instance. Or just after childbirth. At times like these, count on CORRECTOL to come to the rescue. Correctol — formulated by Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd. — is a pleasant easy-to-take laxative that combines a mild, softening agent with just enough of a stimulating effect to relieve irregularity. It works quickly — yet gently — to make you feel "on top of the world." Why not ask for Correctol soon at your favourite drugstore? You'll never have to suffer from irregularity again.

BECAUSE YOU'RE EVERY INCH A WOMAN, you owe yourself the relaxing luxury of a CALGON BOUQUET beauty bath. You'll find, as I always do, that the everyday cares and tensions will quietly disappear as you unwind lazily in the warm caress of a beauty bath in Calgon Bouquet. You relax, enveloped in a mist of delicately scented perfume and wonderfully silky-soft water. With Calgon Bouquet in your bath, your soap lathers more richly and rinses away completely . . . leaving your skin feeling so clean and smooth. And isn't it nice that there's never a bathtub ring to scrub away afterwards. This inexpensive feminine luxury comes in three delightful fragrances. Try Calgon Bouquet soon . . . you really owe it to yourself.

LABORATORY TESTS PROVE that one denture cleaner on the market is at least 16⅔% more effective than any other! Which one? ANSO DENT*—from Pharmaco (Canada) Ltd. Here's a product that deep cleans quickly, effectively. There's no overnight soaking, no special preparations — yet, in less time than you would spend taking a bath, Anso Dent does what other denture cleaners take all night to do! If there's a denture wearer in your house, why not treat him to the refreshing efficiency of Anso Dent? You'll find this wonderful product in a handy, shatterproof plastic container at retail stores everywhere.

Distinguished Persons Live Longer Period

DETROIT (AP) — Men who became prominent in their careers tend to outlive the average man, a statistical study suggests.

"Men of letters" rank lowest on this same totem pole, but still ahead of average.

In this sub-grouping, correspondents and editors seem to be outlived by their readers by a large margin.

The longevity study was described Wednesday to the American Public Health Association by Jules V. Quint and Bianca R. Cody, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., New York City.

WHO'S WHO SAMPLED

Using the 1950-51 edition of Who's Who in America they selected a sample of 6,329 distinguished professional and businessmen.

They checked how many had died and when during the next 12 years, and compared this with death rates among white men in the general population who had been of the same ages back in 1950.

Over-all, they said, the mortality of Who's Who men who were over age 45 in 1950 was 30 per cent less than that of the general population.

The greatest difference was found between ages 50 and 59.

CONTRADICTION

"This contradicts the belief in some quarters that the mercilessness with which men drive themselves during their 40s to outstanding positions in their careers is reflected in broken health when they are in their 50s," they said.

Average mortality of men of letters was 10 per cent under the general population, but 30 per cent higher than the entire professional sample.

Men of letters included authors, writers, critics, historians, editors, correspondents and journalists.

The death rate for correspondents and journalists alone, was more than 30 per cent above the general population, and double the rate in the sample.

Boat Hits Causeway

RICHMOND (CP) — Peter Dowding, 26, of nearby Ladner was in fair condition in hospital Wednesday after his 22-foot boat struck the Tsawwassen ferry causeway in Delta Wednesday. Police said Dowding was found unconscious in the stern of his vessel after the crash.

Church Needs Sales Pitch

VANCOUVER (CP) — Religion is another big business, with religious managers who must "sell their product on the open market," the Vancouver Institute has been told.

Professor Charles Davis of the University of Alberta's department of religious studies said religious institutions had to depend on their sales record for success.

Among competing philosophies of life were Playboy and Reader's Digest magazines, he said, adding that some of the religions managers "go under the venerable names of bishops."

Prof. Davies, a prominent Catholic theologian in England until he left the priesthood two years ago, said he did not believe there was any place for the priesthood now.

"There is no need for a person to be a consecrated person apart from the community. I felt the priesthood was false."

Lecturing on the social reality of religion, he said secularization has diminished the role of the church in society.

It no longer had a monopoly in providing men with a world view; it had lost its large degree of control over society. Churches would have to become voluntary associations which men could join or leave at will.

In order for religion to be effective it had to be "under-institutionalized" because full institutionalization would be "impossible without compromise with the present social order," he said.

ELECTION REFORMS PROMISED IN 1969

OTTAWA (CP) — Donald S. Macdonald, House leader, said Wednesday the government hopes to deal with all aspects of electoral reform "perhaps early in the new year."

He said the legislation would be referred to the Commons committee on privileges and elections.

Mr. Macdonald was replying in the Commons to Barry Mather (NDP-Surrey) who asked whether there will be action this session on legislation concerning election expenses.

Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday that the major share of election funds spent by the political parties should be borne by the state.

New Russian Aircraft Waves Wings Like Bird

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russian aviation specialists said today they had successfully tested an aircraft which flies by waving its wings like a bird.

The craft, named ornithopter, actually got off the ground during experiments at an airport near Moscow, these scientists told the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda. The ornithopter is said to have "withstood all aerodynamic tests."

The paper said the test "opens unheard of prospects."

The craft "does not need airfields and is absolutely noiseless," the paper said. It would be more efficient because "while modern airplanes lift up to 30 pounds per one horsepower of thrust, the ornithopter could lift up to 300 pounds per one horsepower of thrust," the paper added.

The paper gave no other details about the craft.

C5-A Cost Appals Probe

By FRANK C. PORTER
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A Pentagon official conceded Wednesday that the first 120 C-5As, the world's largest airplane, may cost American taxpayers $2 billion more than the original contract ceiling of $3 billion.

The official, A. E. Fitzgerald, also said the prime contractor for the airframes, Lockheed-Georgia Co., "could exceed by 100 per cent" the target cost of $1.4 billion on research and development of the first 58 planes.

Fitzgerald, deputy for management systems in the office of assistant air force secretary for financial management Thomas Nielsen, testified in the third day of hearings before the joint economic committee of Congress on economy in defence procurement.

APPALLING COSTS

Chairman William Proxmire (D—Wis.) called Wednesday's testimony of high profits and soaring costs "really appalling."

"It's clear that the federal government is spending billions of dollars a year more than it should," he said.

The C-5A, also called the Galaxy, is designed to airlift tanks, helicopters, armored personnel carriers, trucks and trailers and the troops to man them anywhere in the world. Lockheed officials have estimated that it would carry more than 800 commercial tourist passengers.

Former defence secretary Robert S. McNamara had described the original deal with Lockheed, the first major fixed-price incentive contract, as a model method of doing defence business and as "a damn good contract."

Proxmire asked Fitzgerald how Lockheed-Georgia, a division of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., could run up costs double those projected on its original contract.

Fitzgerald said he thinks it's a combination of faulty cost estimating, poor cost control and planning, and "corporate strategy."

Asked to explain the latter phrase, Fitzgerald cited the presence of a "reverse incentive."

Without attempting to divine Lockheed's motives, Fitzgerald said, under the C-5A contract formula it might be to a company's advantage to lose money on current work so that it would be overcompensated for subsequent work.

The government's option for the second run of 62 Galaxies comes up early next year and negotiations are presently under way. Theoretically, it would be possible for Lockheed to recover losses from the first contract through the "repricing formula" to be used for the second deal.

Proxmire asked why the defence department should be willing to pay costs so far over estimates.

"Because I suppose we want the aircraft badly enough and to keep the productive base going," Fitzgerald replied. "I can only speculate on the pressure brought through elected representatives."

The dream of Emily
YELLOWKNEE

Emily wants to be a teacher, to be part of modern Canada. But who will remember how to tan the moose hides and sew the beadwork? Who will remember the steps to the Rain Dance?

Emily is an 18-year-old Indian — what place is there for her in modern Canada?

Patricia Welbourn describes the conditions that Emily and her people face, and what they dream of, in Weekend Magazine this week. Read it — in a country where most white people wouldn't accept a meal in an Indian home, maybe something is missing.

DARING MOON MISSION is illustrated, showing the course United States Apollo 8 astronauts Frank Borman, 40; James Lovell, 40, and Williams Anders, 35, will take when they blast off around 7:45 a.m., EST, December 21. The 250,000-mile flight, which will shave up to three months from the lunar landing timetable next year, is scheduled to last six days and four hours and include circling the moon ten times and the earth twice. (AP Wirephoto drawing.)

MARS TO BE NEXT STOP AFTER MOON EXPLORED

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Two U.S. Mariner spacecraft will circle around Mars for three months beginning in 1971 in two-pronged probe of the mysterious red planet to find suitable sites for the first unmanned landing in 1973, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Caltech's jet propulsion laborator, project manager for the space doubleheader, said the launch window would open in May, 1971, when Mars will have moved to within 35,000,000 miles of earth.

The trip to the red planet will take six months and the Mariners are expected to go into orbit around it in November, 1971.

TWO MOONS

Not only are the Mariners designed to study the planet's surface, but they may furnish information that will help establish landing sites for the first Mars' lander mission and may also examine Mars' two moons, Phobos and Deimos.

The lander mission, currently scheduled for 1973, calls for the softlanding of an instrument laden spacecraft on the Martian surface, similar to the softlandings on the moon by the Surveyor spacecraft.

PLANET'S SURFACE

The first of the Mariners to be launched will be placed in an orbit at an inclination of 60 degrees to Mars' equator. This will permit the spacecraft to examine about 70 per cent of the planet's surface.

The second Mariner will be boosted into a near-polar orbit, inclined 8 degrees to the planet's equator, to study the planet's polar caps and to provide high resolution pictures of selected areas.

This orbit also would permit oblique views of broad areas of the planet's surface. It may also provide an examination of the two small moons, which are believed to be about five and 10 miles in diameter.

The Mariners will be pushed into space by Atlas-Centaur rockets. The spacecraft will weigh about 2,000 pounds of which 900 pounds will be propellant and 125 pounds the instrument payload.

'Dumb Act' Red Face No Votes

KELOWNA (CP) — A red-faced school trustee asked herself Wednesday "how could I have been so dumb" after learning that electoral red tape has cost her a school board seat.

Mrs. E. R. Pelly, first elected to the board of School District 23 in 1958, this year sold her home and moved into an apartment.

She went Tuesday to pick up her nomination papers as her term of office expires in December and she had already announced her intention to run again.

To her surprise, she found she is not on the voters' list and so ineligible to run for office.

Removed from the list as an owner-elector, she neglected to attend court of revision and have her name retained as a tenant-elector.

"I am heart-broken," she said. "After attending several education seminars and meetings recently, I was full of enthusiasm for the coming year."

Apollo-10 Crew Announced by U.S.

By THOMAS O'TOOLE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The space agency named astronauts Thomas Stafford, John Young and Eugene Cernan Wednesday to the crew of Apollo-10, a flight that will take two of them as close as 50,000 feet from the lunar surface sometime next spring.

Apollo-10 is to be the second manned flight of the lunar module, the four-legged buglike craft that is to detach itself from the mother Apollo ship in lunar orbit and descend to the surface of the moon.

On the flight of Apollo-10, which could come as early as next May, two of the three crew members will climb into the lunar module, unhinge it from the mother ship and use its descent engine to bring it from 60 miles above the moon to 50,000 feet (a little over nine miles) from the moon.

At that point, the 33,000-pound craft is to fire the engine that will be used to bring the craft back up from the moon to rendezvous again with the orbiting mother ship.

The two crew members will be piloting the lunar module on Apollo-10 are Stafford and Cernan, who together with Young are veteran Gemini pilots.

Apollo-10 is not designed to land on the moon. The landing is due to come no sooner than Apollo-11, whose crew has not yet been named.

The first manned flight of the lunar module is scheduled for earth orbit next February or March on Apollo-9. Its crew is James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart.

Russians Unveil Moon Trip Schedule

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is just possible that the Russians will be the first to fly men around the moon.

Some Washington space experts believe Russia may launch cosmonauts on a lunar flight as early as Dec. 8, nearly two weeks before the scheduled moon orbiting mission of Apollo 8.

The Soviet spaceframt Zond 6, lofted Nov. 10, was scheduled to rendezvous with the moon some time late Wednesday and, presumably, to come back to earth late Saturday or early Sunday.

Zond 6, according to the Russians, has no man aboard. But it is believed here to be identical with the highly manoeuverable 65-ton Soyuz 3 spacecraft in which cosmonaut Georgi Beregovoy flew a successful mission in earth orbit and returned safely to Soviet soil last month.

The simplest explanation of Zond 6 is that it is a repeat of the Zond 5 flight in September. Zond 5 looped the moon and came down in the Indian Ocean.

Western observers believe it was designed to test communications at lunar distances, guidance and navigation systems, ability to withstand the heat and shock of reentry into the earth's atmosphere, and earth recovery operations.

Zond 5 was recovered, but experts here believe it came down at an angle that would have doomed an occupant either to death by heat or death by the crushing forces of too abrupt deceleration.

Zond 6 may be intended as an attempt to improve on Zond 5's return and recovery, which apparently was thousands of miles away from the intended landing zone.

In any case, the belief here is that the Zond flights, along with the Soyuz 3 mission, are precursors to manned trips around the moon and, ultimately, to lunar landings.

How many men could a Zond-Soyuz spacecraft carry as far as the moon and back? The Russians have vaguely put Soyuz's cosmonaut capacity at "two or three or so."

If Zond 6, redeeming Zond 5's errors, comes down to a perfect recovery, perhaps in Russia rather than at sea, what would the Soviet Union try next?

For the United States the best moon launch date next month is Dec. 21. This has to do with liftoff and recovery by daylight and with the desired angle of sunlight on the lunar surface.

For the Russians, in their higher latitudes, the best launch time next month would be Dec. 8.

Before the Magistrate

A 61-year-old man who pleaded guilty to shoplifting a battery was fined $150 in central court Wednesday.

Court was told William Mills, Mill Bay, picked up the battery in Capital Iron and Metal Tuesday, later put it in a bag and left the store without paying for it. The battery was worth $2.99.

He said he ran a variety store and knew what pilfering means. He then said he didn't intend to take it.

"That's the inevitable line of a shoplifter," said Magistrate William Ostler. "I did it but I didn't do it."

Prosecutor Cory Stolte said Mills had a previous conviction for theft in 1934 and three convictions for impaired driving since 1963.

Mills said he had been drinking on Tuesday.

"Convenience and justice are not always on speaking terms, it has been said," quoted Magistrate Ostler in the next case called.

He made the comment in granting an adjournment to Kenneth Howard, 1304 Charlton, who appeared on a charge of uttering.

As the first witness was called Howard asked the magistrate for a remand, saying he had not been able to call a lawyer from Wilkinson Road jail where he had been incarcerated while awaiting trial.

He said he had asked to make a phone call to a friend and the request had been denied. When Magistrate Ostler asked the prosecutor if that was the policy at the jail Mr. Stolte said he didn't know.

"I have no desire to interfere with prison rules and regulations," said Mr. Ostler. "But if that's the policy it is entirely improper." He said it was perfectly legitimate for persons to call a lawyer.

Mr. Ostler then asked Mr. Stolte to look into the matter and perhaps take it up with the deputy attorney-general.

The magistrate then apologized to the witnesses who had appeared. He said he must allow an adjournment if the accused had not been able to consult counsel. The matter was set to Nov. 20 at which time a new date will be set for trial.

Bail was previously set at $1,500.

Alberta Hedge, 844 Vernon, was fined $150 after a conviction for shoplifting. Court was told she took articles valued at $4.87 from a Saanich Safeway store Oct. 17.

She told the magistrate she didn't intend to take the goods but wanted to pay for them from a separate purse.

"One of the gravest things about shoplifting is that people caught will not face up to it," said Mr. Ostler.

"You'd be surprised at the number of people who go to great lengths to explain they didn't do it."

Stillman Guyette, 545 Johnson, was sentenced to six months in jail after he pleaded guilty to breaking into a furniture store and taking a television set.

Court was told the accused admitted to the police he picked up a bar by the railway yards and smashed a 24-inch-by-36-inch window at MacDonald's Furniture Mart, at Broad and Pandora, before 3 a.m. Wednesday. He then reached in and took the television set. Police said he told them he planned to sell it and buy some liquor.

Prosecutor Stolte said the accused had a previous conviction for breaking and entering in 1963.

In passing sentence the magistrate said it was not an ordinary type of stealthy breaking and entering that one encouters but more a case of smash and grab with re-sale in mind.

He said it appeared the accused had done it to satisfy an uncontrollable desire for alcohol and noted there had been no convictions for five years.

"It shows you have been trying," he said.

Rocks, Cans Greet Police In New Violence on Campus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Classes have been suspended for an indefinite period for San Francisco State College's 18,000 students after a week of sporadic vandalism and violence resulting from a black student union strike.

President Robert R. Smith ordered the suspension Wednesday night "until we can open and operate in a more rational manner."

Smith acted after about 30 members of the police tactical squad were summoned to the campus twice within half an hour. They were met with rocks and cans and surrounded by groups of shouting demonstrators, both Negro and white.

In the resulting melee, eight persons were arrested—seven of them charged with felonious assault on an officer and one with assault and battery. There were no reports of serious injuries.

Smith said he felt the Wednesday disturbances showed "we are moving further and further toward physical confrontation between people, and this has demonstrated that a minority can close a campus and that we can't keep it open with the assistance of police."

RESTORE CALM

A small group of faculty members supporting the strike interceded between police and the demonstrators Wednesday to restore relative calm.

Smith arranged to meet with his administration and faculty, particularly Negro members, to "define the issues and attempt to provide solutions to them."

One of the main demands made by the black student union has been for reinstatement of a controversial part-time instructor now under 30-day suspension—Black Panther George Mason Murray.

Most students at the college are white. One demand of the strikers is admission of more Negroes.

Six-Day Work Week Ordered for Cabinet

By RAM SUNDAR
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—Cabinet ministers in the Indian province of Mysore have been asked to go off duty on Sundays.

"This is absolutely necessary in the interests of ministerial efficiency," said Chief Minister Veerendra Patil, a veteran Mysore politician.

The ministers have no option.

"The chief minister has made Sunday off compulsory," one minister said. "We cannot even look at government files in our homes."

Patil took the drastic step after receiving numerous reports that hard-working ministers were making things difficult for their officials. Some officials complained that they could not enjoy even a day off in two months.

One Mysore minister liked to hold important conferences on Sundays. Another preferred to have consultations with his officials in the early hours of the morning.

Other provincial cabinets in the country are likely to follow Mysore's example. Some columnists have suggested that Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and her cabinet colleagues at the federal capital should also "forsake their files" on Sundays.

"I have not had a single day's holiday in almost five years," a federal minister told reporters. "And I cannot hope to have one during the next five years."

He was not exaggerating. His secretary disclosed the minister's engagement diary, which was as bulky as a telephone directory.

Trophies Awarded Bridge Champions

Trophies were awarded to six winning teams in the duplicate bridge city championships held this week.

About 48 competed in the annual championships conducted by the Victoria unit of the American Contract Bridge League.

Winners were: Hilda Price and Will Browne-Cave; Frances Newall and Ian Smith; Chris Murray and Walter Allen; Marjorie Fortye and Al Kallberg; Anne Dye and Brian Larkey, and Laura Tingley and Derek Ward.

Joint Services Bring Warning From Pontiff

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul denounced Wednesday what he called "excessive haste" in the move for Christian unity.

The pontiff warned that Roman Catholics who insist on engaging in unauthorized joint religious services with non-Roman Catholic Christians will only serve to slow down the program aimed at one day bringing all Christians together.

He predicted that eventually unity would come with the efforts of all Christians but through God and not what he called "the hasty misunderstanding" of trying to achieve better Christian relations by "wrong relationships."

The Pope spoke to a plenary session of his secretariat for Christian unity. It was yet another of the growing number of speeches against what he considers a dangerous and unguided rush within Roman Catholicism toward the many changes proposed by the last Vatican ecumenical council.

The Pope devoted particular criticism to mixed services undertaken without permission from the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

SERVICE DISTURBS

He is known to have been especially disturbed over a mass in Paris on June 2, Pentecost Sunday, in which a group of 61 Roman Catholic priests, Protestant pastors and lay persons participated.

In another case at the World Council of Churches assembly in Uppsala, Sweden, last July some Roman Catholics took part in a Protestant Eucharist celebration.

Speaking later to thousands attending a general audience, Pope Paul said that Christians and Communists can reason together although their viewpoints are irreconcilable.

Speaking in general terms of the conflict between religious faith and atheism in the modern world, the Pope said: "The doctrines are irreconcilable in themselves. The ideologies, as one says today, are radically different. But the truth, when integrated and understood, is one; that is, discussion-dialogue —is possible. . . ."

Five Face Charge In Liquor Case

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand Wednesday gave the Quebec legislature the names of five persons to be charged with complicity in illicit transport of liquor.

Then he successfully worked to adjourn a committee that has been hearing evidence on the Quebec Liquor Board strike that began June 26.

Earlier, he told the committee the liquor strike would have serious repercussions if it continued into the Christmas holiday period.

Mr. Bertrand, also justice minister, told the house that four of the five persons to be charged are employees of Melchers Distilleries Ltd. of Berthiersville, Que.

Melchers' liquor worth an estimated $100,000 was seized from a van at a warehouse owned by Specialties de Ciment et Tuiles Ltee in suburban Vanier.

The Opposition Wednesday fired questions concerning the conduct of provincial police in the seizure, Melchers' alleged involvement and the liquor's destination, said by the Opposition to be Edmundson, N.B.

'COMPANY MUST SAY'

But Mr. Betrand said he was satisfied with police action and legal steps would be taken against more Melchers officials only if "the evidence is sufficient." It was up to Sarto Marchand, Melchers' president, to divulge whether the seized liquor was bound for New Brunswick.

Mr. Bertrand said the five persons to be charged are:

—J.-Eugene Martel, described as Melchers' manager at Quebec City.

—Jean-Jacques Guay, identified as Melchers' sales manager at Montreal.

—Neil Belcourt and Guy Gosselin, Quebec City representatives of the distillery.

—Herve Robert, president of Specialties de Ciment et Tuiles Ltee.

Asked by Opposition Leader Jean Lesage why Sarto Marchand, president of Melchers, had not received a summons, Mr. Bertrand said:

"If the evidence is sufficient, the persons implicated in this affair, whoever they may be, from whatever milieu they may be, will undergo the same fate reserved in similar cases for persons mixed up in illicit commerce."

The five to be charged would be called before the court "in a few days."

MLA DIDN'T KNOW

Meanwhile, Adelard D'Anjou, Union Nationale MLA for Kamouraska, rose on a question of privilege to say that he was not aware that one of this company's trailer trucks was transporting the seized liquor until he was so informed after the seizure. He had learned of the event Monday.

Mr. D'Anjou said h is president of Transport D'Anjou Inc., but has not been involved in company administration because of MLA duties since his election June 5, 1966.

Mr. Bertrand, in reply to former justice minister Claude Wagner, said that "for the moment" no charges have been laid against Transport D'Anjou. The company had a permit to truck liquor between Quebec and New Brunswick.

Adopted 11-to-10 was the premier's proposal to adjourn indefinitely the legislative assembly's committee inquiring into government salary policy in the strike against the Quebec Liquor Board.

Mr. Bertrand said the committee—holding its seventh session—had accomplished its work and the strike would have to be settled at the negotiation table.

The government move was greeted with cat-calls by members of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, which represents the 3,000 strikers.

'GAGS THE MEMBERS'

Mr. Lesage accused Mr. Bertrand of "gagging" MLAs after the Liberals lost an amendment asking that the QLB president be called before the committee to explain what Mr. Lesage called QLB co-operation with distilleries in making deliveries during the strike.

Mr. Lesage had reliable information that Quebec-distilled liquor has been delivered from a warehouse in the port of Montreal since the strike started. He could name the transport companies he said were involved, but did not want "to smear their reputation."

Mr. Bertrand said an inquiry is under way into the illicit sale of alcohol. If the facts revealed that a public inquiry was necessary into clandestine commerce of liquor, one would be held.

Mr. Bertrand also reiterated the government's intention of maintaining its salary offer to strikers of 15 per cent in wage increases over three years.

The union is seeking a scaled-down increase of 27 per cent. Pre-strike average weekly rate was $81.63.

At the same time, Mr. Bertrand warned that a strike prolonged into the Christmas holiday period would deprive the public of a "legitimate service" in such other domains as schools, roads and social benefits because of tax revenues lost through the QLB strike.

"And this is serious," he said.

Red China Adamant On Taiwan

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Han Suyin said Tuesday night that Red China will never accept recognition from Canada if that move also involves recognition of Taiwan.

Dr. Han, who was born in Peking, is a well-known lecturer and author. She was interviewed Tuesday night on CBC-TV's Twenty Million Questions by Charles Lynch, who also spoke to Senator Paul Martin, Canada's former external affairs minister.

Mr. Martin said Canada acted independently in its decision to recognize Mainland China and was not "overly influenced" by the United States. Canada took into account the U.S. view, but also the views of New Zealand, Australia and other Asian countries.

Dr. Han said that Asia will not accept the division of the world into two spheres of influenct; a division that gots back as far as Yalta.

China must be independent from Russia to prevent world war. Former USSR premier Nikita Khrushchev asked China to contribute its arms to the Soviets in return for protection under Russia's "nuclear umbrella," she said. China refused.

Youth Groups Protesting Consumer Role

MONTREAL (CP) — Rev. Philip Potter, assistant secretary general of the World Council of Churches in Geneva, says active protest is a necessary mode of expression for certain elements of Western society, which he describes as a society of consumers.

Speaking at a news conference Monday, Mr. Potter said students around the world are fighting essentially against being pressed into the consumer's role.

Students were refusing to be part of a consumer society whose structures allowed for no flexibility and served to inhibit the just distribution of an extraordinary abundance of riches.

Not only capitalist but also socialist systems are under the gun of active protest because both systems as they now are applied do not allow for equitable participation in the governing power, Mr. Potter said.

New Banks Appeal 'Up to Ontario'

OTTAWA (CP) — The decision whether to re-open Canada's formal request to the United States for the extradition of Hal C. Banks rests primarily with the Ontario government, a federal government official said today.

An Ontario warrant for the arrest of Banks, former head of the Canadian Seafarers' International Union, is still outstanding, the official said. He is wanted by Ontario to face charges of perjury in testimony he gave a royal commission inquiry into violence on the Great Lakes.

A formal request to have Banks returned to Canada to face the charge was turned down earlier this year by State Secretary Dean Rusk, after a U.S. court ruled that Banks was extraditable.

A legal authority in the external affairs department here said Canada could ask again to have Banks extradited, but the new move should originate with the Ontario government.

The possibility of the Banks case being re-opened was raised in Washington Wednesday by Republican Senator Paul Fannin of Arizona. He said in a statement he was sure the new Republican administration headed by President-elect Richard Nixon, to take office next January, would be willing to see the Banks case "cleared up satisfactorily."

Senator Fannin has said Mr. Rusk's rejection of the extradition application by Canada represented a negligent way of handling relations between the two countries.

Banks is also wanted by the federal government for jumping $25,000 bail after being sentenced to five years in jail on a conviction of conspiring to commit violence against a rival union leader on the Great Lakes. Conspiracy, however, is not an offence under the current Canada-U.S. treaty for which a person may be extradited.

TOAST OF VICTORIA Wednesday night were these seven blood donors, each of whom has given 50 donations to help others regain their health. Receiving certificates from Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson, centre, they are (front row) Thomas P. Smith, Mrs. Ann Hurl, Mrs. Agnes Bennett, W. F. Wilson. Back row: Roland Portman, L. A. Newman and James T. Taylor. Ceremony took place at Red Cross House. Thirty-five others were honored for 20 blood donations.

'Revolutionary Riff-Raff Allowed Entry to Canada'

OTTAWA (CP) — A brisk Commons argument bubbled up Wednesday over claims by John Diefenbaker that "revolutionary riff-raff" from the United States are being given easy entry to Canada to foment anarchy and revolution.

Prime Minister Trudeau said the government feels there is no danger in allowing freedom of speech.

Mr. Diefenbaker, former Conservative leader and member for Prince Albert, singled out two men—Stokeley Carmichael, an advocate of Black Power in the U.S., and Jerry Rubin, described by Mr. Diefenbaker as an American "revolutionary."

The former attended a recent conference of Negro writers in Montreal and the latter spoke to students at the University of British Columbia last month.

Mr. Trudeau said Canada's immigration laws are designed to keep out persons with criminal intent. But there was no danger of strife from the "free discussion of ideas."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the two men said there should be "bloodshed in Canada" to overturn the government.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) asked whether the Canadian government had taken steps to prevent a minister from Rhodesia, which broke away from the Commonwealth, from entering Canada.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled the question out of order as argumentative.

Amid hoots from the Conservative benches, Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) tried once again to get an answer to this question.

He asked whether the same reasoning would be applied to a Rhodesian cabinet minister coming to Canada as had been applied to the two Americans.

Mr. Lamoureux said this question was hypothetical.

Mr. Diefenbaker returned to the attack.

QUOTES NEGRO LEADER

He quoted Stokeley Carmichael as saying that Canadians should "get out your guns, get all you can and use them." Did Mr. Trudeau class this as "free speech?"

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Diefenbaker was asking for an interpretation of the law of seditious libel.

That brought George Hees (P C—Prince Edward-Hastings to his feet.

He wanted a "straightforward answer" from Mr. Trudeau. Did he feel persons advocating the violent overthrow of the government should be welcomed to the country?

Mr. Trudeau turned that one over to Acting Immigration Minister Jean Marchand.

Mr. Marchand said people seeking entry to Canada are allowed in when they showed no "noticeable intention" of organizing a revolution.

Jailed Student Gets University Training

TORONTO (CP) — Stanley Thomas Dobrowolski, 21, attends the University of Toronto by day and spends his nights in Don jail.

Sentenced to one year definite and one year indeterminate for possession of marijuana, he is one of five Ontario reformatory prisoners granted day paroles so they can serve their terms and go to school at the same time.

Stanley got his special parole by persistence. His conviction had cut short his second-year psychology course and he was determined not to lose another year.

"I just kept bothering the national parole board and writing letters," he said in a recent interview.

He was lucky. The board was impressed and wrote to the province at a time when the Ontario department of correctional services was already planning a move in this direction.

LEFT ON HIS OWN

On Oct, 24, accompanied by a parole officer, Stanley registered once more in his second-year course. Now each day, he leaves the Don jail at 8 a.m. and is on his own until he returns to his cell at 6 p.m.

His day is spent in classes, studying, and perhaps at lunch with his pretty wife, Krystina, 21, now in her third year of a four-year English course.

Intelligent, clean-cut and articulate about the changes in thinking that have convinced him he wants to train for a job helping young people in trouble with drugs, Stanley is a guinea pig in the province's shift towards creative use of the parole.

Another program allows four prisoners at Brampton reformatory to attend public high school in the city by day.

"It's a good example of people who have been sentenced to serve time but are using that time constructively," says Donald Sinclair, executive director of the institution division of the correctional services department.

The program will be widened to include a "live-in, work-out" experiment as soon as a federal bill before Parliament is passed allowing provinces more freedom in the area.

Meantime, Toronto, Vancouver, Winnipeg and Montreal are in the process of setting up halfway houses for prisoners serving the last three months of long sentences. Aimed at helping the prisoners readjust to society, the houses will serve as shelters and counselling institutions while the prisoners look for jobs, take shopping trips and engage, unescorted, in other normal activities.

POLLUTION BLAMED

NEW YORK (AP)—Andrew Kuras, a Brooklyn carpenter who blamed air pollution for his injuries in an accident on a construction job, won a $300,000 out-of-court settlement Wednesday. Kuras claimed that pollutants in the air weakened some rope supporting wood planks. The rope gave way and the planks fell on Kuras, allegedly causing multiple skull fractures.

Campbell River Sea Front Draws Mounting Squabble

By MORGAN MacGREGOR

CAMPBELL RIVER — The sand has barely settled in four and a half acres reclaimed from the sea front here when council has found itself locked in dispute among its own members as well as with the municipal affairs department on development of the land.

"I'm absolutely against dedicating it as a park," Alderman Jack McLeod told council "The next thing you know we'll end up with grass, shrubs and flowers." He also objected strongly to the departments control over its future use.

The land, which is located in a choice downtown section of the waterfront, was created when 75,000 cubic yards of sand dredged from the new ferry slip was used to extend the foreshore between the ferry ramp strongly to the department's

LONG PROMENADE

It is part of municipal affairs urban renewal plan which could eventually see the downtown waterfront developed with a park, a mile-long promenade and a boat basin. The first stage of the project cost the municipality $50,000 with the provincial and federal governments picking up the rest of the tab. The land now has a value of between a quarter and half a million dollars.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told council at a recent meeting that the provincial government would not turn over the land to them unless it was agreed that it would be used as an open recreational area.

"I like the idea of a park", said Ald. Isobel Sandberg, "but I object to the department's control."

Other aldermen couldn't agree on its development but they all agreed that municipal affairs shouldn't interfere.

WINCH
. . . sees crowded Island

Bird's Eye View Of Housing Urged

DUNCAN — Everybody blames everybody else for the current housing crisis, Eric Winch, Liberal contestant in the Feb. 10 byelection in Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands, told a Jaycee meeting here Wednesday night.

"Architects blame the contractors, contractors blame the unions and the National Housing Act and so on down the line. These people are too close to the forest to see the trees."

Mr. Winch, who is running against National Democratic Party Leader Tommy Douglas in the riding left vacant by the death of Colin Cameron, said:

"The federal task force on housing and urbanization which visited Victoria recently had a unique opportunity to stand back and look objectively at the problem.

"You people in Duncan do not have a housing problem now. But, according to the fact-finding group, Victoria will burst at the seams in the next 20 years.

"And just as in my hometown of Parksville which has Port Alberni and Nanaimo workers resident there, so will Duncan get the overflow from Victoria."

LAUDS SOCREDS

Mr. Winch lauded a Socred plan that union funds be used to build homes, schools and hospitals and suggested that other organizations make their pension funds available for similar purposes at reasonable interest rates.

He agreed with Victoria architect John di Castri who told the federal task force that not enough thought was being given to prefab or precast construction and less emphasis should be placed on "obsolete features."

"We need to modernize our building methods. A house doesn't have to be made up of a lot of little pieces of wood. It is not an automobile that wears out and must be replaced every few years."

A magistrate who graduated from the University of British Columbia in arts, social work and law, Mr. Winch said the Cowichan Indians here are "really going places, using the reserve as it should be used, businessmen in their own right."

ONE SIDE OF PROBLEM

He said in his experience as a magistrate he was too often used to seeing just one side of the Indian problem.

"But what are we doing in the white community to help them find their rightful place? How many Indians do you see working in this community?"

Mr. Winch was asked if being on the other side of the political fence from his brother Harold Winch (NDP-Vancouver East) and his late father Ernest Winch had ever been a point of contention in the family:

"Not at all," he said. "In fact, we sometimes are very close together on many subjects."

Indian Chief Foresees Split Society

DUNCAN — Discrimination against the Indians in Canada, although of the most subtle kind, is steadily growing and could lead to a completely divided society, according to Tsarlip Chief Philip Paul of West Saanich.

He told a Knights of Columbus veterans banquet that a double standard of values exists which makes it difficult for young people to get ahead.

As with the American Negro situation, people hate "without knowing quite what it was they hated or why they hated."

Asking that his people be accepted "for what they are and what they can become in spite of the suppression under which they have lived," Chief Paul several times repeated demands for revision of the Indian Act.

The act now is being studied by the federal government, and Chief Paul did not specify what changes he wanted.

He noted that some younger band members "are beginning to question the need for having reserves and are questioning many of the provisions of the Indian Act."

Area's Future In Question

LAKE COWICHAN — Council here, fearful of the district's future growth, decided this week to ask local lumber companies for their operating plans for the next 25 years.

The plans will be considered in a study of tax revenues before a sewer referendum is put to the people.

The vote had earlier been planned for the December civic elections, but council held back after the recent pullout of the Hillcrest Lumber Co. from the area.

"The sewer is definitely needed around here but I am wondering if it is the right time." Ald. Herb Halliday said.

"The taxpayer has the final word but we want to be reasonably sure before we present the bylaw to them."

The estimated cost of a sewerage system serving 550 residents and seven commercial businesses has risen from $537,000 to $627,000 in the 2½ years since it was planned.

The closing of the company "certainly gave a jolt to the area and put a damper on things," Mayor B. R. All said.

"We have many empty homes at the present time. The sewer is a necessity as far as the village is concerned. We want to encourage people to stay."

Ald. Floyd Lindstrom recommended council send letters to local companies—British Columbia Forest Products, Western Forest Industries, CPR (Pacific Logging) and Crown Zellerbach — for their operational projections.

Sewage Cost Burden Rapped by Nanaimo

NANAIMO — The provincial government should control pollution standards but should not place the financial burden for sewerage construction on the municipalities, city council agreed this week.

Ald. Ted Jenkins said each municipality now must pay for its own engineering study and build its own sewage treatment plant at a cost of about $1.5 million.

"It (the study) is a direct waste of money. I think the provincial government should have plans available," he said.

"Each municipality has to go out and hire engineers—I think this is ridiculous."

His motion to ask the Union of British Columbia Municipalities to approach the government with united demands met with council's approval.

Ald. Jenkins added the UBCM delegation should meet the government to "present matters we think the government should consider."

Promises that provincial funds would be available for treatment plants are misleading, he said.

"They say there is an amount of money available but when you look into it, it's not very much."

Rainfall Lighter Than Last Year

DUNCAN — A total of 5,56 inches of rain fell in October compared with 8.66 inches for the same month last year, the meteorological observer reports.

A low of 32 degrees was reported Oct. 18; the warmest day was Oct. 23 which registered 64 degrees.

Garbage Disposal Means Studied

DUNCAN — The city is looking at alternatives to its garbage disposal in open pits.

Ald. Jim Saunders told city council a two-cell Australian-built incinerator would cost about $80,000 and serve about 18,000 people.

C.W. Disposals asked for a contract with the city at $220 a month to maintain the present dump site.

Ald. Saunders proposed a gate and a fence at the city dump with opening hours for the public on Saturdays and Sundays and a 25-cent charge for cars and $1 for trucks.

Many people from the unorganized areas also use the dump, he said.

Who ever heard of having Eleanor Collins for dessert?

But since we've changed our first show to 9:00 p.m. this week (to give you a chance to dine without having to constantly stop to applaud) Miss Collins should be just about on time for dessert. Now isn't that a great way to end a pleasant dining experience?

Why not stay for her second show at 12:30 and begin the next day in a nice way? It's all part of our plan to leave a nice taste in your mouth.

Student Violinist Receives Ovation

Jacqueline Tarry, violin student at Victoria Conservatory of Music, received an ovation Wednesday night for her spirited performance of the first movement from Brahm's Sonata in A Major.

The 19-year-old violinist has played with Canada's National Youth Orchestra for two years running, and won major awards at Vancouver Music Festival before coming to Victoria last summer.

With Robin Wood at the piano, Miss Tarry was featured soloist at a variety concert in Metropolitan United Church given in aid of United Church Women's projects.

Some 450 men, women and children responded generously to a program of vocal and instrumental numbers arranged by Frank Tupman, conductor of the Sanctuary Choir at Metropolitan.

The 50-voice mixed choir presented a program of choral selections ranging from Rossini's stately Inflammatus to Vaughan Williams' lively sea shanty, Just As The Tide Was Flowing.

Dawn Benoit, soprano, and Jack Baines, tenor, were acclaimed for their solo work with the choir.

The wood wind ensemble from Mount View Senior Secondary School, comprising Susan Stancombe, Jim Harvey and Alan Denike, contributed some lively short movements from Mozart's Divertimento No. 1.

Two movements from Suite by Rameau were played by the school's brass ensemble — Dave Rae, Wayne Davis, Richard Carswell, Bruce Jeffs and John Gnam.

Organist Eric Boothroyd was highly acclaimed for his presentation of four compositions, notably Handel's Concerto for Organ in F Major and Gigout's Grand Chorus Dialogue.

Jack and Betty Filtness were heard in classical selections on banjo and piano.

UVIC SOCIETY SHOWING FILMS

The Uvic Student Film Society opens a new season tonight with Red Desert, a film by Italian director Michelangelo Antonioni, who also directed Blow Up.

Season passes will sell at the door, Room 144 of the MacLaurin Building, at $3.50 for students and $4.50 for non-students.

People who just want to take in the Antonioni film tonight will be able to get in for a dollar. The show starts at 8 p.m.

Next film on the film society list is the 1903 American production, The Great Train Robbery, scheduled for Jan. 9.

Monarchy Backers Speak Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said Wednesday he would like to hear pro-monarchy adherents speak out.

The former Conservative leader told the Ottawa branch of the English-Speaking Union there has been a continuous campaign in the last few years to abolish the monarchy.

He would like to hear the opponents of this move speak out as Gen. Georges Vanier and Vincent Massey did in their days as governor-general.

Fred Knows Where He's Dancing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — He's the guy nobody knocks because nobody wants to. He's what is known on Broadway as "a class guy."

All his life he has looked like he was having a good time, and Fred Astaire still does now as he nears 70.

It has been more than half a century since the slender boy from Omaha and his sister Adele danced to stardom here in Over the Top, away back in 1917. But he still has that same nostalgic blitheness of spirit and rhythm that made him a symbol of the carefree 1920s.

It's on view again in a film version of Finian's Rainbow, Fred's first musical in eight years.

Astaire is quietly amused at the public image of graceful insouciance he has built up over the years.

"I have the idea," he remarked, "that people regard me—affectionately, I hope—as someone who danced from knowing where I was life rather like an idiot. But it wasn't that way at all.

"The success I've had came from knowing ehere I was going—looking like I knew where I was going. Like the Boy Scouts, I've always believed in being prepared."

Behind the seemingly effortless nonchalance of his dance steps lie endless hours of practice. If there is dialogue, "I learn my lines until I could give them standing on my head in a tree."

Having starred in every medium from vaudeville to television, Fred has no particular professional goals left to conquer.

"I only want to do now what is worth doing," he said. "I don't have to go for the money, and I am hard to get because I don't want to do anything that will wear out a welcome that has been there for so many years. I don't want to disappoint anybody, particularly myself."

Astaire, who lives alone in his Beverly Hills home and keeps three racehorses as a profitable hobby, is a man at peace with his soul.

Hutterite Sect Shows Big Growth

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—A sect of 400 pioneers who fled to North America to escape religious persecution in Europe has become one of the world's fastest-growing groups.

The Protestant Hutterite sect of Anabapism, which believes that artificial contraception is sinful and men should retire at 45, has grown to 15,000 persons from 440 in less than 100 years. Two-thirds of them live in Western Canada.

The sect's birth rate is three times higher than that of the United States and its death rate is among the lowest in the world.

Only a rigid ban on pre-marital sexual relations and a taboo against teen-age marriages has kept the population from rising even more.

The median fertility of Hutterite women is in the region of 10.4 children, says a U.S. population bulletin.

Even at ages 40-44, Hutterite women have a fertility rate higher than the women in France, Sweden and the United States during their maximum fertility years of 24 to 29.

The Hutterites take their name from a radical Anabaptist named Jacob Huter, who in 1536 was burned at the stake in Innsbruck, Austria.

His followers roamed Europe for years, eventually settling in Russia. But, in the 19th century, as czarist Russia grew intolerant of ethnic minorities, they moved to North America. The 440 pioneers settled in South Dakota between 1874 and 1877.

Eventually, many moved into Canada. Two-thirds of present-day Hutterites live in the Prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The rest are in the United States.

They live mainly in colonies of about 100, and concentrate on farming.

COLONY DIVIDES

Most colonies prosper economically, but none is really wealthy, chiefly because the population explosion forces each colony to divide and establish another one about once every 20 years.

The new clonies, with a population of about 100, have an adult labor pool of 30, evenly divided between men and women.

Almost every male is responsible for one field, such as carpentry, cattle, hogs and so on.

The men continue in these jobs until they retire, still hearty, at 45, having trained an assistant to take over. They are then kept by the community.

The sect believes in the biblical injunction to "be fruitful and multiply," and that a strong and lasting union between man and woman will anchor couples to their community.

Sect leaders stress the sinfulness of artificial contraception. If a couple has been married a year without a child other Hutterites begin to wonder if they are healthy.

Premarital sex is taboo and Hutterites cannot marry until after they have been baptized, usually in the late teens. Even then, there normally is an interval of several years before marriage.

There is virtually no illegitimacy and only one divorce and two separations have been reported in the last 100 years.

Hutterites stick strictly to community life and try to wall out any forces that might wean members away from the group.

8 CARD OF THANKS

Sincere kindness and sympathy bring consolation in a time of sorrow. The many helpful acts, and understanding words of relatives, friends and neighbors, after the sudden loss of our dear husband and Daddy, Lyle Hansen, are blended into a beautiful and heart warming memory that we will always cherish. A special thanks to our good friends that served as pallbearers; to the Drs., Nurses, and M.A.'s of uppermain, C.F.H.; and to the members of Canadian Legion Branch No. 91. Our very special thanks to the "boys in blue."—Mrs. H. L. Hansen and Girls.

We wish to express our heart-felt thanks and appreciation to our family and friends for their many acts of kindness and sympathy during our recent tragic loss.
—Ray and Margaret Isacson and Sandra-Lynn.
—Peter and Shirley Scheeren and family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

COXEN—In loving memory of my dear mother, Ada Ellen Coxen, who passed away Nov. 14, 1963.

The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.

—Always remembered by her loving son, Bill.

DELOUME—In loving remembrance of Adeline J. Deloume who passed peacefully away November 14, 1964.

As Autumn leaves
She faded to sleep,
In memory's garden
My thoughts ever keep.

—Ever remembered by Reg.

GOODMAN—In loving memory of my dear mother, Daisy Goodman, who passed away Nov. 14, 1964.

Dear Mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.

—Fred and Alice Clemo.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Back in the '20s and '30s when Ted Lightner of New York was one of the world's five or six greatest players he was noted for his languid manner. But bitter experience showed his opponents that the more sleepy he looked, the more dangerous he was.

Opening lead—♥5

Today he is 75 years old and more sleepy than ever, except when it becomes time for him to wake up and play the right card.

Today we see him sitting East at the Regency Whist Club. He played his king of hearts at trick one. South played the ace and went into a long huddle while Teddy appeared to lose all interest in the proceedings. Then South led a club to dummy's king and a second club which lost to West's ace.

Now it was West's turn to huddle and eventually he played the deuce of spades. South went up with dummy's ace and led the three of diamonds. Teddy woke up long enough to play the 10.

This second hand high play by Teddy effectively cooked declarer's goose. South had planned to let the diamond ride to West since he could not afford to let East get the lead. But now there was no way for South to achieve his aim. South might have cashed eight tricks and settled for down one but he played three rounds of diamonds in the vain hope that West held the long diamond, not East. Thus he went down two when Teddy took his queen of diamonds and led the heart to his partner.

South had played the hand in a most enterprising fashion and we sort of wonder if very many young, alert, wide-awake experts would have come up with that 10-spot play Ted made.

CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

A grocery business for nothing. Yes, almost. My tenant didn't mind his business, and had to give up. The former owner made very good money. All you do is put in about $3,000 to $4,000 worth of stock, pay rent of $200 for store and nice living quarters, and $35 per month on my fixtures. This store has been abandoned and I must get it opened quickly. Fixtures include large walk-in cooler. Fish and chip compartment, meat slicer, scales, stands, etc. You can do about $50,000 a year gross, easily. Living quarters to be all redecorated. In busy community just 8 miles from City Centre. Customers are waiting for this store to reopen. 477-5081.

Shelling Attacks May Wreck Talks

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Johnson today was reported gravely concerned over Communist shelling attacks in South Vietnam but was determined to continue soft-line diplomacy to get Saigon to the Paris peace talks. (See Page 13.)

He also was reported anxious to do nothing that could worsen strained relations with Saigon or give the impression the United States was exerting undue pressure.

A bluntly worded state department statement Wednesday warned Hanoi the Paris talks, now boycotted by Saigon, could be jettisoned completely unless Communist troops showed the restraint which U.S. officials claimed they had "reason to expect" when Johnson stopped the bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1.

It reminded Hanoi that "serious talks could not be conducted" if Communist gunners continued to fire across the demilitarized zone and hinted there might be a limit to Washington's patience unless the Communists stop raids against South Vietnamese cities.

The statement was seen both as a warning to Hanoi and an attempt to sooth Saigon's ruffled feelings over plans for expanded peace talks.

The United States said its understanding with Hanoi provided only for a two-sided conference—South Vietnamese and Americans on one side and the North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front on the other.

The state department said NLF inclusion on the Communist side "in no way involves recognition of the front in any form."

"We do not consider the NLF to be an independent entity. The NLF will be present only as Hanoi's choice."

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu has refused to attend the Paris talks unless South Vietnam leads the "allied" delegation and said he cannot accept the NLF, political arm of the Viet Cong, as an equal negotiating partner.

The U.S. statement was seen as a partial attempt to meet his objections—by listing South Vietnam ahead of the United States among the "allied" participants and by rejecting North Vietnamese assertions that the U.S. "agreed to a four-sided or four-party conference."

Officials said forceful reaffirmation of the American position was one element backing up quiet diplomatic efforts to get the South Vietnamese to agree to send a delegation to Paris.

Early Talks Urged On Missile Cuts

By STEPHEN SCOTT

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Canada has called on the United States and the Soviet Union to start immediate negotiations aimed at limitation of intercontinental and anti-ballistic nuclear missile systems.

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns said in the political committee of the United Nations Wednesday that since both countries had agreed to hold talks, "Canada believes that it is essential that such negotiations should begin soon if there is to be any significant progress toward arms control or disarmament."

Burns also expressed concern that additional countries are not signing the nuclear non-proliferation treaty that was agreed to early this year. Only two of the eight so-called "threshold states," those capable of producing nuclear weapons but which have not yet done so, had signed the treaty.

These were Canada—which would ratify the treaty in due course—and Sweden. The treaty becomes effective when 40 countries have ratified it. In all 80 countries have signed.

In other developments at the UN, the China-admission debate continued with Russia saying it supports the admission of the Communist regime of Peking despite its ideological differences with it.

And, once again, a resolution has been introduced condemning the apartheid—racial separation—policies of South Africa.

The China and apartheid questions are hardy perennials at the UN. One speaker Wednesday said 69 resolutions have been passed on South Africa.

DEBATE CONTINUES

Because of an apparent lack of speakers, the debate on the admission of Communist China —called for in a 16-power resolution—may drag on until Monday. It is expected to be defeated. Canada will abstain from the vote, following its recent policy of supporting representation of both Chinas in the UN.

Burns spoke in the political committee a day after Jacob Malik of the Soviet Union said that his country is willing to meet the U.S. any time on the limitation of strategic weapons.

The Canadian mentioned previous statements indicating that the U.S. is willing to meet the Soviet Union on the matter.

But the U.S. has been cool to such talks since the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The Canadian disarmament ambassador drew the committee's attention to the commitment of major nuclear powers, contained in the non-proliferation treaty, to make further efforts toward nuclear disarmament.

He said the "momentum" created by the treaty must be maintained.

He also called for other disarmament measures, such as a comprehensive ban on nuclear testing.

The 40-nation apartheid resolution asked the Security Council to act "urgently" to impose comprehensive mandatory sanctions on South Africa. The Afro-Asian sponsors said effective action against South Africa is "imperative in order to eliminate the grave threat to peace in southern Africa.

Plans Studied To Increase Wheat Sales

REGINA (CP) — New credit facilities to make Canadian wheat more competitive in world markets are being studied and should be announced soon Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said today.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, he also said Hungary bought another 3,000,000 bushels of wheat last week and discussions will open soon with Russia for a further sale to that country.

Mr. Pepin returned this week from South America where he was part of a Canadian ministerial trade and economic mission headed by External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp. Mr. Pepin said wheat was a major topic of importance in the countries being visited.

"Many of their representatives stressed the need which exists in developing countries for wheat on credit terms more generous than those which have been available from Canada.

"Credit facilities for wheat are receiving intensive study by the government at the present time, and I will have more to say on this important subject in the near future."

The Soviet Union still has a commitment to buy 150,000,000 bushels under its current agreement with the Canadian wheat board.

STILL BUYING WHEAT

"Other eastern European countries have outstanding sales obligations to us totalling about 30,000,000 bushels," he said. "Hungary just last week purchased 80,000 tons or nearly 3,000,000 bushels.

"Two commissioners of the wheat board are currently in Canton negotiating for what we hope will be aother major sale to China."

The trade minister also said the government will soon announce the composition of a national grains council. Interested organizations presented briefs to the government on the subject last month.

"The formation of a grains council is not meant to be a criticism of the wheat board or to be a super-council set up to direct the wheat board," Mr. Pepin said.

"The wheat board shall continue to have the control and to bear the responsibility for marketing western grain. It is the broader aspects of the entire grain industry and long-range policy which will stretch far beyond the authority of the wheat board that need to be studied and further co-ordinated.

Grits Losing Popularity Says Douglas

NANAIMO — T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party national leader, said Wednesday that Prime Minister Trudeau has delayed calling the Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands byelection until Feb. 10 because public opinion surveys show "a drastic loss of support for the Liberal Party."

Mr. Douglas, a candidate for the vacant seat, said the byelection will be a test of confidence for the Liberal government.

He said the election will be fought on solid issues rather than personalities.

Mental Health Talk

LAKE COWICHAN — George Kenwood, executive director of the B.C. division of the Canadian Mental Health Association will discuss Who Carries the Ball in Mental Health at the Stanley Gordon School at 8 tonight.

Mr. Kenwood has had 23 years' experience in the mental health field, five as instructor in psychiatric nursing at the Provincial Mental Health Services School at Riverview, and nine years with CMHA.

Historic Waterfront Should Be Preserved

HALIFAX (CP) — Fighting for the preservation of a city's past is a lonely task for British architect Rodney Tatchell.

Here recently to speak on behalf of Halifax's historic waterfront area which faces the wrecker's hammer, Mr. Tatchell encouraged local groups to persevere against developers.

Nova Scotia should be proud of its past and of its pioneering days and therefore should maintain reminders of it, he says.

He says the restoration of Fort Louisbourg, on Cape Breton Island, is "a fantastic project."

"I was enormously impressed by it, especially the way you have revived the past trades," he says, referring to the manner in which the restoration workers are using tools from the past in their work. "This gives them a sense of pleasure and pride—of seeing the beginning and end of the job. They do it all themselves instead of being simply links in a chain."

The 1917 explosion which almost levelled Halifax wiped out many of the older buildings in the city. He contends that what's left should be carefully studied and considered before any further wilful destruction is done to it.

He admits that his is a lonely job. Few people have any interest and restoration is so low on government priority lists that it's almost hopeless.

Mr. Tatchell says the fight in the main is against the developer. "If he has sufficient money and influence, he can usually get his own way in these matters—where history must sufffer in the name of progress."

Montreal Man to Air Canada Post?

(Special to The Times)

OTTAWA — Lucien Sulnier, chairman of the executive committee of the city of Montreal, is expected to be recommended as the man to fill the new post of chairman of the board of Air Canada, when the directors meet Nov. 26.

It is understood Mr. Saulnier has indicated to the board and to the government that he is prepared to accept the post. He has stipulated as a condition that he wanted made clear the right of management in the government owned airline to manage without government interference.

Earlier it appeared that the government had been prepared to go along with the recommendation of retired Air Canada president Gordon McGregor and name Herbert W. Seagrim now executive vice-president to the office of president in charge of operations.

Recent developments have made that choice less certain. Other persons being mentioned frequently as likely candidates for the position are W. G. Wood, senior vice - president of Air Canada in charge of sales or John Baldwin, deputy minister of transport.

Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Tuesday that he expects the government will be in a position to make an announcement "within the next fortnight" regarding the new president for Air Canada.

Cancer Freeze Research Gets Surgical Okay

TORONTO (CP) — Two cancer research projects, one involving freezing of tumors and the other using blood anti-coagulants, are under way at Toronto East General Hospital, a Toronto surgeon has reported.

Dr. E. H. Simmons, orthopedic surgeon and first vice-president of the hospital's research foundation, told the foundation's annual dinner that tests on animals are in their early stages.

He said the freezing method involves use of liquid nitrogen at minus 160 degrees centigrade.

"Once the tumor has been frozen the body's response to it differs and the body is permitted to fight it," he said.

He said the hospital has developed another technique—the use of a metallic freezing probe to cause localized destruction of cancerous tumors in bones and muscles of animals. Tests had shown that tumors frozen and thawed three times will die.

He said the freezing method, under study by researchers since the early 1960s, has been used in treating cancer of the prostate gland and in treatment of diseased portions of the brain that causes Parkinson's Disease.

Dr. Simmons said blood anti-coagulants now are used in treating heart attacks caused by blood clots.

But, he said, it is suspected tumor and cancer cells break off and travel in groups. The anti-coagulants possibly could break them apart and prevent or at least decrease the spread of cancer.

Boxes Carrying Ammunition 'Just More Coffins for Children'

By HUGH MULLIGAN

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — At 5:15 p.m., just as dusk was settling over the Portuguese island of Sao Tome, the first mercy flight took off for Biafra.

It was a chartered DC-7 loaded to the door with dried milk, canned tuna fish, crates of medicine and bottles of baby food.

In noisy succession, five other DC-7s lumbered off into the night.

Three belonged to Caritas, the Vatican relief agency; the others were operated by Nordchurch, a Scandinavian branch of the World Council of Churches.

Tropical lightning flashed in the west. The pilot, a middle-aged Swede who received $500 a flight, found it more comforting than the orange puffs of 40-millimetre anti-aircraft fire that greeted him on other nights.

Suddenly, kerosene runway lamps came on at Annabelle, marking the 7,800-foot long stretch of macadam highway that is breakaway Biafra's last lifeline to food.

Gangs of singing black men began slinging the cargo onto flatbed trucks as soon as the plane taxied to a stop.

●

"My brothers, don't be afraid, we shall win," the work crews chanted in the Ibo language.

The planes came in every few minutes, from Sao Tome, from Fernando Poo, once a Spanish island now part of Equatorial Guinea, from Libreville in Gabon, a former French colony, leap-frogging over each other on the narrow runway that had only two parking aprons.

Eighteen planes landed in less than three hours.

Some, with a big red cross painted on their tail sections, delivered cartons of fresh blood and took aboard skeletons of dying children destined for hospitals in Libreville and on Sao Tome.

Others, painted a ghostly grey, yielded long wooden boxes stenciled in black paint with the ominous inscription, "handle with care, 105 howitzer shells."

"Toys for Biafra," snorted Father Aengus Finucane, an Irish missionary who looked upon every arriving box not containing food as a coffin for another starved infant.

●

Last month at Uli, 906 of his parishioners—517 of them children—died of kwashiorkor (protein deficiency), the most ghastly byproduct of the 17-month war in what was once West Africa's most promising emerging nation.

Part of the starvation problem is trucking relief foods out to the bush dwellers in a land where gasoline now costs $19.42 a gallon.

At 9 a.m., just as the last truck lumbered into Umuahia, the provisional capital of Biafra, a Russian-made MiG flashed out of the sky, and the drivers dove for ditches.

●

Tall, handsome Ibo girls, with their hair plaited like long spider legs, shrieked at the first loud explosion of the antiquated Bofors gun trying to chase the jet, then laughed scornfully as the jet disappeared in the heat haze.

"Egyptian cowards," the girls blurted, echoing the widely held belief in Biafra that all Nigerian pilots are Arab mercenaries on loan from President Nasser.

Two days before, another MiG dropped a bomb in Abiriba Street, just outside a shop. Then it made a strafing run over the market place across from the women's police barracks.

●

"The toll was 75 dead and 91 wounded, all civilians," said Maxwell Cohen, a New York lawyer who at the time was sitting on the balcony of the Progress Hotel writing a brief for the government of Biafra that would invoke the genocide convention of the United Nations against Nigeria.

At the Uboma feeding centre, the line of women, children and old men waiting for the daily distribution of relief foods stretched for nearly a mile down the dusty road.

The food being passed out this day was dried milk from Northern Ireland, purchased by Caritas from Britain.

A young mother who tried to crash the line a second time was driven off by guards who wore Red Cross armbands.

Inside the locked gates some 500 children, most of them orphans, lolled about in the listless torpor that is the first sign of kwashiorkor. Their hair already was turning ashen red; the skin on their toothpick thin legs had turned hard and leathery, covered here and there with running sores.

●

Said Sister Miriam de Paul, the head nurse:

"Thirteen died last week, one of them a little boy who was the last of five children in his family. He died as the litter was being lifted onto the plane to Gabon."

The worst cases were in the long row of cots in the classrooms.

"Don't go in there," the sister said. "You can smell death off them."

A reporter travelling about Biafra didn't have to be taken to starving children. They were everywhere.

●

There are 36 on the staff of Umuahia, the last remaining hospital in Biafra. No shortage of patients either. The 184-bed hospital was jammed with 744 in-patients, whose broken, bloodied bodies lay in the corridors and under shade trees in courtyards.

Said the hospital's headmatron F. E. Bert of London:

"Last month we admitted 151 children; 40 of them died. It's been more or less the same ratio over the last six months, and we only take the ones that seem to have a chance. Otherwise it wouldn't be fair to give up the bed space."

"If we only had more blood, we could save more children," she said.

●

Twenty miles away, at the front, the 15th Biafran Division was trying to reclaim the vacated town of Okigwi from the 1st Nigerian Division, which was shelling the empty streets from an 800-foot-high hill just beyond the last row of vacant houses.

"In six months maybe 6,000,000 will be dead in Biafra and everywhere I go people are wailing about Vietnam," said Dr. H. J. Middelkoop, a Dutch doctor doing refugee work for the World Council of Churches.

Chrysanthemums Indoors

By HILDA BEASTALL

The gardener with a few late blooming chrysanthemums in the garden can use these plants as indoor decorations, if he has suitable conditions. Considering their general requirements outdoors, these late varieties will need a cool, light place, where the air is not dry and hot.

Hilda

These ideal conditions are only met in homes equipped with glassed-in sunporches or slightly heated sunrooms.

Sometimes we encounter homes with sun lounges or solariums, and these make ideal places for growing all manner of beautiful plants.

It will be seen that abundant light, space for air circulation, and sun warmth during the days, followed by cooler night temperatures constitute just about ideal conditions.

Large pots, or even gallon cans if holes for drainage are provided, will make suitable containers, and the soil should contain some rather coarse sand so that it does not become saturated.

Most chrysanthemums will require staking and tying carefully so that the effect will be pleasing.

More than moisture in the soil, the air around these plants needs to be fairly humid, but at the same time, air circulation must be active to prevent rotting of the blossoms.

When outdoor plants finally complete their period of usefulness indoors, there is the further problem of finding a place where they may safely finish their cycle of growth for the balance of the winter.

They cannot be tossed outdoors after being inside, but need the shelter of a frost-free structure, either shed, greenhouse, or protected coldframe. Preferably, it should not be the dry, fume-filled atmosphere of a garage.

'Parliament' To Govern Student Body

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A Prince George junior high school plans to model its student government after Parliament, replete with a prime minister, cabinet and a Commons of elected class representatives.

The plan is being implemented at Lakewood junior secondary school under the direction of principal Ted Lea. Each of the school's 23 home rooms will elect an "MP" who will represent them in the student government.

The election will be fought along similar lines with one or several students seeking to represent his home room "constituency."

SELECT PM

Then the 23 elected representatives will get together and select a prime minister, who will in turn oversee selection of a cabinet and executive members.

The prime minister will have an executive assistant and ministers of finance, recreation, public works and public relations. The ministers will choose their executive assistants from the remaining MPs.

The students are also considering setting up a ministry of communications, which would be responsible for production of a student newspaper.

'SUPREME COURT'

Above the student parliament would be a four-man "Supreme Court" composed of Mr. Lea, his vice-principal Jim Imrich and two other teachers.

"The spirit up to now has been marvellous," said Mr. Lea. "In the past, my feeling was that student councils were inactive.

"All they did was plan about four dances a year. Student elections in the past have just been personality contests and the people elected to do the jobs have not necessarily been those best qualified."

Mr. Lea said that if all goes well, the new plan should be in effect by Christmas.

FLASHBACK ON CANADA

'Theatre of Neptune' Dramatic Welcome

By BOB BOWMAN

Drama in Canada has been making good progress in recent years, but took a long time to arrive when it is considered that the first Canadian play was performed Nov. 14, 1606. The author was Marc Lescarbot who was also Canada's first historian.

Bowman

Lescarbot, a young Paris lawyer, crossed the Atlantic with the Poutrincourt-Champlain expedition of 1606, which settled at Port Royal, now Annapolis Royal, N.S. He described the area as being the most beautiful in the world with its forest-clad hills, rivers flowing through valleys, and abundance of game and fish. Lescarbot dreamed of the day when thousands of hungry people in France might be able to settle there.

The expedition arrived at Port Royal in July and Champlain and Poutrincourt decided to do some exploring. They sailed south as far as Nantucket Island, but it was slow work and their long absence caused considerable anxiety in Port Royal. However, Lescarbot prepared a great welcome for them.

When the ship appeared in Port Royal basin, Lescarbot went out to meet it. He was dressed as King Neptune, and his floating chariot was drawn by six Tritons. Other members of the Port Royal colony, Frenchmen and Indians, were in other small boats and formed the audience while Lescarbot read a dramatic poem he had written.

So Canadian theatre was born. Frontenac and Cadillac produced plays at Quebec in 1690 but they were not originals. Their purpose, as advertised, was to entertain the garrison through the long winter, but there was also an ulterior motive. Bishop St. Vallier did not approve of drama unless it was carefully censored and Frontenac and Cadillac liked to annoy him!

The "Theatre of Neptune" has been perpetuated by a dramatic group in Halifax.

Other events Nov. 14:

1684—Bishop Laval sailed from Quebec to resign.

1775—U.S. General Benedict Arnold demanded Quebec to surrender.

1954—Premier Mendies-France of France visited Quebec and Ottawa until Nov. 17.

1957—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced $125 million power development for Maritimes.

1962—Sioux Rock, depicting Indian legend, was found at Port Arthur.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mark Steinberg, age 12, of Des Moines, Iowa, for his question:

What do we know about element 104?

When nuclear researchers find element 104, its atoms are not likely to stay around long enough to say Hello. They will be huge and heavy and highly unstable. Nobody has predicted the precise half life of this element, but its radioactive atoms are expected to break apart and decay into smaller atoms in the merest fraction of a moment.

Nature uses 92 different atoms to make and remake the solids, liquids and gases normally present in our world. Nuclear physicists have created more elements in atom smashers and added eleven synthetic ones to the list. There was no problem in identifying these newcomers. The experts knew exactly where each should be placed on the Periodic Table of elements. In fact, a slot on this precise chart was waiting for each one of them. The last of the eleven lawrencium, was identified in 1961 and promptly placed in the square reserved for element number 103. Only a few of its heavy radioactive atoms have been found and they quickly decay into smaller atoms of other elements.

The atomic number spells out the number of protons in an atom's nucleus. Normally this number of positive particles is balanced by an equal number of negatively charged electrons orbiting the nucleus. The number of electrons increases with the number of protons and the nuclei of increasingly large atoms are stuffed with increasing numbers of neutrons. The chemical nature and behavior of an atom depends upon its electrons and the orbit shells in which they are arranged around the nucleus. The electrons determine what an element looks like, its character and how it reacts with other elements. And its number of electrons normally tallies with its atomic number of protons.

Decays Quickly

From these and other known atomic factors we can predict quite a lot about the undiscovered element number 104. Lawrencium 103 was the 15th and last member of the actinide family of elements. The extra proton in 104 will disqualify it from this chemical group. It is expected to resemble a family of transition metallic elements that includes zirconium, hafnium and titanium. These elements do not react with great chemical energy, but with other metals they form extra hard alloys. Titanium makes superb light-weight parts for supersonic air craft, and zirconium and hafrium are used to soak up surplus neutrons and control chain reaction in nuclear reactors. But Element 104 will never be used in these ways.

Larger atoms tend to be unstable, and all those with numbers higher than 92 are radioactive. Element 104 will have 104 protons plus goodness knows how many extra neutrons in its top-heavy nucleus. In a brief moment its nucleus will break into smaller pieces and in the process, some of its matter will be converted into dynamic nuclear energy.

The synthetic elements have been created in atom smashers by using atomic particles to bombard the nuclei of larger atoms. To create 103, boron nuclei were whipped to frenzied speeds and aimed at targets of californium. The boron ions have five protons apiece, the californium atoms have 98. The missiles that struck formed nuclei with 103 protons. Nuclear physicists may create element 104 by bombarding plutonium 94 with neon ions that contain 10 protons. But the heavy new atoms of 104 are expected to decay in perhaps a fraction of a second.

Andy sends a World Book Globe to Roxanna Ahmadi, age 12, of Arroyo Grande, Calif., for her question:

How do rockets differ from missiles?

A rocket may be a missile and a missile may be a rocket. But not all missiles are rockets. A missile is any kind of object hurled at a target. A rocket is an object powered by the force of jet propulsion. An arrow is a missile, so is a stone thrown at a wall or other target. A bullet is a missile and so is a cannon ball. An arrow is sent on its way by a jerk from a bow string. Muscle power is used to hurl a stone. Gunpowder and other explosive materials are used to hurl bullets and cannons.

And modern warfare has discovered a more powerful force to hurl its missiles. It is a rocket that uses a continuing stream of exploding gases to jet itself forward. Rockets can carry bombs and jet propel them to their targets. These weapons are rocket missiles. But rockets also can be used to jet propel peaceful passenger planes around the globe and spacecraft up, up and away.

HEART ATTACK KILLS PENNED COW WHALE

PENDER HARBOR (CP)—Natsidalia, a cow whale penned here by the Vancouver Aquarium, died of a heart attack last week, aquarium officials have reported.

The whale, whose Indian name means Dancing Waters, was one of three purchased by the aquarium last April. One of the whales escaped last summer and the third, a young male, remains.

Aquarium officials, who performed an autopsy on the mammal, said blood clots were found in her 40-pound heart.

She died, they believe, of old age. Whales are thought to have a life span of 30 to 50 years.

Pender Harbor is 50 miles north of Vancouver.

Thais Want Canadian School Plan Extended

EDMONTON (CP) — An Alberta-organized foreign aid project has been so successful that Thailand wants it extended for two more years beyond the planned completion of the three-year project this year.

The Canadian and Thai governments both praised the project designed to help Thailand establish a system of composite high schools.

Dr. Ivor Dent of Edmonton, project liaison officer, said in an interview that several years ago the Thai government decided to change its high school system, and chose Canada for advice.

The Canadian external aid office passed the request to the University of Alberta. The province was well along in development of composite high schools, institutions combining academic and vocational education.

THREE-POINT PLAN

Dr. H. T. Couts, dean of the U of A's education faculty, headed a team which went to Thailand, studied the needs and returned with a proposed three-part program.

Firstly, young Thai teachers would be brought to Edmonton to study educational administration, both in theory at the education faculty and in practice at the city's high schools.

Secondly, a team of four Alberta experts would be sent to advise the Thai government in efforts to set up 20 high schools.

Thirdly, the external aid branch would supply thousands of dollars worth of vocational, home economics and business-education equipment for the schools.

The project, which operates under the Colombo plan, has gone without a hitch and the Canadian government, Dr. Dent said, is "watching the program to see if it can be applied in such fields as medicine and agriculture."

Mediterranean Soviet Fleet In 'Peace Move'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — A Russian vice-admiral has defended the Soviet naval build-up in the Mediterranean and said it would guarantee peace and security in the area.

Vice-Admiral Nikolai Smirnov wrote in the Soviet defence ministry newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda that the presence of Russian ships in the Mediterranean prevented the U.S. 6th Fleet from carrying out Pentagon designs with impunity.

The presence of Soviet ships there is a certain guarantee of peace and security in the area, said the article, quoted by the Russian news agency Tass.

"The Soviet Union, which is known to be a Black Sea and hence Mediterranean power, could not remain indifferent to the machinations of lovers of military ventures which are staged in immediate proximity to the borders of the U.S.S.R. and other Socialist countries," wrote Smirnov.

The article added: "No one could be allowed to turn the Mediterranean into a breeding ground for war which could plunge mankind into a holocaust of a world nuclear catastrophe. It is this lofty and noble aim that is behind the presence of Soviet ships in the Mediterranean."

NATO Allies Prod Canada But Troop Boost Unlikely

United Appeal Progress

TODAY $478,654

NEEDED $655,000

73 PER CENT

UNITED APPEAL NEEDS BIG FINAL PUSH

By PETE LOUDON

Victoria's United Appeal campaign is nearing the brink of a $40,000 failure and is lagging behind other leading Canadian cities.

Campaign chairman Robert Hutchison, outlining the situation today called on capital region residents for one last enthusiastic push.

"We have two weeks to go. We can still make the goal if community generosity matches the self-sacrifice of our 3,000 volunteer canvassers," he stated.

The $655,000 target figure, upon which 24 district welfare and service agencies depend, today stands at 73 per cent of its objective ($478,654).

Last year at this time the goal was 89 per cent realized. If this year's drive falls short of its aim, it will be the first failure since 1965, when it was $12,000 below the mark.

●

Mr. Hutchison pointed out that Victoria's position is out of step with United Appeals generally in Canada. An official report this week said most cities are chalking up a record level of giving.

Of a national objective of $49.37 million about $43.67 already has been collected—an increase of $2.5 million over the same date in 1967.

Twelve communities have over-subscribed their drives—St. John, N.B.; Montreal, Toronto; Peel County, Ont.; Brantford; Norfolk County, Ont.; Belleville, Regina, Estevan, Weyburn, Edmonton and Calgary.

Vancouver had surpassed the 86.5 per cent mark at last count.

Why is Victoria dragging its feet in contrast to the national scene?

Mr. Hutchison said local campaigners have found that while many donors acknowledged a nine per cent increase in the goal this year, many others have given only what they gave in 1967.

He also drew attention to the fact that, although more than 60,000 persons in the capital region are gainfully employed, there are indications that only 33,000 individuals will be listed as donors.

"That's barely more than one person in two. The challenge now facing canvassers is to reach the person who hasn't yet made a contribution."

●

He said the non-donors exist in every category of the community campaign, in payroll divisions and in business, industry, residential. Mr. Hutchison was hopeful most of them would be reached in the course of the remaining period of home canvass, or that they would bring donations to central collection sites.

"There are others who have given but might be prevailed upon to give more.

"If each person gives thought to the need, we can gain on our present position," he said.

The estimated position on the closing date, Dec. 2, by careful assessment, indicates that instead of $655,000 the fund will stand at $615,000, unless there is a new spurt of enthusiasm.

Mr. Hutchison said Victoria has a reputation of being a wealthy retirement area "and in the past the campaign has relied heavily on the generosity of retired people.

"But their incomes are in many cases fixed and inflation has been hurting them at the rate of about 5 per cent each year. They have a real reason for feeling a pinch. It's perhaps the non-retired areas of the community which should be digging deeper."

●

He pointed out that any "shortfall" in collections must be reflected in curtailment of programs by member agencies of the United Appeal.

He called on all canvassers to complete outstanding calls and for all outstanding donations, to be made, within a week.

Mr. Hutchison emphasized, "There are no funds being held back to make a dramatic finish.

"There are no generous donors sitting in the wings with large gifts, to make up the difference" as has been the case in some recent years.

Meantime, Hugh Curtis, Saanich mayor and chairman of the Capital Region District also issued an appeal for renewed citizen support.

He said he found the current situation "quite alarming."

He said he believes that some donors might hold back because they don't approve of some particular agency within the United Appeal.

"To penalize 23 agencies because you have a grudge against one, is really looking for an excuse," Mayor Curtis said.

"I know that the spending of the money collected is very carefully reviewed and the work is absolutely essential.

"In view of the deficit in the campaign, I make an earnest appeal to the people of Greater Victoria to give if they have not been canvassed, and to reconsider if they have declined to donate."

Council Spelling End To Czech Democracy

PRAGUE (AP) — The central committee of Czechoslovakia's Communist party met today for a crucial session amid widespread fear that it would wipe out the final traces of the year's liberal reforms.

The committee session in Prague Castle posed another threat to party chief Alexander Dubcek, who has been fighting for political survival every day since the Soviet invasion Aug. 20.

There was speculation that old guard Communists, who want to discredit Dubcek's regime and reverse its reforms, might open the battle by challenging the right of new committee members to take their seats. The committee Aug. 31 increased its membership by 87 to give it a liberal majority, and some old-line Communists argue that this was illegal without party-wide elections.

Public foreboding about the session was fed by recent restrictions on the press and on travel abroad.

Following student meetings to plan demonstrations against any further concessions to the Soviet occupiers, Deputy Premier Gustav Husak warned Wednesday night that if "any demonstrations take place in our streets in the coming days, we shall regard them as subversive against state and party and proceed accordingly."

Husak spoke in Bratislava. In Prague student and worker groups joined forces to plan demonstrations that might be allowed because they would stay out of the streets.

The CKD traction plant, Prague's largest factory, called for special Saturday and Sunday "Dubcek shifts" in which workers and students could gather in plants. Prague radio said students and workers would meet at several other plants.

N. Vietnam Demands Cong Role in Talks

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam said today it would not negotiate with the United States unless the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is present at the table. (See story Page 52.)

It called on the United States to state clearly under what conditions it is prepared to resume the Paris peace talks.

A spokesman for Hanoi's delegation to the Paris conference said the position taken Tuesday by Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford "was ambiguous and requires urgent clarification."

Clifford told a news conference in Washington that if the Saigon government continues to boycott the talks, the United States should go ahead without it.

Wingless Craft Amazes Experts in Test Flight

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A critical test over, U.S. space officials planned today for higher and longer flights for what may be the space ferry of the future.

The HL-10 lifting body may fly again within two weeks, National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said after Wednesday's successful test of the wingless craft's manoeuvrability under sustained power.

Some NASA officials who watched the flight at Edwards Air Force Base said they believed that—reinforced, enlarged and with a heat shield—the wedge-shaped 22-foot long vehicle soon could be ready to take the place of capsules atop rocket boosters.

"I sure have a lot of confidence in that plane now," said pilot John A. Manke, a civilian research engineer after landing the HL-10 on Rogers Dry Lake here, 90 miles north of Los Angeles.

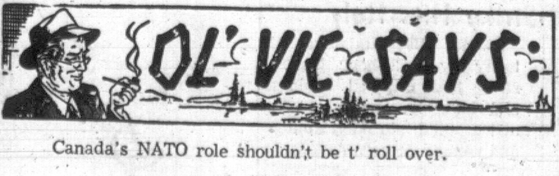
HL stands for horizontal land and 10 for the 10th design of the craft.

Dropped from the wing of a B-52 jet bomber at 40,000 feet, the HL-10 descended to 35,000 feet, then climbed to 43,250 feet as Manke, on his 37th birthday, fired two of four chambers of an 8,000-pound thrust rocket engine.

The engine burned for 184 seconds, nine times as long as in the only other powered flight Oct. 23, when only one chamber fired and the craft was unable to climb.

Six minutes after being released from the mother ship and attaining a 610-mile-an-hour maximum speed, the HL-10 was back down skimming across the baked lake bed at 200 m.p.h.

Eventual tests call for speeds of more than 1,000 m.p.h. and altitudes up to 70,000 feet. Engineers hope to demonstrate the HL-10's ability to ride into orbit, ferry as many as a dozen astronauts between space stations, and return to earth with the gliding range and manoeuvrability to give the pilot a choice of landing sites over several thousand miles.



Canada's NATO role shouldn't be t' roll over.

The man poses as a policeman and confiscates any liquor he finds.

Night Club Fracas Ends In Arrests

City police are questioning five men and a woman following a knife and gun incident at a downtown night club early this morning.

The drama began around 1 a.m. when a group of people causing a disturbance were asked to leave.

A member of the group produced a switchblade knife and inflicted a minor wound on the leg of Tony Else, manager of AJ's.

The group then left and later returned with what is described as a "large revolver."

The pistol was pointed at the head of another employee and the trigger pulled three times. The revolver did not discharge and the group left again.

Area police were notified to be on the lookout for the group.

Police arrested them at a residence on Catherine Street at about 7 this morning.

A spokesman said members of the group were still being questioned at press time and charges were pending.

Persons charged as a result of the incident will likely appear in court Friday morning.

Nixon to Hear From LBJ On Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon said today he has President Johnson's assurance—and insistence—that Nixon, the incoming president of the United States, be consulted in advance on any major foreign policy decision prior to his inauguration Jan. 20.

Nixon said that is essential so that any action taken by the current administration "will be a decision that I would have approved of and not one that I would have rejected."

He said that is the case because such decisions would be likely to carry over from the current administration to the next.

"If the United States is unable to speak with one voice it cannot speak at all" in foreign affairs, Nixon said.

Nixon announced his understanding with Johnson in naming career diplomat Robert Murphy to be his personal liaison man with the Johnson administration.

BRUSSELS—Defence Minister Leo Cadieux outlined Canada's view of the Czechoslovakia crisis to his other allies today but details of his brief were not immediately available.

It was believed Cadieux told the NATO defence planning committee that the invasion of Czechoslovakia last August did not require a beefing up of Canada's military contribution to the alliance.

He delivered his brief amid reports that the other legations were furious about Canada's "indecision" on NATO policy.

External Affairs Minister Minister Sharp, in an interview in Brussels, said practically all the countries in NATO have been prodding Canada to find out if Ottawa is planning to cut back Canadian forces.

Canada has a 5,000-man mechanized infantry brigade, four squadrons of nuclear-strike bombers and two photo-reconnaissance squadrons, all stationed in West Germany.

Prime Minister Trudeau is believed to have informed the Canadian delegation to hold the line on new commitments to NATO pending the outcome of a Canadian review of defence policy, scheduled for completion early in 1969.

NEXT YEARS

Canada is reported to be planning to cut back its NATO forces but not withdraw entirely, according to Ottawa sources. This reduction, however, likely will await next year's defence planning report.

Ottawa has failed in its efforts to reduce its defence spending.

There is $1,746,000,000 set aside for military expenditures in 1968-69, or $58 million more than in the previous fiscal year.

THREE DAYS

The United States today opened the three-day session in Brussels by assuring the NATO allies the Republican administration which takes over Jan. 20 will not alter the U.S. commitment to defend western Europe against unprovoked attack.

But at the same time, Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford and State Secretary Dean Rusk let the other NATO defence ministers know that Americans feel they are shouldering a disproportionately heavy share of the defence burden.

Norway, Denmark, West Germany, The Netherlands, Britain and the U.S. announced new contributions to NATO as a result of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August.

Rusk and Clifford apparently based their assurances of continued defence backing for Europe under the Republican administration on President-elect Richard M. Nixon's announcement that President Johnson speaks for the next administration in matters of foreign affairs.

UNFAIRLY HIGH

Defence Secretary Denis Healey of Britain noted the existence of "strong feelings" inside the United States that the U.S. share of the defence burden is unfairly high.

Lack of information on the Canadian stand to date has been reported causing concern to

NATO Envoy Resignation Yarn Denied

BRUSSELS (CP) — Ross Campbell, Canadian ambassador to NATO here, today denied saying he is considering quitting his post because of Canada's uncertain position on NATO armed forces.

"Of course I'm not considering resigning," he said in an interview after he had been quoted by a Toronto radio station as saying he had thought of doing this.

A clear exposition of Canada's commitments in European armed forces is being held up pending a review of government policy. Allies at the NATO ministerial meeting here are reported concerned at the Canadian position.

Campbell had a cocktail party for a large number of diplomats and press people Wednesday night, but said today he had made no statements whatever to reporters.

"The story is false but very embarrassing," he added.

"If I tender advice, I tender it privately to the two ministers concerned (External Affairs Minister Sharp and Defence Minister Cadieux) for the government," the ambassador said.

Sharp was drawn into the incident at a mid-morning press conference and repeated Campbell's denial that he had made any statement to the press of the kind quoted.

"If reporters go around at parties and listen in on conversations, I don't know what they'd hear me say," the minister said.

Agree On Curbs

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan and Canada have reached basic agreement on easing Canadian import curbs on Japanese goods, Japanese government sources have revealed.

The sources said annual negotiations which started in Ottawa last February had covered import quotas for certain sensitive items such as textile products, vacuum tubes and metal hardware.

They said the two countries were drafting a new agreement incorporating considerably larger quotas for synthetic textile goods, but details were not available yet.

The agreement, to be signed shortly, would go into force retroactive to last Jan. 1, they added.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Profit-Taking at N.Y.

Profit-taking hit the New York market today in active trading. The market had experienced a steady rise since the presidential election.

Industrial index at Toronto was largely unchanged from Wednesday's closing level. Volume was active.

AT TORONTO, among seasoned stocks, International Utilities fell 1⅜ to 45½, Royal Bank 1 to 24, and White Pass and Yukon ½ to 25½. Cominco was ⅞ and Falconbridge ¾ to 98½.

In the speculative list, Nabors Drilling rose 2½ to 17½, Hugh Russell 1¼ to 15½, Fleetwood 1¼ to 23¾ and Salada 1⅛ to 14⅝.

Dylex Diversified dropped 5⅜ to 63 and Shully's Industries 2 to 18½.

The heaviest traders were Revenue Properties, down ⅜ to 19¼, Trizec, up 5 cents to $3.05, and Consolidated Building, up 5 cents to $4.60.

Dominion Stores fell ½ to 16 after reporting slightly lower half-yearly earnings. Famous Players was up ½ to 64½ on news of improved nine-month earnings.

Southam advanced ½ to 57.

AT NEW YORK disconcerting weakness in Chrysler gave the jim-pams to analysts and customers. The stock was down another couple of points after its loss of 1⅝ Wednesday as the most-active stock.

The Street was puzzled as to the exact reason for the selling pressure on Chrysler. Other auto stocks were weak. General Motors and Ford slipped about 1½ each. American Motors, recently rallying strongly in dramatic breakout action, took a fractional loss.

AT MONTREAL industrials and utilities topped yearly highs in brisk trading today. Banks and papers were off.

Among the most active traders, Salada Foods climbed 1½ to 14½, Bell Canada ⅜ to 46⅞, Price ⅛ to 12¾ and Trizec 5 cents to $3.05. Bank of Montreal lost ¼ to 16⅜.

Canadian International Power gained 1¼ to 29¾, and Corby A 1 to 36½. Canada Cement fell 1¼ to 33¾, and Southam 1 to 57. Canadian Hydrocarbons added ⅞ to 22⅜.

AT LONDON the upward trend of stock markets was halted today. Leading industrials ran into profit-taking.

Dollar stocks were frequently better on the overnight trans-Atlantic gains.

Imperial Oil was the best mover among Canadians, adding $6 to 216. Dome, Trans-Canada Pipe and Hollinger also went ahead.

Gold shares advanced on a broad front in line with the higher metal price.

AT VANCOUVER mining issues were generally strong in active pre-noon trading.

Buttle Lake continued to soar and gained 45 cents to $4.05 on a turnover of 126,000 shares. Northwest Ventures gained 29 cents on 127,000 shares and Magnum was 20 cents better at $3.75.

Copper Ridge was 12 cents better at $2.12, but Arctic dipped 18 cents $1.86 and New Privateer fell two cents to .23.

In the industrials, Captain gained 25 cents to $11.25 and EDP was $1.25 better at $22.75. Great National Lands lost 15 cents to $2.90.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trade tapered off in all commodities on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Declines developed in flax on lack of buying interest. Almost all futures moved to levels fractionally under the Wednesday close.

Some liquidation continued in rapeseed.

Oats and barley were steady on a limited domestic shipper trade. Canadian wheat board hedges were moderately absorbed by domestic shippers buying for eastern feeders.

Rye continued a light trade, mostly intermonth spreading, with a small amount of buying interest by exporters.

Lakehead prices for class two IWA and domestic wheat were down one cent on No. 4 northern and lower.

Pound Suffers Beating

LONDON (Reuters) — The pound lost heavily on the foreign exchange market here today as dealers assessed the effect on the British economy of a doubling of the overseas trade deficit announced Wednesday.

Thursday is always a bad day for British currency because of extra risks involved in buying sufficient supplies to last until after the weekend. Normally, a drop of eight points is not treated as exceptional.

However, the rate opened today 15 points below Wednesday's close of $2.3891 U.S. and immediately started to drop. After two hours it was down to $2.3871.

Apart from the problem of the bigger British trade deficit, dealers attributed the depression today to uncertainty over the French economic outlook.

In the London bullion market the gold price dropped by 12.5 cents an ounce to $39.75 U.S.

Dealers attributed the decline to a fair amount of bullion being offered for sale from the continent.

New Autos Sell Well

DETROIT (UPI) — Continued consumer acceptance of the new 1969 model autos helped push sales during the first 10 days of November slightly ahead of the same period last year, according to car makers.

The optimistic sales report by the big four car makers followed a record October.

The four major automakers, in their 10-day sales report, said 209,505 cars were sold in the first 10 days of the month compared with 206,810 in the same period of 1967. The figures were not directly comparable, however, because there were only eight selling days this year compared with nine in the same period last year.

Labor difficulties also prevented a direct comparison.

Ford Motor Co. sales were up 227 per cent in the first 10 days with sales of 55,139 cars compared with 18,938 last year, General Motors Corp. sales declined to 116,103 from 143,219 last year, Chrysler Corp. sales were off slightly—32,515 this year, compared with 38,906 in the year-ago period, and American Motors Corp. reported it sold 5,748 cars between Nov. 1-10 compared with 5,702 in the same period in 1967.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOV. 14, 1968—PAGE 17

Arthur Mayse

There are some problems that our communities haven't yet solved, as witness the fact that about 85 separate dogfights are going on in this province over a single issue. The combatants are school boards that don't propose to shell out a salary nickel more than they have to, and teachers who seek generous pay-raises.

Don't look for heroes in this annual struggle, or for villains, either. Each side argues according to its necessities and convictions.

But the victim isn't hard to find. He's the property owner, whose tax on house and land must foot the salary bill. This fact leads to some hasty reactions, often picturesquely expressed. One that came my way this week edits out like this:

"Those blasted teachers are out to bleed us white!"

They aren't, and in any case, it's a foregone conclusion that the 8 per cent hike which Greater Victoria school district teachers currently seek will be whittled down considerably before a settlement is reached.

What does strike me as strange is that the citizen from whom teachers' demands provoked the above grumble arrives at his own raises through a similar bargaining process.

At least, it looks similar. There are, however, significant differences—and here, I think we come to the root of the trouble.

His services are paid for by a private employer, but the teacher must rely for his living on the community.

★

We are carrying a heavy load. School costs, among which teachers' salaries figure prominently, account for approximately half of our property tax.

This makes the teacher a handy target, especially when he asks for more money.

I am not out to glorify our teachers, and far be it from me to claim that their clan is without its blemishes. There are in some classrooms those whose presence can only be excused by the teacher shortage, and who will probably be fighting all modern educational concepts long after that shortage is past.

But let me also point out that for every misfit we are blessed with dozens of sound teachers who more than earn their pay. They are professionals, and they have committed themselves for their working lives to one of the hardest and most challenging careers on the list.

They are paid on a scale that takes into account their professional training and, up to a point, their years of service. Their work-day does not end with the final buzzer; in fact I have wondered more than once just when it does end.

To assert that such men and women as these are overpaid, or even in danger of approaching that condition, is to deny their skills and their vital role.

★

Education of a community's boys and girls is not a duty that can be neglected, even though it does mean a bill to the property owner of dismaying proportions.

What I object to is the method by which the necessary revenue is raised.

I have no good word to say for a school tax that lumps the retired in with the wage-earner, and that may extract more from the couple on pension than from the two-job family.

Not even the argument that it works well can be mustered for this particular tax.

In addition to oppressing those who can least afford to pay, it overlooks too many of those who can. Designed as a rural revenue-producer, it creaks horribly when applied to city or suburban use.

The place for school tax is on income, and I think the sooner it becomes a fairly apportioned provincial charge against earnings, the better for all our hard-pressed municipalities.

It is too much to expect that the needed change, when it eventually arrives, will end the tug-of-war between teachers who feel they deserve more and the custodians of the public purse-strings.

But the home-owner caught in the middle will escape with less of a trampling!

COLLEGE TENDERS READY

Tenders on a $1.5 million residence college for the University of Victoria will be opened Friday afternoon.

Called more than a month ago for the six-unit building, tenders will be inspected in the office of campus planner Arthur Webb.

The college, named after the old Lansdowne campus and a complement to the existing Craigdarroch College, will house 150 men and 150 women.

When opened — with a target date of September, 1969 — it will double the university's residence accommodation.

Lansdowne College will be part of the co-curricular college system at Uvic with 600 off-campus members in addition to those living in.

It will be connected to the $2 million commons block now nearing completion.

School Board In City Forced To Arbitration

Saanich Peninsula school trustees and teachers appeared on the brink of a contract settlement this morning but negotiators in Greater Victoria will go to compulsory binding arbitration.

The 197 teachers in the peninsula's 18 schools are asking for a 5.9 per cent average salary increase, while the school board is offering 5.5 per cent.

Indications are that a saw-off settlement could be reached today.

Compulsory arbitration is required by law after midnight tonight and contracts covering the 19,000 teachers in B.C.'s 83 school districts must be signed by Dec. 31. (See story Page 16.)

DIRECT BARGAINING

The Saanich school board, which has a record for amicable contract negotiations, is the only one of four in the area this year where trustees are bargaining directly with teachers.

Lawyer E. E. Pearlman, a labor contract specialist, is negotiating for the Greater Victoria, Sooke and Gulf Islands school boards.

The Greater Victoria school district, where there are 1,260 teachers involved, is scene of the key debate and both sides were meeting with a conciliation officer this morning. Talks broke off at 11:35 a.m.

It is likely the compulsory settlement arrived at in Greater Victoria would apply in the Sooke and Gulf Islands districts too.

BOARD 'WAITING'

Bargaining stalled locally after teachers dropped their salary increase request from 10.17 to 8 per cent but the board refused to counter with an offer of its own, claiming it was waiting for a "reasonable" offer by teachers.

The school board's stand has miffed the teachers.

"The reasons we give for our proposals are neither refuted nor accepted but simply ignored," said Burke Cahill this morning. He is a high school teacher at Mount Douglas and the teachers' negotiator.

He said trustees are ignoring their local responsibility by just eyeing province-wide negotiation developments.

Mr. Pearlman said today there appears to be a province-wide pattern developing with settlements between 5.2 and 6 per cent.

He did point out that bargaining can continue after the deadline. An arbitration board could simply confirm any agreement trustees and teachers reach.

THIS is the section of medical laboratory at Royal Jubilee Hospital where the pathologist does cancer diagnosis. It is also the office where he directs the operations of the lab's 72-member staff; it is used as a data-processing centre, with a data processer and assistant, and it is used by the lab's chief technician. Pathologist and lab director, Dr. K. R. Thornton, right, discusses expansion of facilities now under way with Cliff Brown, executive assistant to the hospital's director.

'Appalling Conditions' To End With New Lab

A $625,999 expansion and renovation of laboratory facilities under way at Royal Jubilee Hospital will overcome what the laboratory director calls "conditions of appalling difficulty."

Dr. K. R. Thornton today showed how some critically-timed chemical tests, at the halfway mark, have to be taken from one building, across a driveway and up five floors to another chemistry section.

"You get desperate when the elevator doesn't come," the 42-year-old pathologist said.

He pointed around the lab where tuberculosis testing is done for the regional district.

BROKEN TILES

"This ia a good lab — spacious, airy and falling to bits." It is an abandoned operating room with cracked-plaster joints and squares of porcelain tile broken from the walls.

When the new facilities are ready, about a year from now, the hospital will double its lab space to 20,000 square feet.

Most of the work involves turning the hospital's fourth-floor roof into the floor of a fifth-storey laboratory. That $332,000 job will be linked to present fifth-floor facilities to be renovated at a cost of $237,000.

Centre of the present lab is a separate building constructed in 1951 for $110,000 and expected to meet the hospital's needs "for many years to come."

SHORT ON SEATS

"Right now," said the blunt-spoken lab director, "we haven't even got enough microscopes or seats for all the technicians."

A $12,000 spectrophotometer, vital to detecting many forms of heart disease, is supposed to be housed in a separate, air-conditioned room. It sits now in a corridor behind half-partitions.

The technicians, most of them girls, drink their coffee in another corridor beside the room where an autopsy was under way this morning.

"This is supposed to be a modern scientific laboratory," said Dr. Thornton. "And we have thousands of dollars of equipment in pokey little rooms."

CONVERTED WASHROOMS

In pokey little rooms and in what used to be storage closets, in converted washrooms, in unlit basement passageways and in rooms where outside doors are left open to keep technicians from being overcome by fumes.

He said that in the last few years the laboratory business had grown faster than any other section of a hospital.

Only 10 years ago, two square feet of lab space for each hospital bed was considered adequate, now at least 20 to 30 square feet is needed.

The Agnew-Peckham report on Victoria's long-range hospital needs had strong criticism of the Jubilee lab:

"Laboratory facilities now are inadequate and require considerable expansion and integration with the hospital complex." The hospital should plan for a doubling of its lab space every 8 to 10 years.

'POWERFUL TOOLS'

Labs traditionally started from a deficit position as basement operations where doctors used to seek confirmation of their diagnoses," said Dr. Thornton.

"Labs now are powerful, direct diagnostic tools."

A bronchial pneumonia patient used to be put to bed, given oxygen and left to ride it out. Where not one test used to be taken, the patients now receive eight or nine.

"People used to die of bronchial pneumonia," he said. Such a death is rare nowadays.

BED SHORTAGE

Because of the bed shortage, a "ruthless selecting of patient" goes on. Constant monitoring of many conditions permits an increase in outpatient treatment.

Besides looking after its own hospital, the Jubilee lab also handles all public health testing for Greater Victoria and does a heavy referral business from other hospitals in the region.

The work is being done, said Mr. Thornton. "We keep up by breaking people's backs."

OIL, GAS PERMITS BRING $4.9 MILLION

The provincial government garnered $4.9 million in the second biggest auction of oil and gas exploration rights since mid-1966, the mines department announced today.

It received $49,062 from statutory fees and $4,892,906 in bonus bids from 32 oil companies on some 455,168 acres of crown reserve in the Peace River area.

At the same time, Mines Minister Richter announced four oil companies have been given exploration permits on 5.2 million acres which was not reserved in the virgin area around Stewart and along the Stewart-Cassiar highway route.

A strike there could shift the oil spotlight to the province's northwest which is on the verge of being opened up with completion soon of the highway, anticipated development of Stewart as the most northerly port and the announced plan to extend the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Stewart.

Today's auction results bring total revenues from four sales of exploration rights in crown reserves to $15,007,020 for the year and the cumulative total revenue since 1953 to $123.8 million.

It was announced the first 1969 auction will be held Jan. 22.

New B.C. Bank Opens Here Against Odds

Skepticism and hostility had to be overcome before a British Columbia bank became reality, Mayor Hugh Stephen told an opening day crowd at the Bank of British Columbia's third branch.

Mayor Stephen joined bank officials A. E. Hall, president, and R. B. Burton, general manager in ceremonies at the bank's new Douglas and Johnson premises, first of two planned for the capital.

Skepticism and hostility are "the enivitable partners of change and innovation," the mayor said.

'STUBBORN FAITH'

"That the bank has been able successfully to overcome these obstacles is due, in large measure, to the stubborn faith which from its inception it inspired in a few men of vision and courage. Among them, I am proud to say, were several from our own community."

The Bank of B.C., promoted in large part by Premier Bennett, drew on two principal convictions, Mayor Stephen said. The first is the free enterprise system's ability to draw allegiance through expanding freedom of choice in economic decisions.

He said that while lip-service to this tenet is expressed, often the financial institutions resist in favor of the status quo.

The second principle is stature of B.C in the industrial and commercial affairs of Canada, which warrants a bank bearing the name of the province, based in this province, he said.

Sooke Fatality Brings Inquest

An inquest into the death of Robert Aubrey, 19, 2426 Sooke Road, who died Tuesday following a truck-motorcycle crash, will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Victoria Law Courts.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 11 a.m., at Sands Chapel of the Heather in Colwood.

Renewal Tenders Called

It's official — the call for design and construction proposals for 180 housing units in the Rose-Blanshard area went out today.

Deadline for the sealed tenders has been set at 2 p.m., Thursday, Jan 9.

Each tender must be accompanied by a 10 per cent bid bond or a security deposit of 10 per cent of the tender where the tender does not exceed $250,000 plus five per cent of the amount by which the tender does exceed $250,000.

Estimated cost of the housing project has been set at $2.7 million with the maximum security deposit required by any one tender set at $100,000.

HIGH STANDARDS

Following receipt of the sealed tenders the design proposals—which B.C. architects have pledged not to work on—will be studied by Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation, provincial and Victoria city authorities to ensure high standards of construction.

If there are no serious delays, construction could start in late January with the first homes ready for occupancy by summer.

But even with the major hurdles now cleared for Victoria's first low-rental housing project, many still fear the elimination of architects from the design pahse of the project could still result in an instant slum.

At the Centennial United Church Wednesday, Ron Pollard, a team worker with the Children's Aid Society, speaking on the challenge of urban renewal, said there was always the danger that a housing estate could become a ghetto.

"When you assemble poor families in one area, you've got a ghetto," he said. "It's a nice looking ghetto, but it's a ghetto."

LOW DENSITY

City planner Geoff Greenhalgh told the meeting the occupancy density of the new housing area would be approximately half that of conventional apartments.

Mr. Greenhalgh also appealed for a change in attitude by Canadians towards single family dwellings.

"We have to get away from the Canadian holy-cow of single family dwellings," he said. "you can't build a city of them. There is a crying need for row housing, town houses and terrace housing."

He also asked for criticism of the Rose-Blanshard project to be reserved until contractors proposals are studied.

"I don't think we can criticize it until we see it," he said. "it (the project) is tailored to the particular site and to Victoria."

CITY HUNTER FOUND NEAR KELSEY

A Victoria hunter, missing since Monday in dense bushland near Kelsey Bay, 50 miles north of Campbell River, was found today by volunteer searchers.

Rescuers said Robert Knowles, 25, of 250 Oswego, was cold and wet when found. He was without matches and was wearing only light clothing.

He was spotted at 10 a.m., apparently in a near-exhausted condition.

A search was launched Tuesday when Knowles failed to return to his car.

One hundred searchers and a helicopter Wednesday fanned out over a wide area in search of the mising man, but only found a pair of yellow pants in the bush. RCMP believed he had discarded them because they were ripped.

A tracking dog was used by one group of searchers but the search had to be abandoned at night due to snow which made it impossible for the dog to pick up the trail.

This morning the search was resumed by 30 searchers, including five RCMP, personnel from provincial forestry office and MacMillan Bloedel employees.

Ask The Times

Q. Is there a law which makes certain statutory holidays necessary in business and industry?

A. According to the Statutes of British Columbia nine days of the year are general or statutory holidays and every full-time employee is entitled to them. However agreements with trade unions or bodies representing employees may legislate how these holidays be given, i.e. time off or pay.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Best Bargains Go to the Needy

By PETE LOUDON

One day a woman picked up a pair of earrings at St. Vincent De Paul Store on Johnson for 10 cents.

She took them to a jeweller for appraisal, sold them to him for $40 and came back to gloat about it.

That hurt. The Roman Catholic organization which sponsors the store does it to raise funds for charity and as a collection centre for goods and clothing which are given to people in need.

Manager Ben Caron winces a bit when he tells the story.

"It made us smarter," he says.

●

The store now has a volunteer worker who spends hours in the library researching antiques so a more realistic price can be applied to "hot demand" items.

Now when someone comes in looking for an old-fashioned gladiron (the forerunner to the electric iron which you heated on the stove) nobody is fooled by the remark, "I just want it for a door stop."

●

Gladirons are antiques now. St. Vincents asks $3 for them when they are available. Even at that, they are a good buy.

Good buys are the rule at the topsy turvy store in the run-down old building near the Johnson Street fishboat floats. But the best bargains fall to the people who need them.

Ben Caron has a sympathy for native Indians. He doesn't think they get a good deal from life. So he usually gives them fifty per cent off.

If the customer is broke, regardless of race, religion or the way he grows his hair, he gets what he needs free. Then Ben steers him to Benedict Lodge, 2315 Fernwood, where he can also get a free meal.

Ben Caron has a back room with a coffee pot hot all day. Many a Johnson Street character puts in a cold afternoon there. Sometimes there'll be a hippy or two, unwelcome elsewhere, who dropped in to look for some love beads or an old uniform jacket.

"They've always been polite and willing to pay ... no problem for us."

●

That's more than Ben can say about some of the well-dressed matrons who bring in razor blades and nip off with buttons from donated dresses or furs from coats on the welfare rack.

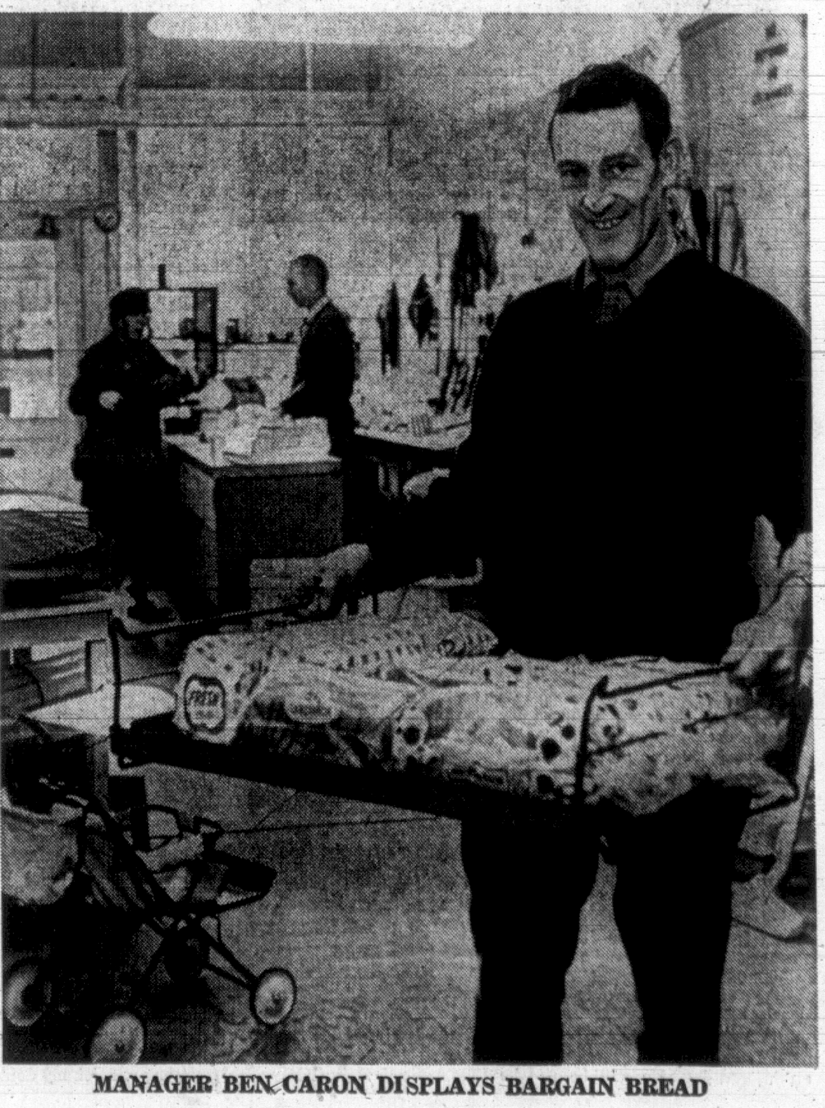
Down-and-out students and room-and-hotplate pensioners get books at St. Vincent De Pauls — average price 10 cents each. People trying to stretch a buck get day-old bread — 700 loaves a week marked down from 26 to 14 cents.

●

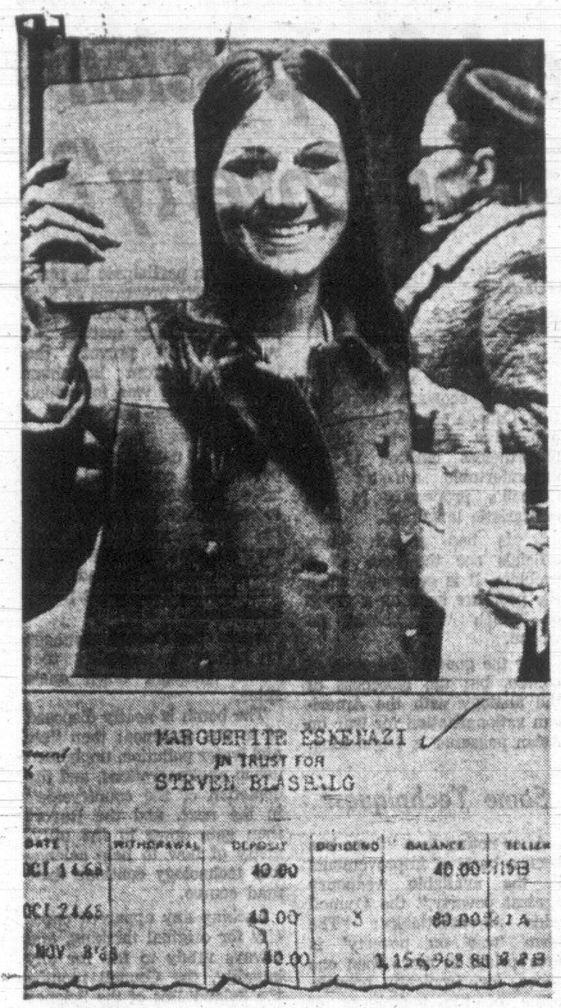
There are golf balls 10 cents to 20 cents and there's a cricket set complete, for $9.95. There's a shoe rack too, but they are mostly for emergencies. In Victoria, unlike some centres, "people wear their shoes until the socks show."

St. Vincents isn't geared to show a profit and any it does collect goes into the pot for people in need. Twice in the last year they've been first to answer when fire or tragedy hit local families.

That's why United Appeal contributes $5,570 of the society's $8,570 budget. That's another reason so many people give to United Appeal.



MANAGER BEN CARON DISPLAYS BARGAIN BREAD



COMPUTER error made Marguerite Eskenazi, 19, of Brooklyn, a millianaire over night. When she deposited $40 in her savings account the balance came out in her book at $1,156,968.80. On showing the book to the bank manager he said: "We have a repair card on this machine. It's supposed to beep-beep when anyone makes a deposit. I guess it didn't beep-beep." (AP Wirephoto.)

Navy Veteran Killed By Chesterfield Fire

A 56-year-old retired navy veteran died in a chesterfield fire at his Esquimalt apartment Tursday.

Robert James Cameron, 512 Constance, became the first person to die in a fire in the Greater Victoria area this year.

In another incident, two small children were taken to hospital and later released following a dresser fire late Tuesday night.

Police said today the fire in Mr. Cameron's apartment, a two-room suite in an old house, was caused by a cigarette igniting a chesterfield used as a bed.

Damage to the upstairs suite was estimated unofficially at between $1,000 and $1,500. Police said portions of the roof were burnt and there was a lot of smoke damage.

No one else was in the suite but other persons were in the house. The alarm was turned in at 10:26 a.m. by an occupant of a downstairs suite.

NO AUTOPSY EXPECTED

The blaze was under control within an hour.

An autopsy is being held today but it is not expected an inquest will be held.

Police said he was survived by his wife Molly, two sons, Douglas and Dennis, three daughters, Nancy, Kathryn and Ruby, and nine grandchildren. Mr. Cameron, who served in the navy for 21 years, retired nearly 15 years ago and was not working. Funeral services will be at McCall Bros. Saturday at 10:15 a.m.

In the other fire, a candle operated vaporizer overheated and burnt a dresser in an apartment building at 850 Admirals Road.

Two children, Christana Easton, 11 months, and Keri-Lee, four years, were taken to hospital after inhaling smoke from the small blaze.

Mother of the youngsters, Mrs. Margaret Easton told police she was awakened by the baby's crying and discovered the apartment was filled with smoke.

Police said the dresser contained plastic toys which gave off heavy smoke.

Forest Service Pioneer Buried At White Rock

Funeral services were held today in White Rock for pioneer member of the B.C. forest service and co-founder of Forest Industrial Relations.

R. V. Stuart died Sunday. He was 79.

Mr. Stuart joined B.C. forest services in 1914 and was appointed regional forester for the Vancouver forest district.

He was later made manager of the B.C. Loggers Association and represented Forest Industries of B.C. as a director in Washington and Ottawa.

In 1941, Mr. Stuart started the first industry-wide bargaining agency on behalf of management in Canada. His company was called Stuart Research Ltd. and was forerunner to Forest Industrial Relations.

Mr. Stuart was the first president of FIR and when it was the largest negotiating bureau for any industry in Canada.

He retired a few years ago in White Rock.

Mr. Stuart is survived by his wife, daughter and one son.

POLICE CORPS UNARMS BOMB

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police bomb experts were called to an east-end Domtar Ltd. plant today to remove a powerful explosive device found tied under a trailer truck.

The bomb, made of seven sticks of dynamite, was discovered by a driver as he was about to hitch his cab to the 45-foot long trailer.

Police said the bomb may have been placed by sympathizers of the workers on strike at Domtar plants in East Angus and Windsor, Que.

Canada Airlift Grounded Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Caribou airlift of food for starving Biafrans may never get off the ground, it was learned today.

Prime Minister Trudeau last Friday told the Commons two Canadian forces Caribou aircraft would replace the Hercules aircraft Canada loaned the International Red Cross in its efforts to distribute relief supplies to victims of the Nigerian civil war.

On Monday, the external affairs department said the Red Cross in Nigeria had asked Canada to hold back "a couple of days" before sending the two Caribou on their nine-hour flight to Lagos. No explanation was given for the reqest.

However, it was learned today that the Red Cross is concerned with the cost of such an operation which one informed source said would be "10 times" more expensive than using trucks.

It now is possible, the source said, that the Caribou never will be called upon to make the flight to Nigeria.

The Caribou can carry up to 6,800 pounds over short ranges but normally carries about 4,000 pounds. It is a twin-engine, high-wing transport designed for use on short runways. It can take off fully loaded from less than 500 feet of rough terrain.

It was for this reason that it was decided to use them to replace the four heavier Hercules aircraft in the airlift. Airstrips in the interior of Nigeria are not considered adequate for the bigger planes and some of the airfields have been shot up by strafing fighters.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Profit-Taking at N.Y.

Profit-taking hit the New York market today in active trading. The market had experienced a steady rise since the presidential election.

Industrial index at Toronto was largely unchanged from Wednesday's closing level. Volume was active.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, International Utilities fell 1⅞ to 45, Shully's Industries 1⅞ to 18⅝, Revenue Properties ¾ to 18⅞ and Bank of Montreal ⅜ to 16¼. Nabors Drilling was up 2½ to 17½ and Du Pont 2¼ to 37¼.

Pine Point gained 1 to 43½, Bethlehem Copper ⅞ to 17½ and Aetna Investments 70 cents to $3.60. Lake Dufault lost 50 cents to $7.15 and Placer ½ to 33¾.

Canadian Gridoil fell ¾ to 14, Chieftain Developments 50 cents to $9.30 and United Canso 30 cents to $6.10. Charter Oil was up 1¾ to 16.

AT NEW YORK disconcerting weakness in Chrysler gave the jm-jams to analysts and customers. The stock was down another couple of points after its loss of 1⅝ Wednesday as the most-active stock.

The Street was puzzled as to the exact reason for the selling pressure on Chrysler. Other auto stocks were weak. General Motors and Ford slipped about 1½ each. American Motors, recently rallying strongly in dramatic breakout action, took a fractional loss.

AT MONTREAL industrials and utilities topped yearly highs in brisk trading today. Banks and papers were off.

Among the most active traders, eSalada Foods climbed 1⅛ to 14½, Bell Canada ⅜ to 46⅞, Price ⅛ to 12¼ and Trizec 5 cents to $3.05. Bank of Montreal lost ¼ to 16⅝.

Canadian International Power gained 1¼ to 29¾, and Corby A 1 to 36½. Canada Cement fell 1¼ to 33¾, and Southam 1 to 57. Canadian Hydrocarbons added ⅞ to 22⅝.

AT VANCOUVER mining issues were generally strong in active pre-noon trading.

Buttle Lake continued to soar and gained 45 cents to $4.05 on a turnover of 126,000 shares. Northwest Ventures gained 29 cents on 127,000 shares and Magnum was 20 cents better at $3.75.

Copper Ridge was 12 cents better at $2.12, but Arctic dipped 18 cents $1.86 and New Privateer fell two cents to .23.

In the industrials, Captain gained 25 cents to $11.25 and EDP was $1.25 better at $22.75. Great National Lands lost 15 cents to $2.90.

Pound Suffers Beating

LONDON (Reuters) — The pound lost heavily on the foreign exchange market here today as dealers assessed the effect on the British economy of a doubling of the overseas trade deficit announced Wednesday.

Thursday is always a bad day for British currency because of extra risks involved in buying sufficient supplies to last until after the weekend. Normally, a drop of eight points is not treated as exceptional.

However, the rate opened today 15 points below Wednesday's close of $2.3891 U.S. and immediately started to drop. After two hours it was down to $2.3871.

Apart from the problem of the bigger British trade deficit, dealers attributed the depression today to uncertainty over the French economic outlook.

In the London bullion market the gold price dropped by 12.5 cents an ounce to $39.75 U.S.

Dealers attributed the decline to a fair amount of bullion being offered for sale from the continent.

New Autos Sell Well

DETROIT (UPI) — Continued consumer acceptance of the new 1969 model autos helped push sales during the first 10 days of November slightly ahead of the same period last year, according to car makers.

The optimistic sales report by the big four car makers followed a record October.

The four major automakers, in their 10-day sales report, said 209,505 cars were sold in the first 10 days of the month compared with 206,810 in the same period of 1967. The figures were not directly comparable, however, because there were only eight selling days this year compared with nine in the same period last year.

Labor difficuties also prevented a direct comparison.

Ford Motor Co. sales were up 227 per cent in the first 10 days with sales of 55,139 cars compared with 18,938 last year, General Motors Corp. sales declined to 116,103 from 143,219 last year, Chrysler Corp. sales were off slightly—32,515 this year, compared with 38,906 in the year-ago period, and American Motors Corp. reported it sold 5,748 cars between Nov. 1-10 compared with 5,702 in the same period in 1967.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Profit-Taking at N.Y.

Profit-taking hit the New York market today in active trading. The market had experienced a steady rise since the presidential election.

Industrial index at Toronto was largely unchanged from Wednesday's closing level. Volume was active.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, International Utilities fell 1⅞ to 45, Shully's Industries 1⅞ to 18⅝, Revenue Properties ¾ to 18⅞ and Bank of Montreal ⅜ to 16¼. Nabors Drilling was up 2½ to 17½ and Du Pont 2¼ to 37¼.

Pine Point gained 1 to 43½, Bethlehem Copper ⅞ to 17½ and Aetna Investments 70 cents to $3.60. Lake Dufault lost 50 cents to $7.15 and Placer ½ to 33¾.

Canadian Gridoil fell ¾ to 14, Chieftain Developments 50 cents to $9.30 and United Canso 30 cents to $6.10. Charter Oil was up 1⅝ to 16.

AT NEW YORK disconcerting weakness in Chrysler gave the jm-jams to analysts and customers. The stock was down another couple of points after its loss of 1⅝ Wednesday as the most-active stock.

The Street was puzzled as to the exact reason for the selling pressure on Chrysler. Other auto stocks were weak. General Motors and Ford slipped about 1½ each. American Motors, recently rallying strongly in dramatic breakout action, took a fractional loss.

AT MONTREAL industrials and utilities topped yearly highs in brisk trading today. Banks and papers were off.

Among the most active traders, eSalada Foods climbed 1⅛ to 14½, Bell Canada ⅜ to 46⅞, Price ⅛ to 12¾ and Trizec 5 cents to $3.05. Bank of Montreal lost ¼ to 16⅜.

Canadian International Power gained 1¼ to 29¾, and Corby A 1 to 36½. Canada Cement fell 1¼ to 33¾, and Southam 1 to 57. Canadian Hydrocarbons added ⅞ to 22⅝.

AT VANCOUVER mining issues were generally strong in active pre-noon trading.

Buttle Lake continued to soar and gained 45 cents to $4.05 on a turnover of 126,000 shares. Northwest Ventures gained 29 cents on 127,000 shares and Magnum was 20 cents better at $3.75.

Copper Ridge was 12 cents better at $2.12, but Arctic dipped 18 cents $1.86 and New Privateer fell two cents to .23.

In the industrials, Captain gained 25 cents to $11.25 and EDP was $1.25 better at $22.75. Great National Lands lost 15 cents to $2.90.

Pound Suffers Beating

LONDON (Reuters) — The pound lost heavily on the foreign exchange market here today as dealers assessed the effect on the British economy of a doubling of the overseas trade deficit announced Wednesday.

Thursday is always a bad day for British currency because of extra risks involved in buying sufficient supplies to last until after the weekend. Normally, a drop of eight points is not treated as exceptional.

However, the rate opened today 15 points below Wednesday's close of $2.3891 U.S. and immediately started to drop. After two hours it was down to $2.3871.

Apart from the problem of the bigger British trade deficit, dealers attributed the depression today to uncertainty over the French economic outlook.

In the London bullion market the gold price dropped by 12.5 cents an ounce to $39.75 U.S.

Dealers attributed the decline to a fair amount of bullion being offered for sale from the continent.
